Who is responsible for the California Fires?

Are the fires in Southern California a result of terrorism as some on Fox News have suggested? Fox News quoted a 2003 FBI memo that alerted law enforcement agencies that an al-Qaeda terrorist being held in detention had talked of masterminding a plot to set a series of devastating forest fires around the western United States. Of course, "al Qaeda" is always the operative word when Fox refers to terrorism, but what if there is someone else behind these fires, someone who could clearly benefit from getting rid of problematic neighbors and getting big government contracts from disaster relief operations?

I recently got two emails that are pretty disturbing. The first one links to the National Terror Alert Response Center and is sourced from ChicoER (although ChicoER's link is now down). It describes suspicious activity by men with cameras visiting various Northern California Fire Stations and running off when detected. see www.nationalterroralert.com/updates/2007/09/20/suspicious-activity-at-california-fire-stations-terrorism-center-issues-watch-request

The second one is about the town of Potrero where the citizens were planning a major fight against Blackwater, the mercenary company that is planning to build a 824-acre facility in in their community. This article describes how the citizens of Potrero saw no firetrucks until long after their houses burned down, found all roads blocked, and heard no reverse 911 calls warning them to evacuate.

Obviously, we don't have enough information to come to any conclusions as to what this might mean, maybe we never will, but these are very suspicious stories that need some examination.

Here's the first story:

MEMORABLE QUOTES

"The smart way to keep people passive and obedient is to strictly limit the spectrum of acceptable opinion, but allow very lively debate within that spectrum - even encourage the more critical and dissident views. That gives people the sense that there's free thinking going on, while all the time the presuppositions of the system are being reinforced by the limits put on the range of the debate. "

During the last week of July, fire officials in the Bay Area city of Campbell reported that two men had been seen videotaping routine activities at a fire station.

The men were reportedly in their 20s or early 30s, and one was using a sophisticated news media-style camera.

When firefighters attempted to talk with the men, they reportedly jumped into a waiting car and sped off.

The incident prompted the Sacramento Regional Terrorism Threat Assessment Center to send out a request for Northern California fire stations to watch for similar incidents, and report them immediately.

The day the request went out, Sept. 6, a second, similar incident was reported at a fire station in Yuba City.

According to officials, a fire captain encountered two men parked outside the city's main fire station. One of the men got out and allegedly began taking pictures of the fire station's administration building. When the captain approached the men, to tell them they were in a no-parking zone, the photographer jumped in the vehicle and the men left.

The man who took the photos was described as being between 30 and 40 years of age.

On Sept. 12, Fresno Fire Department officials spotted two men in a vehicle allegedly observing activities at a fire training center. When questioned, the driver reportedly said they were just checking things out, then left immediately.

Two days later, on Sept. 14, personnel from the Sacramento Metro Fire Department noticed two men taking photos of a fire station. A third man sat in the back of a car, and appeared to be drawing or taking notes. When fire officials walked toward them, the two taking pictures jumped in the vehicle and sped away.

The men allegedly took pictures in front of the station, and in the rear. They ranged in age from late teens to about 60, officials recalled.

Tim Johnstone, a commander with the threat assessment center in Sacramento, said all of the incidents are being investigated, but there is no indication they might be related.

"We aren't considering this a specific threat at this time; we're just asking our public safety partners to be on the watch for suspicious activity," he said.

He said the threat assessment center was formed to act as a collection point for homeland security intelligence, and disseminate it appropriately.

Jay Alan, deputy director of communication for the Governor's Office of Homeland Security, said Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger is concerned about security agencies sharing information, and has made it a top priority.

Local officials said no suspicious incidents involving videotaping or photos have been reported at fire stations.

Fire department personnel are being asked to take note of vehicle descriptions, descriptions of suspicious subjects, and

"That's not the way the world really works anymore. We're an empire now, and when we act, we create our own reality. And while you're studying that reality - judiciously, as you will - we'll act again, creating other new realities, which you can study too, and that's how things will sort out. We're history's actors... and you, all of you, will be left to just study what we do."

The second story is from award-winning journalist Mariam Raftery:

Potrero, California, the town that has gained national attention for standing up against Blackwater Worldwide's plan to build a private military-style training camp in their pristine backcountry community east of San Diego, now faces an even more formidable force. The Harris wildfire which began outside Potrero early Sunday morning has ravaged the small rural community, where many residents remain trapped without supplies four days after the fire began.

"It's like the Kalahari Desert as you drive down Potrero Valley Road. There are sand dunes everywhere-dirt and ash," Jan Hedlun reported via cell phone on Tuesday. "We can't get in or out, and we are running out of supplies." This morning, however, Hedlun said food will be provided to beleaguered residents at the old Volunteer Fire Department Building. The County recently began initiating its fire consolidation plan, closing some rural volunteer firefighting departments. But here in Potrero, some residents complained that they never saw a single fire engine until long after their homes burned down.

Stretches where homes once stood along Highway 94 have been reduced to wasteland. Many homes have burned, although the town's store, library, and Post Office are still standing. "There is looting going on up here," said Hedlun. Another source described Potrero as a "moonscape with houses here and there."

Many Potrero residents never received reverse 911 calls warning them to evacuate. Some rely on cell phones, which were not included in the evacuation system.

"It's like Armageddon," said Jill Michaels, who had just four minutes to pack belongings before fleeing flames that singed her husband. She and her family tried to evacuate but found all roads blocked. She returned to witness her Potrero home burn to the ground.

Here you can read the rest of the story:

www.calitics.com/showDiary.do?diaryId=4175

So, as the people of Potrero were preparing for an intense recall election on December 11 to kick out the planning group who approved Blackwater's base this fire breaks loose and devastates their community. And, then we have an alert regarding the men filming fire stations in Northern California?

Do these two events connect in anyway?

Time and investigation may tell.

Who is responsible for the California Fires?

ANSWER:

AMERICA THE FOLLOWING IS WHAT THE COMMUNIST MAIN STREAM MEDIA IN AMERICA WON'T TELL YOU THAT REALLY HAPPENED IN NEW ORLEANS AND TO COMPARE IT WITH THE RECENT FIRES IN CALIFORNIA IS TOTALLY ASS NINE. THE PEOPLE IN THE KATRINA ASSASSINATION BY OUR GOVERNMENT; ISRAEL, ENTAILED POOR BLACKS AND WHITES WITH NO MONEY OR CLOUT WITH THE INTENTION OF STEALING THEIR PROPERTY ULTIMATELY TO BUILD HUGE LUXURY HOTELS TO MAKE BILLIONS OF DOLLARS FOR THEMSELVES. TO COMPARE THAT TO THE VICTIMS IN CA'S FIRES LIKE THE BLUE BLOODED PEOPLE IN RANCHO BERNARDO, RANCHO SANTA FE, POWAY, ETC., WHO FOR THE MOST PART LIVE IN MILLION DOLLAR HOMES MAKES ME WANT TO PUKE. THESE FIRES WERE PURPOSELY SET BY THE SAME GOVERNMENT (OURS) THAT DESTROYED THE TWIN TOWERS, OK BUILDING ETC. IT WAS DONE MERELY TO BE ABLE TO IMPROVE BUSH'S IMAGE WITH THE PUBLIC FROM HIS INEPT & PURPOSEFUL MIS HANDLING OF THE KATRINA VICTIMS. IT ALSO GAVE HIM THE CHANCE TO BLAME HIS EVIL ON THE AL QUEDA (ISRAEL'S MOSSAD). HIS HANDLING OF THE CA FIRES VICTIMS WOULD IMPROVE HIS IMAGE WITH KATRINA AND LOOK LIKE HE WAS AFTER THE TERRORIST THAT CAUSED IT ALL ULTIMATELY TO GET AWAY WITH GOING TO WAR WITH IRAN FOR ISRAEL TO START WW3. HE CAN'T DO SO WITH SUCH A LOW IMAGE HE HAD PRIOR. HOW SICK IS THAT? WHY CAN'T YOU SEE THIS AMERICA?? BUSH/ISRAEL HAS ABSOLUTELY NO GOOD FEELINGS FOR ANYONE IN AMERICA JUST THEIR EVIL AGENDA OF NWO/JWO FOR ISRAEL'S NEW WORLD ORDER AND THE ENSLAVEMENT OF AMERICA/WORLD. <http://clifylq.livejournal.com/59123.html>

STOP BLACKWATER IN CALIFORNIA!

Hi Clifylq,

I am not implying that Katrina and the fires in California should be compared as far as obvious racist component to what happened to the people of New Orleans. What I am saying is that maybe both events were made to happen for a purpose, which you imply as well. Many of the residents of New Orleans testified in front of Congress of hearing bombs going off at the levees. We do know that these fires in S. California were set on purpose too.

Besides the obvious pr that Bush and FEMA are hoping to get to make themselves look good, both events can be used to support as Naomi Klein describes it "disaster capitalism," – with the shock and devastation and displacement that comes after these major catastrophic events new inroads into privatization can happen.

This event might be a play to have Halliburton, Dyncorp or Blackwater try and open up the markets down there for rebuilding and security contracts. After all, now that the California National Guard are over there fighting for Bush's corporate buddies' profits, someones got to fill the vacuum and help rebuild.

We should watch this very closely.

maybe i am mistaken, but haven't there always been brush fires in that part of california?

It's the desert for god's sakes, when lightning strikes and sets something on fire, everything is going to burn really quickly, and with more and more people building homes in california because of the population increase there, it's no wonder that so many people's homes got burned.

They shouldn't have built them in brushfire country in the first place!

As America is transformed from an industrial titan to an impoverished nation of slaves, disorder must flourish. Disorder and destruction via fire, aerial spraying, currency devaluation, wearing down of our military, illegal immigration, food and water shortages, disease, etc..till we reach critical mass. Then the police boot will come down, HARD!

Blackwater just wanted to eliminate the 'enemy' to their plans for a quasi military base. I wonder how many of these homes were in danger of foreclosure and what banks would have had dangerous financial 'exposure'. Then the fake FEMA newsconference that the 'white house' says it doesn't do' and Fox's 'al qaeda fires' claim make it disturbingly unsettling, especially when you add the FEMA 'trifecta' of disaster plans that included 9/11, Katrina, and 'earthquakes' in CA.

To anonymous #1,

The authorities have already said that most of the fires were the result of arson, not wildfires.

It would be nice to think that this was an act of God, but it wasn't. That area in So. Cal is a dangerous place for people to live, like in most of California. Arsonists took advantage of the hot, dry Santa Ana winds to create a disaster with full cognizance of what their actions would entail.

"They shouldn't have built them in brushfire country in the first place!"

Then you agree, it would be wrong for the federal government to finance the construction of a Blackwater facility there.

Indeed, if Blackwater is going to make such foolish decisions, maybe we shouldn't be contracting their services at all.

Thank you, Thank you, and thank you again for this post and letting me know about Miriam Raftery's article. I have just e-mailed the article to our fellow Vets For Peace as this is one of our issues. I was afraid of Blackwater doing this - they've been uncannily quiet of late. It looks as if we must remain vigilant on two fronts - the fires AND Blackwater!

I don't know what to make of the mystery men taking fire station photos. Strange.

Wanted to ask - did you go to the demonstration in SF yesterday? We had one planned here in SD but it was canceled because of the fires. Any news on the SF one?

Someone said they wished this was an act of God. Well, no matter who did it, it is still from God. HE said HE will destroy perfectly and use His elements upon the heathen and unrighteous. HE uses the evil beasts to punish the wicked. So at any rate...this is an act of God.

First:

" "They shouldn't have built them in brushfire country in the first place!" "

"Then you agree, it would be wrong for the federal government to finance the construction of a Blackwater facility there."

Excellent point. Total waste of taxpayer money, if the facilities will need rebuilt once or twice per decade...

AND

Caught this a little while ago, at this link:

<http://www.signonsandiego.com/news/metro/20071028-9999-lz1n28inferno.html>

" The first flames were sighted at 9:23 a.m. near Potrero, a dusty town north of the U.S.-Mexico border. Emergency crews answered the alarm bell quickly; the experts knew fire conditions couldn't have been worse.

Thomas Varshock got one look at the onrushing Harris fire and prepared to defend his home. He was dead before lunch, and his 15-year-old boy gravely injured. The fire crew sent to rescue them was engulfed by flames when the wind shifted. The Harris fire was out of control, and would be for days. "

Funny how all that mayhem seemed to start in Potrero...
