

contents:

blog archive
random entry
xopl.com
users

newyork.xopl.
lord.xopl.com
rummybear.com

of notable
recent

comments:

[what a
fucking
crock
\(updated\)](#) Trinity

[what a
fucking
crock
\(updated\)](#) Trinity

[what a
fucking
crock](#) [not
f-d...](#)

what a fucking crock (updated)

<< Aug 10, 2006 @ 11:58 >>

"Because the plot involved taking liquid explosives aboard planes in carry-ons, passengers at all U.S. and British airports, and those boarding U.S.-bound flights at other international airports, are banned from taking any liquids onto planes."

Sir, I'm going to have to take this bottle of water away from you since it might be a liquid explosive, and I'm going to have to mix it with all of these other bottles of possibly liquid explosive, and I'm going to have to dump them all in this trash can... together. Nevermind that the plot specifically mentions mixing chemicals and/or nitroglycerin... which explodes if handled too roughly.

I can't fucking believe I'm flying somewhere tomorrow. I might as well just spread my cheeks now.

UPDATE:

On BOINGBOING this guy Gabe points out this North Carolina news story about a lady pouring her liquid that is not safe enough to bring on the plane into a bucket full of all the other liquids not safe enough to bring on the plane.

credit: John Fletcher
Maya Leoni, who is held by Angela Perez, cries as her mother, A.J. Leoni, pours the last of her drink into the receptacle while in line for the security checkpoint at the Asheville Regional Airport.

Genius.

add a comment... | link

Reader Comments...

August 10, 2006 @ 12:58:40