Israeli Jets hit 'uninhabited' area in Baalbek

From correspondents in Beirut

August 19, 2006 05:00am

Article from: Agence France-Presse

ISRAELI warplanes have launched air strikes overnight targeting an uninhabited area in Baalbek in eastern Lebanon, police said.

Helicopters and drones flew at low altitude 22 km northeast of Baalbek and fired four missiles, police said.

Lebanese police said unidentified guns were then fired at the aircraft.

Israeli air strikes reported over Lebanese-Syrian border Friday night after Iran and Syria resume rocket consignments to Hizballah

August 18, 2006, 11:11 PM (GMT+02:00)

Israeli military spokesman denies the Lebanese claim that the warplanes fired four missiles. They are said to have targeted weapons and rocket supply trucks northeast of Baalbek. Correspondents in Beirut report Lebanese forces opened anti-air fire on Israeli warplanes flying over E. Lebanon.

DEBKAFfile's military sources add some background: From Tuesday, Aug. 13, the day after the ceasefire went into effect, Iran and Syria began sending fresh weapons consignments including rockets to Hizballah.

Since the truce, a group of Iranian Revolutionary Guards officers, including generals, has arrived to set up a forward command on the Syrian side of the Lebanese border. They have told Hizballah to start reconstituting its southern Nasser Brigade which was damaged by Israeli forces and also serves the group as its short-range rocket unit.

During the week, Israel kept Washington abreast of the Iranian-Syrian re-supply operation and was informed that if the Israeli government decides to destroy the incoming supply vehicles, the Bush administration will not interfere.

Hizballah used the media focus on the Lebanese army's deployment to unobtrusively transfer the fresh weapons shipments from the Beqaa Valley and Baalbek to the south. Israeli notes the absence of any form of border control by the Lebanese army or UNIFIL, despite the monitoring system ordered by UN Security Council Resolution 1701.

Report: Israeli warplanes fly over Lebanon_

(08.18.06, 22:30)

Israeli jet crisscross skies above Lebanon's eastern Bekaa Valley, near Hizbullah's stronghold in Baalbek. Lebanese officials report of anti-aircraft fire against warplanes, but say no weapons fired by drones, jet fighters. IDF denies reports
News Agencies

Israeli drones and warplanes were crisscrossing the skies above Lebanon's eastern Bekaa Valley on Friday night, near the Hizbullah stronghold of Baalbek, security officials said.

The reporter said military jets, helicopters and drones had circled over the area and had come under anti-aircraft fire but had not been hit and had not opened fire themselves.

The officials had not reported any bomb or missile strikes although the Voice of Lebanon radio said the aircraft had opened fire.

The IDF said it had not attacked Lebanon since the ceasefire went into force. The IDF Spokesperson Unit reported that some Israeli ground forces are still inside Lebanon, but that this did not constitute a violation of the ceasefire agreement.

After the ceasefire came into effect, senior officers said that the air force will continue to carry out sorties in order to ensure the safety of the forces on the ground, but that no strikes will be launched.

The army also stated that IAF warplanes did not sustain any hits in the course of these sorties.

However, no comments were made on Friday's report.

Israeli war planes frequently fly over Lebanese airspace and during the 34-day war with Hizbullah gunmen attacked targets across the country. The Bekaa Valley was heavily hit during the war, which ended with a UN sponsored truce on Monday, although there have been isolated incidents of violence since then.

End of the so called 1701 resolution its a dead thing by cosmo on 18.08.2006 [22:28 ]
There is no reason to let these Talmudist Zionist suckers get away at any one time with any such operation without pouring the shit over their heads.
