American Empire has over 400,000 troops in 135 countries

Published by admin on June 3rd, 2007 | Tagged terrorism, freedom, ron paul

According to LewRockwell.com, the United States had 252,764 troops stationed in over 135 countries in 2003...excluding Iraq. This statistic probably has not changed much. For Iraq there is about 150,000 US troops stationed.

We need to pull out ALL troops out of foreign countries NOW! There is no reason in the world to have 75,000 troops or so in Germany for crying out loud.

We also have to look at the tremendous cost of all of this. For 2007 the Department of Defense will spend about $440 billion. If the United States did not pursue Global Empire ambitions, we could defend the country easily for $100 billion per year.

We wonder why there is terrorism and American hatred all around the world, when we fail to look through other peoples eyes. If there were Chinese bases in America, our tune would change.

Ron Paul is the only candidate that would dramatically reduce the American Military presence throughout the World, save Americans money, and reduce foreign hatred of the American Empire.
