Alabama Fires Had Appearances Of Military Strike

Alabama Locals Are Not Buying The "Church Fires Were A Prank" Line

It appears the college campus has been shut down, in regards to speaking out. Students say that the administration is not allowing reporters on campus. The administration has also warned students that using blogs to communicate is a dangerous idea. The kids are told that blogs are a written history track that schools, police, and employers will monitor.

As far as the felons, they would have been out of jail in two days on the federal charges, except the local authorities made it plain they would be arrested immediately. Here is a three minute audio by local authorities that describes a far different situation than the national news media has been broadcasting.
