The 'Final' 9/11 Commission Report, released 7/22, is not complete. What about the Pentagon video frames (CNN)?

The commission's "Team 8" looked into them, yet they were omitted from the 'complete' final report!!!

What's wrong with this!!!

BTW, have you ever seen the unbelievably

Listen to this!:

Bush implicates himself (MP3, 144K)

(analysis)

One of the more damning bits of evidence of U.S. government complicity in 9/11 is that George Bush has stated, on more than one occasion, that he saw the first (1st) WTC tower struck by a plane, on TV, before he entered that Florida classroom at 9 a.m. (cached timeline new visual timeline)

However, the only known video of that event spent the day at Ground Zero, in the videographer's camera. It was first broadcast about 15 hours after it happened.

We want to see the video that Bush got to see that morning! Evidently, President Bush was watching an unknown video from some communications network that had anticipated the 'surprise' attack...

When the 1st tower was struck at 8:46, George Bush was in a 2001 U.S. presidential limousine:

If you look at the thickness of the roof of that vehicle (1, 2), it is not difficult to visualize its embedded phased array satellite antenna.

bogus forged Niger uranium documents?
(ABC NBC)

Undoubtedly, it is capable of not only receiving but also transmitting live video via satellite while on the move. (Anyone with \$2000 and a satellite subscription can do the receiving part in their SUV.)

Now, about that subscription...

The U.S. has a branch of the Defense Department not many folks know of, the Defense Information Systems Agency, or DISA. These are the folks who make it possible for generals to see live battlefield images and nosecone videos in real-time from around the globe via satellite. They are also responsible for bringing images of this type to POTUS. Here is their mission statement:

The Defense Information Systems Agency is a combat support agency responsible for planning, engineering, acquiring, fielding, and supporting Global Net-Centric Solutions and operating the Defense Information System Network to serve the needs of the President, Vice President, the Secretary of Defense, and the other DoD Components, under all conditions of peace and war.

Here is their non-denial denial to our FOIA request.

So if someone tells you that Bush must have been lying when he made this revealing statement, they're not much of an investigator, to say the least. If someone mentions televisions set up at the school, they might need an imagination transplant.

Tell your friends about this page

And if someone tells you that Bush must have simply mis-spoken, ask them if they are aware that Bush made essentially the identical statement the following month using different words.

See for yourself (official White House transcripts):

Dec 4 2001 \(FL\) Find the word 'tower'... \(MP3\)

Jan 5 2002 \(CA\) Find the word 'Staff'... \(MP3\)

The fact that no major U.S. news organization nor any members of Congress have called upon Bush to explain his incriminating statements is yet another indication that the U.S. Constitution has at least partially been rendered null and void. It is left to the reader to decide what it means that Dems have never questioned these well-documented statements. see CBC video

Well, Jordan, you're not going to believe what state
I was in when I heard about the terrorist attack. I was in Florida.

And my Chief of Staff,
Andy Card...

actually, I was in a classroom talking about a reading program -- that works.

And uh, it ah, I had

I said, it must have been a horrible accident.

Bush the politician, proving he knows what state he's in.

As you'll hear, Bush started his story not at the beginning but, very disjointedly, at the end.

Now Bush works his way towards the middle of the story -- but falls into pre-9/11 campaign patter.

Bush's built-in carefully parse his words as he finally gets to the beginning of the story:

Prior to entering the classroom, but during and after the 1st WTC crash, Bush was sitting in our TV-equipped limousine,
the best-connected wheeled vehicle on Earth!

But I was whisked off there, I didn't have much time to think about it.

And I was sitting in the classroom and Andy Card, my Chief of Staff, who is sitting over here, walked in and said, "A second plane has hit the tower, America is under attack."

"whisked off there"?
Interesting choice of words, but now he's finally getting to the classroom...

So then he DID have time to think about it...

So there is no chance of Bush having mistaken which WTC impact he'd watched that morning. The 2nd tower was not struck until after Bush was in the classroom.

This of course brings us to the infamous extended interval when George Bush sat around doing his "thinking", out of touch with everyone in the world, with America under attack, listening to a story about a pet goat...

2004:
If John Kerry truly opposed George Bush, why wouldn't he mention this?

Here's what Mr. Bush said a month later in California:

Well, I was sitting in a schoolhouse in Florida. I had gone down to tell my little brother what to do, and -- just kidding, Jeb. (Laughter.) And -- it's the mother in me. (Laughter.) Anyway, I was in the midst of learning about a reading program that works. I'm a big believer in basic education, and it starts with making sure every child learns to read. And therefore, we need to focus on the science of reading, not what may feel good or sound good when it comes to teaching children to read. (Applause.) I'm just getting a plug in for my reading initiative.

Anyway, I was sitting there, and my Chief of Staff -- well, first of all, when we walked into the classroom, I had seen this-s uh plane fly into the first building. There was a TV s-set on. And you know, I thought it was pilot error and I was amazed that anybody could make such a terrible mistake. And something was wrong with the plane, or -- anyway, I'm sitting there, listening to the briefing, and Andy Card came and said, "America is under attack."

And in the meantime, this teacher was going on about the curriculum, and I was thinking about what it meant for America to be under attack. It was an amazing thought.
