The Under-Reported Story of the Year

This is not a joke. It's an actual lawsuit filed pro se in Fort Bend County, Texas.

NO. 22127 MARGIE SCHOEDINGER, IN THE COUNTY CIVIL COURT

Plaintiff AT LAW NUMBER 3 vs.

GEORGE W. BUSH, FORT BEND COUNTY, T E X

Plaintiff is a resident of Fort Bend County, Texas, residing at XXXXX, Missouri City, Fort Bent County, Texas, 77459. Defendant is George W. Bush, Former Governor of Texas and current President of the United States and can be served with process at: Office of the President of the United States, Executive Office Building, The Executive Office of the President, Washington D. C. 20501.

II. On or about, October 26, 2000, an attempt was made to abduct Plaintiff by three unknown assailants. Because of the actions of these assailants, Sugar Land police officers were dispatched to the scene. In the end, no report was taken, the assailants were treated respectfully and allowed to go free while Plaintiff was repeatedly and aggressively questioned. After filing a lawsuit, Plaintiff's family and past contacts were questioned and harassed. As a result, Plaintiff dismissed Plaintiff's lawsuit. Irrespective of Plaintiff dismissing the lawsuit, the harassment continued. At some point, Plaintiff contacted the Houston office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, filing a race based harassment complaint, advising that the Sugar Land Police Department may or may not be harassing Plaintiff on behalf of her neighbors in Sugar Land or possibly on behalf of the First Colony Community Services Association. The agent in question advised Plaintiff that the situation appeared to be highly organized and most likely higher level, such as a racist organization.

III. Eventually the harassment increased to the point where Plaintiff took the step of writing letters directly to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Houston Office. Instead of assisting Plaintiff with her concerns, the FBI took on the same demeanor as the Sugar Land Police Department. Eventually, Plaintiff learned, via telephone conversations, that both the Sugar Land Police Department and the Houston Office of the Federal Bureau of Investigations were acting at the behest of the Defendant, George W. Bush. As a part of their defense, the Sugar Land Police Department conducted a background investigation into Plaintiff's past activities. In the end, this investigation yielded the following information: Plaintiff had seven dates, (which became seven lovers), had told no lies, committed no crimes, gotten 2 traffic tickets and dated George W. Bush as a minor.

IV. Instead of looking at this information and keeping this information concealed, both agencies began revealing this information within their own intranets. In an effort to defend himself, the Defendant and his representatives began contacting Plaintiff regarding the relationship. While Plaintiff assured the Defendant and his representatives that she neither personally revealed this information, nor would she confirm it in any setting, the Defendant, his family and his representatives continued to threaten Plaintiff.

V. In the end, Plaintiff learned that while the Defendant and his representatives requested that she be harassed at all costs by both agencies, the Defendant also informed Plaintiff that his only option to assure his never having to answer for the previous contact would be to simply see Plaintiff pressured to the point of committing suicide. Plaintiff's opinion was that Defendant should simply leave Plaintiff to pursue a second attempt at a degree, even a PHd. Additionally, even if the previous contact were revealed in the future, it would be of no consequence. In response to Plaintiff's refusal to give in, Plaintiff's bank account has been expunged, Plaintiff's husband has been dismissed from his place of employment, and Plaintiff has been raped and beaten -which resulted in a miscarriage. Upon going to the hospital, Plaintiff was threatened by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation on behalf of the Defendant. The purpose being to keep Plaintiff from remaining in the hospital and be administered thorough treatment. The reason being that the Defendant might have been the father of the child that was lost.

VI. Now Plaintiff continues to be threatened. According to the office of the Defendant and the Defendant, Plaintiff's background has been ruined, Plaintiff will never be able to have a clean credit bureau, Plaintiff's husband will never be able to find a job, Plaintiff's degrees will continue to be expunged as well as any other achievement on Plaintiff's parts, Plaintiff will be placed on an AIDs watch list for the rest of her life, watched by the CIA, harassed by the Secret Service, placed on the National Security Agency's Photo Array, (which would cause Plaintiff to be considered as a suspect in any crime where the suspect remotely fits Plaintiff's description), Plaintiff's home is under surveillance in a manner that is fully recordable in all aspects and this surveillance is able to be loaded onto an internet page within minutes; including but not limited to prison Web sites, military web sites and any internet locale that might cause Plaintiff to be killed, raped, beaten or put in harms way. Moreover, the Defendant took personal responsibility for these decisions, explaining to Plaintiff that committing suicide would be her best option as in his opinion; Plaintiff is essentially dead in any case. No matter what Plaintiff's background was before, no matter how pristine, Plaintiff would be destroyed completely. At this point, the question repeatedly became whether or not the Defendant could have fathered the child and whether or not the hospital had actually collected the pathology on the unborn child. Finally, we decided that Plaintiff should be killed rather than being harassed to the point of committing suicide. However, the defendant stated he could not convince anyone he could trust to keep the secret to do this for him. The decision then became that the defendant should kill the Plaintiff personally. Instead of following through and just killing Plaintiff, defendant decided to go forth and ruin Plaintiff's life instead. This is the cause of Plaintiff filing this lawsuit,

VII. Throughout this conversation, Plaintiff learned that there was no time that the Defendant ever stopped watching Plaintiff, nor did he stop having sex with Plaintiff. The sole concern of the Defendant and his representatives was whether Plaintiff could actually recall the individual sex crimes committed against Plaintiff and Plaintiff's husband, utilizing drugs. Whether or not Plaintiff's husband was raped remains in question, as Plaintiff was drugged after she was raped and her husband was drugged before her rape. Plaintiff can only state that these men purported to be FBI agents raping her for the purpose of covering for how many times they had drugged her and allowed the Defendant to rape her in the same manner.

VIII. Plaintiff repeats and re-alleges allegation in Paragraphs I through VII. Plaintiff has sustained 1 million dollars in actual damages and seeks punitive damages in the amount of 49 million dollars for reasons of emotional distress, loss of freedom and ability to pursue Plaintiff's own dreams, alienation of affection from Plaintiff's spouse, loss of privacy, being disparaged on the internet, and loss of Plaintiff ability to be a Christian writer. Plaintiff has suffered all of the aforementioned and more as a result of Defendant's actions as described herein.

Plaintiff prays that in addition to the aforementioned recovery, Plaintiff is entitled to recover the costs in preparing this action for trial, pursuing any necessary appeal of this action and retaining an attorney to pursue said action.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff prays that the Defendant, be sited to appear and answer, and that on final trial, Plaintiff be granted the following:

1. Judgment against defendant for actual damage suffered by the Plaintiff.
2. Judgment against the defendant for punitive damage.
3. A further judgment against the defendant in excess of the minimum jurisdictional limits of the court.
4. Costs of Suit.
5. Pre-Judgment Interest.
6. Post-Judgment Interest.
7. Such other and further relief to which Plaintiff may be justly entitled.

RESPECTFULLY SUBMITTED,

Dated this 2nd day of December, 2002

Margie D. Schoedinger

Calling All Investigative Journalists

Margie Schoedinger, the Texas woman who accused George W. Bush of statutory rape and forcing an abortion upon her, has been found dead. Everyone who believes it was suicide, raise your hand. According to the Houston Chronicle, "MARGIE D. SCHOEDINGER expired Monday, 9/22/03. Visitation: Friday, 9/26/03 , 7 to 9pm, McCoy & Harrison Chapel. Funeral Service: Saturday, 9/27/03, 1:30pm, McCoy & Harrison Chapel. Interment, Houston Memorial Gardens." This site, where Schoedinger's lawsuit was originally posted, now says "The requested URL was not found on this server." Might I point out that the above lawsuit claims "the Defendant also informed Plaintiff that his only option to assure his never having to answer for the previous contact would be to simply see Plaintiff pressured to the point of committing suicide." Anyone wanna guess how much money will be spent by the Federal government investigating the mysterious death of Margie Schoedinger? Where's her NBC movie-of-the-week?

Amazingly enough, even the National Inquirer didn't have balls enough to inform its readers about the black woman from Texas who accused Dubya of rape, then was found dead of a gunshot wound to the head - considered "suicide" by all those who've bought real estate on Mars. The only paper to print the story of her death? The New Nation, a small paper that serves the black community of London.

"Insane" E-Mail of the Week

By their pattern of bizarre behavior, the President--and the Vice-President--of the United States, have shown themselves to be insane.

They are conducting themselves in such a manner as to violate the most fundamental principles of international law that have existed since the formation of the United Nations at the end of World War II. No President of the United States could support such insane policies, unless he himself were clinically insane.

Therefore, the United Nations Security Council must recognize this fact, and it should suspend its current debate and negotiations over the insane demands being made by the President of the United States. Stop negotiating over the demands of a madman! The United Nations should declare that the President of the United States is insane, and then proceed from that standpoint.

How else can you explain what the President and the Vice-President are doing? They are launching a war of aggression, in violation of the United States Constitution, and in violation of international law and the Charter of the United Nations. They are launching a war of aggression--an act which was defined as an offense against international law by the Nuremberg War Crimes Tribunal, an act for which twelve defendants were convicted and seven were sentenced to death by hanging. The principles of law recognized in the judgment of the Nuremberg Tribunal were adopted by the United Nations General Assembly in 1950.

Could a President of the United States of America, who was not insane, proceed with such reckless abandon to violate such principles of law, which have been the foundation of the post-war international order?

The United Nations must issue a declaration to the effect that the U.S. President is insane. Someone objects, that this would violate diplomatic protocol? Would they rather pretend that the President of the United States is not insane, and let him launch a new Thirty Years War and plunge the world into a new Dark Age? This is the only way to force reality into the current situation.

Am I the Only One

...who thinks the only problem with Dick Cheney firing Treasury Secretary Paul O'Neill and National Economic Council chief Lawrence Lindsey is that I wanted to do it?

Dear Doc Hollywood,:

A production company in Los Angeles is interested in a zombie script I wrote. Their name is Wildcat Entertainment, and their horror film division is called Cinemacabre (catchy). They've produced a number of straight to video movies, so they're established.

They asked me what price I want for my script. Answer: I don't know. Honestly, I'd give it to them for free if they would make it, but I know I can get some money for it, so I should give them a price. I'm a lawyer in D.C., not a screenwriter in L.A., and I have no idea what a small independent film company will pay for a script. Sure, I could ask for $50,000 and some gross points, but that ain't gonna happen (I think).

Your advise on what I should ask for would be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,

Michael G.

Michael,

Thank you for braving time and space to contact me.

Ideally your attorney calls their attorney and finds out what they pay for screenplays. Asking you what you'll accept is sort of a cheesy way for them to try to get away with paying less. They know you'd give it to them for free and that's what they want. WGA minimum is $45,490, but your guys obviously aren't union. Go to here to get depressed.

The big question is How much do you want to be in business with these guys? Can you afford to let them screw you on this one so that you can make a killing on your NEXT sale to them?

There are no standards for the amount of ways to get screwed. Just don't get them to get you to pay THEM. Try to get them to make an offer.

MD

Dear Dr. Hollywood,

I am currently working on my first screenplay and am thinking of getting "final draft" - do you have any personal experience with this program? An opinion, if you have one, would be appreciated.

all the best

katalin

Katalin,

Thank you for braving time and space to contact me.

The best guide to screenplay software is at the WGA. There are not only reviews but links there to the companies that make the software. At their sites you can download demos that usually have the SAVE button disconnected. If you're looking to save money, there are crack sites and Newsgroups where you can learn how to disable the locks on the programs and make them completely functional but damned if I'm going to tell you where they are.

Personally, I like MS Word with a screenplay template. I don't like being stuck in "screenplay" mode because I do a lot of other types of writing and like to switch back and forth. For scripts and nothing but scripts, Final Draft is very cool. I use their free downloadable version that takes word files and turns them into FD files. Works great.

Dear Dr. Hollywood,

I'm guest-starring on "MD's", WED. nite, ABC, Dec. 4th, 10pm. Dying and smokin' dope. Wow. Set the VCR.

Larry Hankin

Dear Larry,

Hey, I'm MD and my son is MD so we've watched every episode of MDs. It's one of our favorite shows of the new season. It disappeared for a few weeks and we were sure it was canceled since it's against such heavy hitters, but we're glad to see it's back, especially with you smoking dope. What a great show. So what was in those joints?

MD

Dear MD & MD,

Everybody wants to know what's in the joint. They gave me 2 choices: regular cigarette tobacco and that "healthy" tobacco: Indian Brand no chemicals tobacco. I smoked the Indian Brand. I'm now dying of lung cancer.

PRESS RELEASE FROM HELL

The Catholic Church has come out in favor of homosexuality, claiming the formerly forbidden practice is clearly endorsed by the bible. "The Golden Rule tells us that we should do unto others as we would have others do unto us," said Boston Cardinal Bernard Law after a meeting with the Holy See. "I would have others blow me," explained Cardinal Law, "therefore the Golden rule makes it quite clear that I should blow others."

"Homosexuality is not just condoned by the Golden Rule," reiterated Pope John Paul II, "it's a mandate." Asked whether this excused his priests from seducing little boys, the Pope was unable to answer since his mouth was full.

THIS YEAR'S TV CHRISTMAS SPECIALS FROM HELL

It Came Upon A Midnight Clear

Former President Bill Clinton stars as himself, and porn star Jenna Jamison plays a stripper named "Midnight Clear," in what appears to be a movie shot with a home video camera. Never before has a holiday film had such a tasteless and suggestive title. Most of the film is shot in front of the Clinton Christmas tree, which is adorned with dozens of decorations labeled "property of the White House." A brief albeit aggressive cameo by Vernon Jordan helps break up the monotony of the film, but can't save it, and it abruptly ends when we hear the front door open and Hillary yell, "Bill, what are you doing in there?" A so-so performance is also turned in by Michael Caine, who plays the part of Betty Curry. Rating: ** (out of five)

Janet Reno's Christmas Beaver of Dreams

Former Attorney General Janet Reno, while driving across the country in her pickup truck one December morning, runs over and injures a beaver. After treating the animal, she says, "I wish you felt better", and kisses the animal, who instantly gets better.

Hanukkah Hillary Teaches Kids About Jewish Stuff

Senator Hillary Rodham Clinton hosts this somewhat informative special which seeks to educate the young and gentile, while at the same time gain votes in New York's Jewish communities. In this special on the "Carpetbagger Superstation", Senator Clinton teaches a group of children that, more than 2000 years ago, the land of Judea was ruled by Antiochus (Michael Caine), a tyrannical Syrian king with a serious bug up his tuchus. Antiochus forbade the Jews from observing the Sabbath or studying the Torah. Many Jews followed his laws, because they had no choice, and those who resisted were executed. By the end of Hillary's lesson, the kids are happy to learn that this injustice was brought to an end by the Clinton administration.

The humor is somewhat questionable, such as Senator Clinton's "ignorance is briss" comment, and the awkward silence amongst a roomful of rabbis after she asked them, "how come more Jews don't play football?" Look for an Emmy to go to the costume designer for "Hanukkah Hillary", who was faced with the daunting challenge of finding a skirt that effectively hid the senator's calves.

QUOTES FROM HELL

One of these statements was never made.

"They flat-out broke their word. We usually do business in Washington with a handshake. From now on, that will be very hard to do with them. I'll have to question the sincerity of any promises they make. More money mixed with more loopholes will lead to more paybacks like the one Eli Lilly was given in the Homeland Security Bill. But politicians have become completely addicted to money, so trying to change the system is like trying to take heroin from a heroin addict."
- Senator John McCain on how the McCain-Feingold campaign finance reform bill is to be implemented by the Bush administration -

"With Republicans controlling the White House and both branches of Congress for the first time in 46 years, we can expect corporate America to go on a D.C. shopping spree in an all-out effort to purchase a wide range of legislation."
- Arianna Huffington -

"The ability of a special interest group to secretly insert provisions into law for its own narrow benefit and to the detriment of the public interest raises fundamental questions about the integrity of our government. It's a defect in the system. When a bill goes into a conference committee, it gets yanked out of the sunlight and into the shadows. The conference process is a closed one, so you can go into a conference committee and basically add anything or take out anything you want and no one really knows. It transforms the legislature into a secret cabal"
- Rep. Dennis Kucinich, D-Ohio -

"The presidency is a surrealistic performance art."
