SEOUL, South Korea Mar 21, 2006 (AP)— North Korea suggested Tuesday it had the ability to launch a pre-emptive attack on the United States, according to the North's official news agency. A Foreign Ministry spokesman said the North had built atomic weapons to counter the U.S. nuclear threat.

"As we declared, our strong revolutionary might put in place all measures to counter possible U.S. pre-emptive strike," the spokesman said, according to the Korean Central News Agency. "Pre-emptive strike is not the monopoly of the United States."

Last week, the communist country warned that it had the right to launch a pre-emptive strike, saying it would strengthen its war footing before joint South Korea-U.S. military exercises scheduled for this weekend.

The spokesman also said it would be a "wise" step for the United States to cooperate on nuclear issues with North Korea in the same way it does with India.

Earlier this month, President Bush signed an accord in India that would open some of its atomic reactors to international inspections in exchange for U.S. nuclear know-how and atomic fuel.

The accord was reached even though New Delhi has not signed the international Nuclear Nonproliferation Treaty. North Korea has withdrawn from the treaty.

I am confused.

- 1) Iran doesn't like Israel, and says the holocaust is a lie.
- 2) Iran has no atomic weapons, no significant airforce, a poorly trained and equipped army, and, no navy.

The USA calls Iran the most dangerous country on earth, and starts in no uncertain terms to lay the ground work for war against Iran.

- 4) N. Korea makes regular threats of nuclear attacks against the USA, Tiwan, and, Japan.
- 5) N. Korea has nuclear weapons, a huge well equiped army, a modern air force, and a navy.
- 6) N. Korea regularly fires missiles in threatening manners.
- 7) N. Korea is ruled by a psychotic dictator.

The USA provides aid to N. Korea.
