Iran achieves stealth technologyTehran Times Political Desk*

TEHRAN - Iranian experts have gained access to the strategic stealth technology which is only accessed by a few developed countries in the world.

Stealth technology covers a range of techniques used with aircraft, ships and missiles, in order to make them less visible (ideally invisible) to radar and other detection methods.

Iran is currently constructing the biggest L band test room in the Middle East in order to conduct further studies in this regard.
