U.S. Used NAPALM In Iraq and LIED About It PIC

Posted By: ChristopherBollyn

Date: Sunday, 19 June 2005, 1:19 p.m.

Last year The Independent on Sunday (UK) quoted an American commander, Colonel James Alles of Marine Air Group 11, admitting the use of napalm in Iraq.

He said: "We napalmed both those [bridge] approaches. Unfortunately there were people there ... you could see them in the [cockpit] video. They were Iraqi soldiers. It's no great way to die. The generals love napalm. It has a big psychological effect."

The Pentagon has denied using napalm, but there is evidence from several pilots and commanders that the weapons was deployed in the advance on Baghdad, dropped near bridges over the Saddam Canal and the Tigris river, south of Baghdad.

An Australian newspaper reported a suspected napalm attack in the south of Iraq, and quoted a marine sergeant as saying: "I pity anyone who is in there. We told them to surrender."

Now, The Independent of 17 June 2005 reported that the US lied to Britain over use of napalm in Iraq. The article was written by Colin Brown, the well-respected British paper's Deputy Political Editor.

Below are the relevant paragraphs from the story:

"American officials lied to British ministers over the use of "internationally reviled" napalm-type firebombs in Iraq.

"Yesterday's disclosure led to calls by MPs for a full statement to the Commons and opened ministers to allegations that they held back the facts until after the general election.

"Despite persistent rumours of injuries among Iraqis consistent with the use of incendiary weapons such as napalm, Adam Ingram, the Defence minister, assured Labour MPs in January that US forces had not used a new generation of incendiary weapons, codenamed MK77, in Iraq.

"But Mr Ingram admitted to the Labour MP Harry Cohen in a private letter obtained by The Independent that he had inadvertently misled Parliament because he had been misinformed by the US. 'The US confirmed to my officials that they had not used MK77s in Iraq at any time and this was the basis of my response to you,' he told Mr Cohen. 'I regret to say that I have since discovered that this is not the case and must now correct the position.'

"Mr Ingram said 30 MK77 firebombs were used by the 1st Marine Expeditionary Force in the invasion of Iraq between 31 March and 2 April 2003.

Oh yeah, this is true.

I think we first heard about Napalm being used when the British reported it on a village and objected.

There's lots of background on this one.

No wonder why they love "Western Style" Democracy so much.

Over 100,000 Muslims have been massacred by the jew-led US forces in the past few years.

I'd hate see pictures of how each one of them died.

It's the job of the jew press in in America is to sanitize mass murder.

I guess the revenge will be when American planes drop mini nukes on Tel Aviv.

I don't think that will happen. More than likely Jews will destroy America to the point where Americans will not have the ability to defend Israel in ME.

They are, right up until the point when they lose a war - ie, a real war, not a mere police action a la Korea, Vietnam, Iraq, etc.
