Neocons Resurrect Plans For Regional War In The Middle East

In 1996, Richard Perle, Douglas Feith and David Wurmser (all later senior officials in the Bush administration) had a plan for how to destroy Hezbollah: Invade Iraq. They wrote a report to the newly elected Likud government in Israel calling for “a clean break” with the policies of negotiating with the Palestinians and trading land for peace.

The problem could be solved “if Israel seized the strategic initiative along its northern borders by engaging Hizballah (sic), Syria, and Iran, as the principal agents of aggression in Lebanon.” The key, they said, was to “focus on removing Saddam Hussein from power in Iraq — an important Israeli strategic objective in its own right — as a means of foiling Syria’s regional ambitions.” They called for “reestablishing the principle of preemption.” They promised that the successes of these wars could be used to launch campaigns against Iran, Saudi Arabia and Egypt, reshaping “the strategic balance in the Middle East profoundly.”

Now, with the U.S. bogged down in Iraq, with Bush losing control of world events, and with the threats to national security growing worse, no one could possibly still believe this plan, could they? Think again.

William Kristol, editor of the Weekly Standard, is still pushing this radical vision. He now uses the excuse of Hezbollah terrorist attacks — what he calls “Iran’s Proxy War” — to push the United States deeper into a regional war against Iran and Syria:

We might consider countering this act of Iranian aggression with a military strike against Iranian nuclear facilities. Why wait? Does anyone think a nuclear Iran can be contained? That the current regime will negotiate in good faith? It would be easier to act sooner rather than later. Yes, there would be repercussions — and they would be healthy ones, showing a strong America that has rejected further appeasement.

Perle has already weighed in in a June 25 Washington Post editorial decrying Bush’s “ignominious retreat” on Iran. He, too, wants war. Newt Gingrich on Meet the Press this Sunday said we were already in World War III and that the US needed to take direct action against North Korea and Iran. Less well known pundits have flooded cable news and talk radio this weekend beating the war drums. Meanwhile, David Wurmser is ensconced in Vice-President Cheney’s office, and his neoconservative colleague Elliot Abrams (the convicted Iran-Contra felon who urged war with Iraq in a 1998 letter to President Bill Clinton) directs Middle East policy on the National Security Council staff.

The neoconservatives are now hoping to use the Israeli-Lebanon conflict as the trigger to launch a U.S. war against Syria, Iran or both. These profoundly dangerous policies have to be exposed and stopped before they do even more harm to U.S. national security than they already have.

1. Yes the Neocons want war on Syria, and Iran, so that is why Israel attacked Lebanon to stir up a bigger regional war, which could become a global WWII! The Bush Regime has already prepared to attack Iran, so it looks like it might happen soon!

i would like to know WHY noone is talking about israel's part in all this. occupying their land, and holding palentinian and lebonese soldiers BEFORE lebanon snatched 2 israeli soldiers. i know it is part of the msm, nazi/zionist plan but what happened to the educated american? so it's ok for israel to be tyrants and do whatever but the muslim community better not act in self defense. i'm not advocating violence or anything but i'd blow the piss out of the rothchilds and then head to the gov. offices. and then ask em if they want to come out and play.

Suggestion: the 70% or so of the American populace that does NOT agree with this Administration should all vote ABSENTEE. That way, 1. poor people will not have to stand in line for hours to vote; 2. it takes the Deibold electronic machines out of the process; and 3. all ballots will be paper and verifiable.

According to former chief of Israeli military intelligence Yehoshafat Harkabi, the 1982 invasion of Lebanon was accompanied by deceit at the highest political levels. Harkarbi cites misleading statements to the cabinet by Ariel Sharon and Begin, inaccurate announcements by Israel's military spokesmen and the Likud government's gross exaggeration of terrorist acts conducted from Lebanon.

27. I have noticed many young people who vigorously support Israel seem to lack a sense of the sordid history pre-Israel and the Zionists. There was a caller on Air America who accurately described friendships that exist in Israel twixt Jews and Muslims and the fear that exists along with these types of friendships.

They use this type of Jew/Muslim dynamic to promote Israel. But I generally feel that as long as there are proud Muslims there will never be real peace in Palestine. From that vantage point I sincerely support having Israel wage war so we can test their theories and put them to bed. 100 more years of death. Maybe then we can debate the practicality of having a Zionist theocracy smack in the middle of Islam.

Though it is unclear exactly who they were speaking about, the two had a curious exchange about another diplomat. “He thinks if Lebanon turns out fine, if we get a solution in Israel and Palestine, Iraq goes the right way—” began Blair.

“Yeah, yeah,” observed Bush. “He is sweet.”

“He is honey,” was Blair’s reply.

After moving conversation through the situation involving Syria, Israel and Lebanon, Bush stated, “We are not blaming the Lebanese government.”

I have been posting on this site, and others, for months now that Bushco will get their Iran/Syria war and that he will declare Martial Law.

I would imagine that the November elections are in doubt, unless the Bush poll numbers improve and the pukers start holding onto his coattails.

You see, the thing that Bush fears most is that the Dems take over the house and bills of impeachment ensue. Can't you just see all of the puke senators defending Iraq, the economy, high gas prices, etc., on national television with the whole world watching?

44. I'm not sure full engagement with either Iran or Syria would be politically sustainable at home. Shrub and Puppetmaster Rove seek a permanent Republican majority in government, yet their incompetence has virtually discredited the GOP and the conservative world view. Stumbling into a regional war in the Middle East, where we would likely fare poorly short of nuclear war, would probably end Republican political prospects for a generation. Once again, we have concrete evidence that Bush is a small man in a big job. God bless America, indeed...

The reason so many americans agreed to invade Iraq, was because of the Alqaeda connection.

There wasn't enough Muslim blood spilled in Afghanistan in revenge for 9/11, and it was over before it started.

On 9/12/2001 Dick Cheney was complaining that the targets in Afghanistan were too small, and he wanted to bomb big targets in Baghdad.

In my humble opinion, Iraq was the real revenge for 9/11. It delivered the message of “Don't F*CK with us , or we'll invade another country”

However, it backfired

I'll fill in.

We have to attack and protect our interests and bring democracy and the free market to the region.

Consider what has been achieved to date in Iraq.

There's artillery, white phosphorous, mortars, small arms fire, grenades. By golly the smorgasbord of choice that the US has furnished the Iraqis has to be seen to be believed.

Then when you factor in the healthy competition in the market place! There are IED's, Russian RPG's and more small arms fire than you could shake a stick with your helmet propped up over the top of your trench at.

Before it was just small arms fire (generally to the back of the head, not absolutely anywhere as is currently the exciting reality), and poison gas, maybe, if you were lucky. That was pretty rare though.

Yes, freedumb and the free market on the march have left the Iraqis positively spoiled for choice.

As regards how to die violently that is. Still can't get the hang of supplying electricity though.

83. When do we “redress” our government for legitimate grievances?
For their failure to dutifully perform their Oath of Office; their responsibility to perform their duties in the interest of the people?

Too many ‘clusterf*cks’ all around us - and WE THE PEOPLE are angry, mad and ashamed of our country’s role in these warmongers thirst for world-economic control - to make themselves gawds over their fellow men and women with the falsehood of using the banner of Christian Love and Righteousness!! Let alone to spread Democracy - mob-rule nonetheless. Liberty first - representative government second.

Love your neighbor as you love yourself - I guess these MFs must really have some self-confidence issues with serious degrees of insecurity.

When do WE - everyone here, translate our VOICE into ACTION - the difference in Walking the Path versus just Talking about it.

I’m naive - still with hope for our Forefather principles of Sovereignty, Equally, and LIBERTY for ALL. I don’t ask for answers - just some direction we all can move together in to have a land ruled by its people in peace for the pursuit of happiness.

These SOBs will open the gates of Hell so they can rule as the Devil rather than serve the Light of Providence.

Maybe’s it’s best ALL these events happen now (definitely helped along too) but we all will have to make a choice regarding who we are - I’ve been mad for too long - now I prepare and reach out for solidarity among my peers and neighbors to remember that WE are the Sovereigns of this land - and the government is our instrument - but it still fails to awaken the masses of sheeple that have the power to change this world by simply raising your voice to be heard.

keep your eye on the tactical ‘balls’ in play but remember to envision the entire theater of this world drama - all points are not so independent of one another if you look closely - but then remember to take action - peaceful at first to demonstrate - and then by our Forefathers example if necessary.

The neocon and Xtian leaders are not stupid. They know full well that the sheeple must be kept ignorant. To that end they have bought out virtually the entire sources of information by which people rely (think MSM) except for the internet and that is next if the Net Neutrality ammendments aren’t passed. Thank's.....Good post all.....The latest count 165 Lebanon killed and 24 Israel....Israel spokesman said for all Lebanon to leave area and then bombed the buses leaving the other day. This morning they asked Lebanon to secure its borders, ah yes! by all means be another target to shoot at.... Note to all, the French had come to the aid of Lebanon and moved out over 1000 Lebanese and were working towards moving more to cyprus.....Not to be slow as usual the Us sent in choppers and moved 50 or so this morning.....

By the looks of the article that you gave us a link to, Mad....We do have a lot of power and standing together we can creat good change..In my state it is interesting to note Cantwell has been advertising for some weeks now on T.V. and her oponent hasent even started. She and all the rest of the Rep.lites should be worried. They will not get my vote. In an over view note also the Dem's again are silent...

In a final sickening note, have you all seen the bush putin discussion at the summit where our disgusting leader is eating and speaking... Reminds me of the dreadful prefect in the Lord of the rings movie stuffing his face...He chews and speaks while his mouth is full and open.....What a miserable example. Israel attacks its neighbors, steals their lands, puts the remaining people in concentration camps, and they just want to be left alone? That's rich. You should write fiction for a living, because everything you claim

Your own thread debunks you. But then again, as a hate filled zionist propagandist you already knew that didn't you. The Sinai and Golan Heights were stolen from their neighbors in a war that Israel started.

From wikipedia.

Israel's first and most important move was a pre-emptive attack on the Egyptian Air Force. It was by far the largest and the most modern of all the Arab air forces, consisting of about 450 combat aircraft, all of them Soviet-built and relatively new.

I stated Israel was sitting on stolen land, they stole by attacking first. This is all true. The 1973 war was a failed effort to take back stolen lands. Just like much of the Palestinian and related fighting has been since.

140. Israel didn't start this round of violence. Hold on, those who are in the “Zionists blah blah blah group”. I'm not going back 1000 years, 100 years or 10 years. I'm saying this LAST round of violence started with Hamas and Hezbollah. Furthermore, most Arabs don't give a damn about the people of Palastine. They use those poor people to push their sick interpretation of the Koran to declare war on the lifestyle of the non muslim...

141. Mitey mouse ,Thats right by kidnapping a soldier the arabs started a war .But the kidnapping of palestinian gov't officials by Israel is just foreign policy, and had nothing to do with it .Oh and by the way the gov't and people of Lebanon had no knowlege of this beforehand.One kidnapped soldier is a good reason to destroy another countries economy and infrastructure ,no over reaction there.Just stick to insults your arguements are woefully inadequate!

143. Lebanon has been runned by Syria for years. Hezbollah is supported by Syria and Iran. Syria and Iran still use the occasional suicide bomber, but now, suicide drones, enhanced rockets and nuclear advancement spells one thing.... DISASTER. Possibly for the world. However, sooner or later someone (the U.S., Russia, EU) is going to have to help solve this conflict before this definitely occurs. It better happen soon. Once these type of conflicts get out of control, hold on fellow TP'ers. It's going to get ugly.....

144. #140 - really? Why is it then that the one-year truce that Hamas pretty much held to was broken by an Israeli shell into the middle of a Gaza family on a beach and then the abduction of two sons of a Hamas leader the day before the abduction of the first Israeli soldier? Doesn't really matter how far you go back, the Israeli's failed to build on the Hamas truce and each escalation has been in disproportion to the cause. And the Hizbollah seem to have demonstrated sympathy with the Palestinians by their action.

Comment by TerrytheTurtle — July 17, 2006 @ 6:58 pm

145. #144 Hamas was already shelling Israeli civilians when that shell landed. BTW, there was no independent investigation to find out who fired that shell.

146. Just draw the border, build a wall, and keep the two sides apart. There hasn't been a cease fire in that part of the world for thousands of years. That said, anyone who calls themselves "Party of God" doesn't get my sympathy or support.

147. #145 I said 'pretty much' - there's no absolute here. The Palestinians fire a hand made rocket or two and the Israelis respond with 250 artillery shells a day for three days...

My point is that the escalation and disproportion has nearly always been from the Israeli side.

149. My dear Mr. Freeman - I guess you missed:

- a.) the Israeli civilian killed the day before an Israeli soldier was taken in Gaza,
- b.) the rocket launches into Israel BEFORE Hezbollah killed the eight soldiers and kidnapped two.

I didn't say Lebanon knew about this beforehand - but they sure knew who was occupying and paying the freight on their southern border. If the kidnapped Palestinians were not Hamas or al Acqa Martyrs Brigade, they should be returned. If they were members of those groups, they are up the creek without the proverbial battle.

150. #144

I've heard everything from the "beach incident" was caused by an Israeli shell to the family accidentally stepped on a line mine that was positioned to keep Israel from invading from the sea. The Hizbollah doesn't care about the Palestinians. No Arab country does. Sadaam used their cause. Jordan and Syria refuse any Palestinian refugees. Egypt seals off their border with a wall. Hizbollah cares about a totally different cause than the Palestinians. They care about the destruction of not only Israel, but anyone who opposes Islam the way they read it.

I recall that you were corrected on this LIE of yours MONTHS AGO. Weren't you even supplied the original Hebrew? Of course you were... The Bible and the Torah both say "THOU SHALT NOT KILL". The word for Murder is also used in the bible, but that's not what's there. You're such an illiterate fool!!!

ROFL, Mighty Moron who claims to be a Christian of Jewish descent once again has to be LECTURED by the Hindu on her own religion. What a PATHETIC LOSER YOU ARE! BAHAAAAAAAAHA

The illiterate FAKE ATTORNEY who can't spell BREACH pulls a CHENEY and misses again! Zzzzzz...,

Comment by Ryan Neat — July 17, 2006 @ 8:54 pm

163. Mighty Moron, I'll help you out with your HEBREW lesson today. Those Jewish grandparents of yours (assuming that isn't yet another lie from you) would roll over in their graves to know their little grand son had grown up so ignorant of the language and heritage they fought to preserve. You're a disgrace to judaism and christian traditions. You're nothing but a hate filled gender confused psychotic sociopath.

The Hebrew word for "kill" in the commandment is the same word (transliteration "ratsach") that is used to describe accidental killings for which the perpetrator could find safety in one of the cities of refuge - where the "Avenger" was not allowed to venture.

"Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye be come over Jordan into the land of Canaan; Then ye shall appoint you cities to be cities of refuge for you; that the slayer may flee thither, which killeth ["ratsach"] any person at unawares. And they shall be unto you cities for refuge from the avenger; that the manslayer die not, until he stand before the congregation in judgment." (Numbers 35:10-12)

Try again with another lie Mighty Moron - this one is SOUNDLY debunked as usual.

It get SO BORING having to repeatedly smack you down on the same retarded lies you post. I wish you were smart enough to at least be original. These countless boring rants of yours are monkey crap strewn zoo cages. You smell so bad it takes all of the fun at looking at you and the rest of the reichwing monkeys scream like the animals you are.

[...] Think Progress discusses an interesting report: In 1996, Richard Perle, Douglas Feith and David Wurmser (all later senior officials in the Bush administration) had a plan for how to destroy Hezbollah: Invade Iraq. They wrote a report to the newly elected Likud government in Israel calling for “a clean break” with the policies of negotiating with the Palestinians and trading land for peace. [...]

169. Just an observation; the one called Mighty Moron actually represents the majority of people in America who have become so desensitized that indifference has actually turned into outright malice. It is so damn funny how predictably wrong they are.

Point to ponder: ignorance->desensitization->stupid maliciousness.

Why go towards maliciousness and not towards ultimate stupidity (vegetative state)?

Pretty damn scary.

And perhaps because containment, although of uncertain success, did work against Stalin and his successors, and might be preferable to a war against a nation much larger and more formidable than Iraq.” Steve Clemons has more. 8:22 am | Comment (2) [...]

[...] Joseph Circione today takes up the argument that escalating regional violence in the Middle East serves neoconservative interests. Perle has already weighed in in a June 25 Washington Post editorial decrying Bush's ignominious retreat on Iran. He, too, wants war. Newt Gingrich on Meet the Press this Sunday said we were already in World War III and that the US needed to take direct action against North Korea and Iran. Less well known pundits have flooded cable news and talk radio this weekend beating the war drums. Meanwhile, David Wurmser is ensconced in Vice-President Cheney's office, and his neoconservative colleague Elliot Abrams (the convicted Iran-Contra felon who urged war with Iraq in a 1998 letter to President Bill Clinton) directs Middle East policy on the National Security Council staff.
