Who Murdered 32 Iraqi Children? (Truth Comes Out)

By: Layth on: 17.07.2005 [09:39] (1517 reads)

An independent investigation of the murder last week of 32 Iraqi children has been conducted by a local Iraqi news location (Mufakirat Al-Islam / Islammemo.cc) with results as follows:

http://www.islammemo.cc/taqrer/one_news.asp?IDnews=457

The writing is in Arabic, so I will translate some highlights for non-Arabic speakers:

- All major Iraqi Resistance groups issued joint written communiqué that was distributed on Thursday proclaiming that this operation was not undertaken by any of the groups neither in terms of execution or planning or involvement.
- Interview with local residents of the bombing stated that US forces cordoned off the street under the pretence that a vehicle (a KIA) parked in the street was wired to explode.
- Local residents stated that the US soldiers began handing out candy and schoolbags attracting the children.
- When residents, fearing for their children, asked about the KIA car , the US soldiers said that it was a 'false alarm' and that there was no bomb (but that a couple of US soldiers remained fiddling with the car).
- Children from neighboring streets came upon hearing of the sweets and free bags (as well as a rumor that Pokemon toys were being given out).

- After a period of about 15 minutes from them entering the street, the US forces dumped the remaining toys/sweets in a pile in the middle of the street and frantically drove off hitting 4 children in the process with their vehicle.

- Seconds later, the KIA vehicle exploded killing 32 children and wounding about ten others who were gathered in the street.

- Residents also reported that, contrary to what the US military stated, there were no US casualties or injuries from this blast as the US forces had rushed out of the street just before the explosion took place.

- Information gathered from the Iraqi fire services stated that the explosion did not leave the signature traces of a TNT blast as used by the Resistance (being left over from Russian explosives used by the Iraqi army), as the TNT blast is always outward from the place of explosion and does not leave a crater as this car bomb did.

In conclusion, the evidence and interviews revealed what was obvious from the very start...That this evil crime was perpetrated by occupation forces with the objective of murdering Iraqi children and blaming the national Resistance so as to lessen its base of support (sounds like Vietnam tactics all over again - Phoenix).

May God grant peace to the dead, victory to the Resistance, and shame and retribution to the occupiers and their allies/supporters.

Typical of U.S. atrocities.

Everyone should hear of this.

Hell fire made for the USA
by Iranian-Shi'ite on 17.07.2005 [12:04]

I used to wonder why God would make a thing as terrible as Hell.

After seeing the crimes of the USA, I can see why a thing such as Hell is necessary for justice. The evils of the USA make it clear why such a thing as Hell was made.

Thanks, Layth

This must be translated into several languages, distributed and spread worldwide. It must be a small contribution against the usan's murders and lies. It's not proper to keep this information unavailable. This is one more of the terrible usan terrorist crimes.

Should it be fully translated into English, I could do the Spanish version and spread it from my country, with the arab link for anyone who wants to check the source.

US bastards
by Yasis on 17.07.2005 [14:11]

The US bastards had already caused the death of millions of Iraqi children under the sanctions regime imposed by the US bastards at the end of the 1991 Gulf war.

From the link: <http://www.davidicke.net/newsroom/america/usa/092801e.html>

Stahl: "We have heard that a half a million children have died because of sanctions against Iraq. I mean that's more children than died in Hiroshima. And--you know, is the price worth it?"

Albright: "I think this is a very hard choice, but the price--we think the price is worth it."

Day of reckoning for the american bastards will come.

lots of blame to go around

by verve on 17.07.2005 [15:40]

we, as children, were warned sternly to stay away from occupation soldiers and the RUC. Many of us who detested occupation stayed a 'stones' throw away. Palestinian children are taught to stay a stones throw away from the IDF, Iraqi parents must teach their children likewise. When soldiers hand out candy to children, the locals should evacuate the area immediately.

The blast dug a crater, I'll bet in the coming days we'll hear from locals of some seeing a rocket. Anyway, as a parent, I'd have to shoulder some of the blame for not teaching my kids proper invasion etiquette. They have had over two years to prepare the kids. Something is severely wrong with the current picture.

Candy men

by Finn on 17.07.2005 [20:58]

In my country pedofiles who "hunt" for children around schools and playgrounds are called candy men. They try to win the trust of children by giving them candy.

What ever was the the "truth" around this latest children killing is in the end Americans fault. American soldiers with children around them had been targeted already many times before. So the US soldiers knew very well that they put the children in great danger by collecting them around the military vehicles. If they would have wanted to act safely and in a decent way they could have donated the schoolbags, toys and candies directly to the local schools or dropped them in a transparent plastic bag on the street. Real children loving candy men these US soldiers.

testimony of an ex-marine

Why are privates shown videos of U.S. military massacres while playing Metallica in the background, thus causing us to scream with the joy of the killer instinct as brown bodies are obliterated? Why do privates answer every command with an enthusiastic, "kill!!!" instead of, "yes, sir!!" like it is in the movies? Why do we sing cadences like these?:

"Throw some candy in the school yard, watch the children gather round. Load a belt in your M-60, mow them little bastards down!!!" and "We're gonna rape, kill, pillage and burn, gonna rape, kill, pillage and burn!!!"

These chants are meant to motivate the troops; they enjoy it, salivate from it, and get off on it. If one repeats these hundreds of times, one eventually begins to accept them as paradigmatically valid.

Seven Palestinian Children Killed in Strawberry Fields by Israeli Anti-Personnel Shells

Israeli anti-personnel shells, which throw out thousands of metal darts in a deadly cloud that rips apart everything it encounters, killed seven children between the ages of ten and 17 in a strawberry field in northern Gaza yesterday. Dr. Mohamed Sultan of the Beit Lahiya hospital said eleven were also wounded, four critically. Two of the survivors had double leg amputations, another a single leg amputation.

the US

by verve on 18.07.2005 [01:22]

occupation of Iraq is a carbon copy of how Israel deals with Palestine. The apple doesn't fall far from the tree. Israel is providing the bulk of the lead on the merc companies working in Iraq. Both countries and all their occupants are worthy of being removed from the planet, correction, the entire universe, permanently. Toss in the imperial bastards from the house of Windsor and those who enable them to continue to destroy innocent lives and complete ecosystems all over the earth.

The USA will lose

by adil_nazeem on 18.07.2005 [03:12]

and all countries which support this war Directly/indirectly to crush Muslims Minorities in their own countries eg Philippines,Thailand,India,Chechnya,Bosnia,Kosovo will all lose.
The allies which supported the creation of ISRAEL from Palestine (France,Germany,aUSTRALIA,Usa) should all collapse .
The days of these stooges of USA /pigs who rule these countries eg India, Thailand, Australia are numbered.

I think all your comments are too nice and forgiving.

by Neal on 18.07.2005 [06:52]

The killing of children is unforgivable.
I saw those two news items and thought it was a setup.

Shit when these guys invade New Zealand I'm going to have a go.

It's time to keep the children away from these "slugs".
Too many Iraqis still love them.
