It is no secret that the U.S. military has used the ocean as trashcan for munitions in the past. Peter discussed at the Old DSN how federal lawmakers were pressing the US Army to reveal everything it knows about a massive international program to dump chemical weapons off homeland and foreign shores. "The Army now admits that it secretly dumped 64 million pounds of nerve and mustard agents into the sea, along with 400,000 chemical-filled bombs, land mines and rockets and more than 500 tons of radioactive waste - either tossed overboard or packed into the holds of scuttled vessels." Brian pointed me to the Daily Press's in depth coverage of this whole issue. Registration is free and only takes a minute or two and is extremely worthwhile. Included at the site are maps of disposal sites (downloadable as pdfs), stories, descriptions of items dumped including nerve and mustard gas, and rather depressing pictures some are below the fold (all from Daily Press).

Hundreds of dolphins washed ashore in Virginia and New Jersey shorelines in 1987 with burns similar to mustard gas exposure. One marine-mammal specialist suspects Army-dumped chemical weapons killed them. (Photo courtesy of the Marine Mammal Stranding Center in New Jersey)

If they say 64 million pounds then you know it's probably double, even triple that. I was wondering the other day if all those millions and millions of steel drums full of who knows what sitting at the bottom of the worlds oceans are rusting away and leaking into the enviroment.

Sooner or later, the human race will reap what it has sown. Mother Earth is very capable of returning mankind back to the Stone Age. Such disregard for the Being which gives us all life will not last long before we get an "attitude adjustment." So be it...

The "attitude adjustment" is already here. With the addition of the radioactive particles blowing in the wind from the Iraq war(don't get me started), the giant list of disgusting chemicals in our "food", the cancerous ingredients in the major consumer name brand cosmetic products(and I don't just mean makeup - everything, shampoo, conditioner, soap, deodorant, etc.), and the many more things that "the man" has placed in the goods that are available to the public and to be recommended as "intelligent" decisions to make. So --- What now, you may be asking? The Secret We need to all focus on how to save Mother Earth. Picking up trash as you see it lying on the ground, recycling, plant a tree, just to name a few. Just remember: Where There is a Will, There is a Way!

Help us out, let's all do our part!

Wow, reading that made me want to vomit. Sometimes I'm ashamed to be a member of the species. I find it insane to ever have made such weapons at all. All our hard-earned taxes "down the drain". I wonder what companies made how many billions of dollars creating those hideous weapons to begin with...

That is really nice. The ocean can be viewed as as a closed vessel. Although it does it's best to stay clean I think this is a little too much for it to handle, at least on the local level. There will be reached sometime in the future when these things will begin to leak. It could have already started. When it really gets going it will be an environmental nightmare that will make us wane for global warming.

The only way to fix this now is to go down and get the chemicals and dispose of it safely on dry land. There is no other way, a large part of the ocean as well as a large part of the eastern seaboard could be destroyed.
