Another Smoking Gun Indicating Bush Guilt; Another Smoking Gun

Indicating Media Conspiracy

Be it the exposure of the Downing Street Memos or the multiple discoveries related to the events of 9/11 (like when seven of the accused hijackers, whom we still blame, surface...ALIVE), any one of the numerous smoking guns has been singularly worthy of a major criminal investigation of George W. Bush or his administration. And yet, all remain completely ignored by the criminal enterprise known as the U.S. corporate media.

The most recent smoking gun came in the form of two documents indicating that George W. Bush personally approved the transporting of prisoners, none of whom was tried in a court and most of whom were not even charged with a crime, for the purpose of torturing them. Outside of the obvious implications these memos have regarding the violations of international & domestic human rights laws, they serve as another example of how George W. Bush has stood in front of this nation and lied over and over about the most serious of issues.

In a nation that tried to purge itself of a president who lied to the citizens in order to hide his personal infidelity, it is hard to find any excuse for the media to once again pretend that the discovery of these memos has not occurred. Perhaps the people who decide what the media may and may not report will permit this issue to be addressed, but only after the agreed upon spin and timing are finalized. You are witnessing yet another example of a coordinated effort to control information by our media. This news is obviously of national import and this news is obviously being ignored by our corporate media in what undoubtedly has to be a coordinated effort.

Nobody can tell me that there is not a single managing editor who is a real journalist who would not view the discovery of these memos as a front page or lead-in story. Still, this news has yet to enter even the middle pages of our papers or the little crawlers on our screens.

You will see this story enter the media mind control information flow only when it can serve to shape public opinion in accordance with the desires of the people who really control our nation and our media. This is just one of thousands of examples of the media conspiracy that is our corporate news industry. Think about it!
