The murdered New York Times reporter and the Alito connection

Rosenbaum's last piece for the TIMES was published on 12/24/2005, and reported that Samuel Alito had authored a 1984 memo arguing that then-President Reagan had the right to order wiretaps without warrants.

Rosenbaum was mugged to death two weeks later, as Alito's confirmation hearings are about to begin?

Small world, isn't it? And full of odd coincidences.

= Update: Rosenbaum not only was on Alito's tail, he was on Bush 41's. He had done a lot of reporting on Iran Contra. And we all know that all the real Iran-Contra crooks are back at it right now.

Turn the tables

Wouldn't it be nice if our lying members of Congress and members of the Bush administration started winding up mysteriously dead? Wouldn't that be a cute turn of the tables for once? Instead of the poor working-class kids they so casually send out to die for their illegal wars? Oh, it was a RANDOM MUGGING, that's all, we SWEAR.

Is our world really so seriously fucked-up and upside-down that the scum continue to inherit the earth? That the worst examples of humanity are heralded and held up as our shining examples of heroism and hard work? Why do the most dishonorable people receive most of the honor? Why do the biggest liars have the most credibility? Do we as American citizens really care so little for our freedoms and liberties that we'll passively allow these traitorous, lying, murderous sociopaths to lead the entire globe into a prison cell or graveyard?

The system is rigged. The mainstream media, increasingly CORPORATIZED, is a huge brainwashing tool, and cannot be trusted to watch out for us. The last two U.S. elections were fraudulent. And we claim to care so much for democracy that we'll force it on other countries, costing taxpayers BILLIONS to enrich war-profiteers and oil companies?

I think it will soon be time for a revolution. If there's another "terrorist" attack, don't believe the government. Even former CIA officials (Ray McGovern I believe his name is) have gone on record saying this. If there's another terrorist attack, fight martial law, fight the draft, fight this lying government.

Humanity has too much positive potential to be dragged down into the evil slime & muck that fills the souls of these politicians. We are capable of much greater things than simply using each other, lying to each other, exploiting 95% of the world just so the top few percent can have MORE yachts, MORE vacation homes, MORE luxury. What kind of sick human being can sleep at night with their millions upon millions (even BILLIONS) of dollars while so many starve & suffer?

If we're gonna break, let's at least go down fighting. Let's pull our lying rulers right down into the same cesspool of pain that they create for us. Enough of these lying, greedy sociopaths masquerading as great, noble guardians. Their masks have slipped too far off of their faces. Who can't help but see the raw inhumanity lurking beneath? LET'S BRING THESE MOTHERFUCKERS DOWN.
