

A Thorough, Detailed History Of Zionist Crimes

Preface

It was decided to compile a relatively comprehensive account of the Zionist mafia's crimes, ranging from the spinning of wartime propaganda into a new religion for political and business purposes, to the 9/11 World Trade Center demolition and the London bombings. This description is essentially in chronological order. Readers with more interest in recent events may scroll down to the period of their choice. Some consideration of the reality behind government and press distortions of previous events is necessary in order to fully appreciate the current global power structure and motive behind 21st century atrocities. This synthesis is clearly a mix of facts, conjecture and opinion. To complement it, another briefer version is planned in timeline format, which will contain a greater proportion of facts. Although the following description will contain errors, it is certainly a much more accurate rendition of history than versions provided by governments and mainstream media. This is subject to revision, and further links will be added from time to time...

When a Gentile realises that the world wars and recent major terrorist events are all the handiwork of a Jewish Zionist mafia, the initial reaction is something like, "Bloody Jews! They were the only ones who profited from World Wars One and Two, and they continue to profit from demolishing skyscrapers, bombing trains and restaurants, sinking ferries, etc." In fact, just as Gentiles have been deceived and abused, the vast majority of the Jewish people have been cruelly exploited and misled by the crooked cabal who lead them and exert such great influence upon the cabal's obsequious flunkies who purport to lead various nations. There is no doubt that almost all Jews sincerely believe in the "Holocaust" legend (as do many Gentiles), and the criminals have seized on these fears of persecution by using it as a recruiting sergeant for Mossad terrorist operatives, who are led to believe that they are serving their nation and helping to "save Jews" around the world. The problem is that the criminal cabal's tactics include hiding behind the Jewish people, claiming that an attack on the tiny crooked elite is an "anti-Semitic" racial attack on all Jews. The cabal were only too happy to sacrifice Jews in World War Two. Yitzhak / Izaak Greenbaum said that one cow in Palestine was worth more than all the Jews in Europe (Poland or the diaspora in some accounts). But even if the true death toll (from typhus, and a breakdown in the supply chain leading to starvation) was only 100,000, that was 100,000 too many.

A researcher may speculate that all Jews are part of a conspiracy and therefore guilty. But such hypotheses require some quite extravagant postulates. For example, if Jews had been created about 6,000 years ago by an advanced alien species, the interesting corollary is that Creationism and Evolution are both correct, to varying degrees. However, there is no empirical support for such conjecture, and Occam's Razor favours the previous explanation that the mafia warlords play on people's fears of persecution. Only a fool would claim that there are no differences of proclivities between various tribes or races. But we are all part of the human race, and a common characteristic of the various subgroups is that they all feature a decent, honourable majority and a crooked minority, and the ordinary people are oppressed (to varying extents) by their leaders who are almost invariably part of the crooked minority. This analysis concentrates on zionists, Israelis or Jews because their criminal leaders have become more powerful than their Gentile rivals. In order to improve the human condition, these crooks must be exposed and brought to justice. The intelligent investigator will progress beyond the "Bloody Jews!" phase. The criminals will attempt to deflect attention by claiming that such research will lead to "hate crimes". We at this site believe that the well-intentioned researcher has better things to do with his or her time than to simply select some group to hate. As for the would-be "hater", there will always be sites and material available.

Approximately 1,250 years ago, a pagan tribe of Turks, Finns and Mongoloids - who had established a kingdom known as Khazaria in the steppeland between the Black and Caspian Seas - realised that converting to Judaism would reap massive dividends. Their King Bulan and his advisors wanted to introduce a monotheistic religion. However, adopting Christianity would have left them subservient to Rome; an alternative choice of Islam would have placed them under the rule of the Caliph of Baghdad. Judaism offered a third way which would offer the prospects of continuing to trade with both Christians and Muslims, along with lucrative profits obtained through creating and exploiting divisions between each group.

Attacks on Khazaria by the Rus, Byzantines and Mongols gradually forced the Khazar tribe to flee westwards to Eastern Europe, with some continuing right across to Spain and others settling in the Middle East including Egypt. The empire of self-styled or so-called Jews had been completely overrun by the time of Genghis Khan around AD 1200. In the period up to 1900, most of the emerging crooked cabal's operations were focused on amassing great wealth by way of the Rothschilds' banking exploits. This seed money was to be used for political and terrorist purposes throughout the 20th century and beyond.

In the late nineteenth century, these proto-terrorists and gangsters had a brilliant, Machiavellian scheme for world domination, including bribery and blackmail of governments, and control of the press and banking system. But in order to become untouchable and more powerful than the governments they sought to control, it was necessary for them to obtain their own sovereign state. And by the 1880s or 1890s this was no mean feat - the earth's territories had already been seized and allocated. Desperate times called for desperate measures.

A decision was made to create a new world religion, whose tenets would justify the handing over of sovereign territory to this crooked organization. The term "zionism", coined in 1890, referred to the political programme to seize territory. But the programme went far beyond the land grab, euphemistically defined as seeking "to establish a home for the Jewish people in Eretz-Israel". Zionism is best used to describe the whole Machiavellian geopolitical get-immensely-rich-steadily scheme, featuring the fomenting of racial and religious hatred in order to establish a global dictatorship, as detailed in the remainder of this article and other files at www.takeourworldback.com. The religion which would be an essential part of zionism is best described as Holocaustianity.

Early attempts to introduce Holocaustianity's kernel - a hoax of "six million" dead or dying Jews - failed, when global conditions did not include the prerequisite critical mass of corrupt world leaders. In June 1900, for example, Rabbi Stephen Wise spoke of "6,000,000 living, bleeding, suffering arguments in favour of zionism". Another botched attempt to kick-start the myth was in 1919, when few believed Martin Glynn's claims of "six million" starving Jews. In 1936, Chaim Weizmann told of "six million" Jews in Europe who were unwanted and effectively sentenced to be imprisoned.

The derivation of the "six million" is an ancient Jewish prophecy, which predicts the return of the Jews to the "Promised Land" after the loss of six million of their number. Specifically, the six stems from the sixth letter "vav" in the Hebrew alphabet or alefbet. Six is the number of man in the Jewish tradition, since vav is said to be a picture of man. Man was supposedly created on the sixth day, works for six days of the week, and the "beast" has the "number of a man" - 666. Six billion deaths would be credible only to utter nincompoops; six thousand would be too insignificant to yield appreciable income and political capital. Hence, six million was chosen as a figure that almost everyone could agree on.

The few who had been duped by the pre-WWII scams did provide some cash. However, the crooked zionist mafia were already immensely rich by the time of Glynn's assertions, through seizing control of US and European central banks and newspapers, and looting Russia in the "Bolshevik Revolution". Nowadays these crime supremos will not even get out of bed for anything less than a billion dollars, unless the project provides other non-financial benefits.

It was not until the zionists had instigated a Second World War which killed in excess of fifty million that these genocidal gangsters tricked the world into providing them with their own sovereign state, and into allowing the establishment of the new religion that would be employed to stifle all opposition. Control of their own state - "Israel" in occupied Palestine - would furnish a base for terrorist (Mossad) training camps, nuclear weapons, and the zionist international crime syndicate.

As we shall see, by around 2001, Israel's arsenal had extended to several German-built, diesel-powered submarines fitted with nuclear-tipped modified cruise missiles with a 900-mile range. Their spying skills, and ability to get close to political leaders, were already second to none. Hence, the zionist mafia were then able to bribe, blackmail and terrorise other states into supplying their own armed forces as Israel's private mercenaries or proxy armies, invading and attacking its oil and water-rich enemy neighbouring states. The pretexts would range from truly asinine claims, e.g. of "WMDs" and "evil dictators" with "industrial shredders", to more elaborate schemes involving remote-controlled unmanned planes and multi-billion-dollar insurance frauds featuring skyscrapers felled by strategically placed thermite charges.

Zionist mobsters had gained substantial control of the press in Europe and the US by the early 20th century. These criminals planned to use the "six million" hoax along with a World War in order to seize their state in Palestine, but it was a question of awaiting the right opportunity. In 1916, Germany was on course to win World War One. Its submarines controlled the Atlantic, and the French, Italian and Russian armies were defecting, rebelling, or in disarray. Magnanimously, Germany did not want to force anything more than calling it quits and starting afresh with no strings attached.

Until October 1916, zionists had been on the side of Germany. So the US press - already in the hands of Jews who also controlled the banks - supported Germany. Many of the American Jews had come from Germany; they also hoped to see Czar Nicholas II defeated. But, ever the opportunists, European zionists made a deal with the British War Cabinet on the lines of: "You can still win this war and beat Germany. Get us Palestine as a home for the Jews, and we'll get the US to enter the war on your behalf."

After the deal was concluded, the zionist press switched sides - concocting inane tales of Germans chopping the hands off babies. The consequence of the deal was the defeat of Germany and the Balfour Declaration. Britain had no right to give Palestine to the Zionists; nevertheless, they promised to do so. The Zionists had demanded something in writing to ensure the British kept their side of the bargain; they got the Balfour declaration. It promised that the British government would "use their best endeavours" to establish "a national home for the Jewish people" in Palestine.

In Germany, Jews had been respected, admired members of the community. At the end of World War One, the Germans became aware of the machinations which had brought the US into the war, leading to Germany's defeat and the associated terms of surrender and reparations. Jews were collectively blamed for the defeat. Although the German Jews were not physically harmed, they were perceived as traitors having sold out their German hosts who had treated them so well. Undoubtedly, there was deliberate discrimination and ostracism against Jews at this stage.

In 1933, World Jewry demanded that Hitler be replaced, and German Jews be reinstated to their former positions. The Germans refused outright, and then Samuel Untermyer - a wealthy Jew with strong links to US leaders - broadcast an announcement that World Jewry was declaring economic war on Germany. In order to feed its population, Germany had to import two-thirds of its food. 82 million Germans were crammed into an area of a few hundred thousand square kilometres at a time when 46 million Englishmen claimed the right to rule over 40 million square kilometres of the earth. Boycotting of German exports would have left the nation unable to finance its food imports, and a number of Germans would have starved. Hence, the eastward territorial expansion into Austria and Czechoslovakia.

 A letter dated August 28, 1937, from Chancellor Heinrich Brüning to Winston Churchill stated: "I did not and do not even today, for understandable reasons, wish to reveal that from October 1928 the two largest regular contributors to the Nazi party were the general managers of two of the largest Berlin banks, both of Jewish faith, and one of them the leader of Zionism in Germany".

Twenty years after the Balfour Declaration, the British had still not delivered on their promise to hand over part or the whole of Palestine; Zionists were also struggling to get their nascent "six million" hoax taken seriously. Hitler's final territorial solution (abbreviated to "the final solution" in Zionist propaganda) to the Jewish question was compulsory repatriation. He had offered - on many occasions right up to April 1945 - to let the Allied countries take in the Jews. They refused, knowing that any talk of "gas chambers" or an "extermination policy" was nothing more than Zionist propaganda and wild conspiracy theory.

The National Socialists originally hoped to send Germany's Jews to Madagascar, but the French would not accept them. As the conflict intensified, this idea had to be abandoned. The Germans did not want the Jews within the German living space or Lebensraum; in addition, they did not want them in Palestine. In fact, the German foreign office's terms for sending Jews to Britain or releasing them via Switzerland included an insistence that they must never be transferred to Palestine, since the Arabs rejected the Jews just as strongly as did the Germans.

So in the run-up to WWII, Zionists financed Hitler because they knew it would help them to get Palestine. Although the Germans did not want the Jews in Palestine, they intended to move them eastwards. The diabolical Anglo-French Mutual Aid Agreement with Poland, announced on March 31, 1939, led to the terrorising, slaughter and rape of thousands of ethnic Germans by Jews in the Polish corridor, with the backing of the Polish government. Germany invaded Poland in order to save Germans from these outrages. The Anglo-French-Polish pact was so beneficial to Zionism, that if Zionists were not behind it, it was extraordinarily convenient.

The Germans put some Jews in labour "concentration" camps, hoping that the final territorial solution to the "Jewish problem" could be resolved after the war. The camps were hit by terrible epidemics of typhus, particularly as the Allied bombing raids intensified and Soviet troops advanced. Breakdown of the supply chain also led to malnutrition and starvation. The gas Zyklon B - essentially hydrogen cyanide - was employed in tiny delousing rooms to fumigate the inmates' clothing in order to reduce the toll from typhus. Crematory ovens served to incinerate the dead and reduce the risk of contamination and infection compared to burial. Because of wartime scarcities, shoes, clothes, human hair (which was then used in the textile industry), etc was collected in piles for recycling.

When the Allied forces took control of the camps, they photographed the dead and the dying and the malnourished, whilst omitting the large crowds who had remained healthy. At this point, the liars had not properly agreed on their stories. Some propagandists were simply trying to make the Germans look bad; zionists were anxious to promote the "gas chambers" hoax. If the anti-German reporters had synchronised their stories with the zionist mobsters, they would have shown images of the dead along with a few healthy inmates. If the camps really were "death camps" with an astounding processing capacity, prisoners would have been gassed before having time to become barely more than starving skin and bones.

Other Allied propaganda was rather more cunning. They filmed the tiny delousing gas chambers and portrayed them as if they had been used for mass execution of prisoners rather than for fumigation of clothing in order to protect and save lives. They filmed the crematory ovens and claimed they had been used to dispose of the bodies of millions of victims of genocide, rather than the reality of cremation being a safer method of disposal than burial at a time when lethal infections were rife. They photographed the piles of human hair, shoes, etc, as if these were trophies collected by sadistic mass murderers, rather than part of a recycling operation by a nation fighting for its very survival against attacks by the US, USSR, UK, etc. They showed the cans of Zyklon B insecticide as if they had been used for mass murder of human beings in "gas chambers", as opposed to the reality of serving to kill lice in order to save lives.

It is well established that cremation by modern-day ovens such as the Newton takes about 70 minutes per body. At Auschwitz, where Holocaustianity claims the majority of the gassing took place (even though the figure has been revised from 4,500,000 to "a little over 1 million" with no corresponding reduction in the headline "six million Jews, five million non-Jews" figures; original claims of gassing in Germany proper were exposed as fake decades ago and quietly abandoned), there were several dozen oven units or muffles in total. They were in operation for between one and two years. Suppose one had to dispose of 11 million bodies over two years, suppose the time required is one hour per body, and suppose the ovens are to be operated throughout a 100% duty cycle 24/7 with no stoppages for maintenance or to change the firebricks. The number of ovens required would be:

11 million / (number of hours in two years)

= 11,000,000 / (2 * 365.25 * 24) = 11,000,000 / 17,532 = 628.

So where were the other 500+ oven muffle units? In fact, the Topf ovens were only designed and programmed to function for twelve hours per day, so the Holocaustian must explain where the other 1,200 oven units were located. It is easier for the Holocaustian to propose that the laws of physics, chemistry, biology, mathematics, logic and psychology are not invariant throughout the last 100 years on the earth's surface, but undergo local, temporary variations - e.g. Poland, 1944; and Manhattan, 2001. Presumably, it could be claimed that the "variations" are caused by invisible, inaudible, odourless "spirits", possibly of dead Jews or Muslims. The Holocaustian's world-view is but a hollow flim-flam and hocus-pocus.

In any case, even after cremation, the remaining bone fragments (which must be crushed by mechanical means) are some 4 to 10 pounds, say 7 lb per person which is 77,000,000 lb or 38,500 short tons. If the Holocaust or Shoah business had nothing to hide, its principals would not be so anxious to prevent the Iranians, for example, from conducting an independent investigation to search for forensic evidence of the alleged Holocaust.

The amount of coke required for cremations is known to be around 30 to 40 kg per corpse, let us assume 30 kg. 11,000,000 * 30 kg = 330,000 metric tonnes. Deliveries of coke to Auschwitz are known, and are a tiny fraction of this. In 1943, for example, the total coke deliveries from March to October were some 637.5 tonnes, which is a mean monthly delivery of about 80 tonnes. Even over two years, the total would be around $80 * 24 = 1,920$ tonnes. So at 30 kg per corpse we have $1,920 / 0.03 = 64,000$ which is a long way short of 1 million let alone 11 million. The actual coke deliveries to Auschwitz confirm the figures in the official death books of tens of thousands of dead, who were victims of typhus and starvation. Responsibility for their deaths, along with more than 50 million other victims of WWII's human holocaust, lies with wicked, traitorous scoundrels such as Churchill, Roosevelt and Stalin, together with their zionist crime baron handlers.

Back in October 1917, the zionists had taken control of Russia in the Bolshevik Revolution. Lenin, originally named Vladimir Ilich Ulyanov, had a Jewish maternal grandfather named Blank who later converted to Christianity. Leon Trotsky, originally named Lev Davidovich Bronstein, was born to Jewish parents in the South Ukraine. Jews comprised around 80% of the Bolshevik officials.

Stalin's defeat of Trotsky, and purges in the Thirties, were a blow to the zionists. Nevertheless, they did not forgo the opportunity to partake in an orgy of ethnic cleansing and looting. They failed to secure Russia as their very own zionist sovereign state, but the establishment of totalitarian societies in Eastern Europe helped their "Holocaust" hoax in gaining a foothold until it was generally accepted by governments and the unquestioning masses.

Real historical holocausts, such as the tens of millions murdered under the Soviet communist regime which was instigated by ex-Khazar self-styled Jews, or the 1.5 million Christian Armenians massacred by the Young Turks (part of the ex-Khazars' tribe), are ignored by the zionist press as it plays the fictional "Jewish holocaust" for all it is worth. And it has been worth hundreds of billions of marks, and more than a trillion dollars, to date.

In 1946, Jewish terrorists dressed as Arabs blew up the King David hotel in Palestine, killing 91 and injuring 45. This false-flag style, in which stage-managed attacks are blamed on an innocent third party for political ends, was to be a cornerstone of Israeli state terrorism and frequently employed over the following decades including the 21st century. It did not always succeed - particularly in the Forties, Fifties and Sixties - in which case Jews ended up having to admit responsibility.

Britain, with Arab support, had conquered Palestine from the Ottoman Turks in 1917. The UN's forerunner, the League of Nations, gave Britain a mandate to administer Palestinian territory (along with Transjordan and Iraq) in April 1920. The King David hotel was a base for British administrators, military command and a police division. In 1946 the zionist cabal were still waiting for the British to deliver their promise on Palestine (as per the Balfour Declaration). And after several failures, they believed that their latest "six million" hoax might have better success in the context of a World War that had just killed at least 50 million. Killing British forces whilst pitting them against the Palestinians was aimed at speeding up the departure of the Brits and bringing about a transfer of power in favour of the zionist cabal.

Jews do not all support the racist supremacist policies of zionism and Israel, just as one would not expect all US and UK citizens, for example, to mindlessly support Bush, Blair and their zionist handlers' criminal decimation and abuse of the Iraqi population. Groups such as Jews Against Zionism, Jews Not Zionists and Neturei Karta are vehemently opposed to the actions of the self-styled or so-called Jews who were originally pagan Khazarian Asiatics. The ex-Khazars' secular leaders, who are now zionist mafia crimelords and Israeli politicians, cynically exploit Judaism for political and business purposes. The Orthodox Jews practised Israelite customs in Biblical times, when pagan Khazar traditions included human and animal sacrifices. In comparison to the Khazars, the Israelites were a darker-skinned race from more southern climes. The Khazars were predominantly a light-skinned Turkic people, were not of the Semitic races, and had no historical ties to Palestine. This distinction persists, with the Jewish Israelis being lighter than the Semitic Arabs.

It is a great irony that Hitler and his National Socialists are claimed (by the Zionist press) to have been "anti-Semitic" and "Aryan (or even Caucasian) supremacists". German National Socialists wanted to banish Jews from their living space; most of these Jews were ex-Khazarian Caucasians (or even Aryans). The same alleged anti-Semites insisted that European Jews should not be foisted upon the Palestinians, a Semitic people. Another irony is that those who oppose the status quo, of wealth redistribution from approximately 99.9% of the population to a tiny, crooked elite who exploit mass murder to satisfy their lust for power and riches, are labelled as "right-wing" extremists or "criminals" by the same "Robin Hood in reverse" genocidal megalomaniacs they are attempting to bring to justice.

In 1948, the Zionist mafia got their sovereign state: Israel. This was just two years after the King David attack, and just as the hoax of "The Holocaust" began to take hold in the minds of the true believers - aided by the Zionist media and the fact that Stalin and Beria would not permit independent observers to check the alleged crime scenes in Poland. However, subsequent events demonstrated that Zionism is much more than establishing a national homeland for the Jewish people. It is a programme for world domination and dictatorship, as documented in The Protocols of The Learned Elders of Zion and its earlier (ghost-written) revisions such as The Dialogue in Hell Between Machiavelli and Montesquieu (1864), and The Prince (c. 1516).

In May 1949, former US Secretary of Defense James Forrestal was found dead at the Bethesda Naval Hospital in suspicious circumstances. This was less than two months after he had been fired by President Truman. Forrestal had been the administration's leading opponent of the formation and US recognition of Israel. Seven weeks after being committed for "treatment", apparently against his will, his body was found on a ledge beneath a window of his 16th-floor room. The official account held that it was "suicide". It was said he had been copying a morbid poem by Sophocles shortly before plunging from the window, but the handwriting on the transcription did not match that of Forrestal. A belt or cord from his dressing gown was tied tightly around his neck, but there was no evidence that the other end had ever been secured to a radiator, say, for a hanging attempt. In any case, a would-be suicide could have simply jumped rather than attempt a hanging. It appears that Forrestal was strangled and thrown out of the window. As he still represented a threat to Israel's interests, Israeli forces would be a prime suspect. There remains the possibility that Israel was innocent in this case, and the assassination was to prevent publication of Forrestal's knowledge of corruption in the Truman administration.

In July 1954, American and British interests in Cairo and Alexandria were hit by a series of bombs. These were originally thought to have been placed by militant Moslems. A couple of years prior to the eruption of the "Suez Crisis", negotiations were taking place between Egypt and Britain over control of the Suez Canal, and it was thought that militants were attempting to scupper any compromise by Colonel Nasser. In October 1954, Egypt announced that an Israeli spy ring of thirteen saboteurs had been broken up. The plot was uncovered when incendiary bombs went off prematurely in the pocket of one of the perpetrators, outside a British-owned Alexandria theatre.

There were claims of an "anti-Semitic frame-up". However, the result was humiliation for Israel when it was forced to admit its responsibility for the terrorist attacks. It had been Israel's head of Intelligence, Colonel Benyamin Givli, who had independently ordered the spies to strike. However, his boss, Defence Minister Pinhas Lavon who was oblivious of the operation, ended up having to resign, and the incident was dubbed the "Lavon Affair". Note that phosphorus, used in the 1954 attacks, was later used to sink an Egyptian ferry in 2006 with the loss of around 1,000 lives (q.v. below).

In November 1963, Israel's Mossad operatives assassinated US President John F Kennedy. The motive was that Kennedy opposed Israel's (i.e. the Zionist mafia's) plans to develop nuclear weapons at its (their) Dimona facility in the Negev Desert. Naturally, an official version of events was concocted, denying any Israeli involvement, and claiming that Oswald, the patsy, was a "lone assassin".

The official fiction was not supported by eyewitnesses, who reported that shots were fired from the Grassy Knoll rather than Oswald's location in the Texas School Book Depository. They also reported seeing a cloud of smoke in the Knoll area. Eighteen of these material witnesses died within the next three years. Oswald was shot by Jack Ruby (a Jew, born as Jacob Leon Rubenstein). Clay Shaw, who had been observed with Ruby / Rubenstein, was on the Board of Directors of Permindex, a Swiss Corporation which was a Mossad front. Permindex had been expelled from Italy and Switzerland in 1962 for subversive activity. The Banque De Credit International of Geneva (a.k.a. Credit Suisse), founded by Mossad financier Tibor Rosenbaum, was a major shareholder in Permindex. Louis Bloomfield of Montreal was the chairman of Permindex, and an agent of Canada's Bronfman family. Meyer Lansky was a prominent zionist and head of the global crime syndicate, who used the Swiss bank for money laundering.

In June 1967, the state of Israel carried out a sustained air and naval attack on the USS Liberty for over an hour, employing torpedoes, machine guns and napalm rockets. 34 men were killed and more than 170 wounded. According to Israel, the attack was a "tragic accident" due to "misidentification". The ancient Egyptian freighter that Israel claimed to have mistaken the Liberty for was of totally different appearance, and there is ample evidence that they knew full well that their target was an American ship, following two days of reconnaissance by Israeli planes. In the early stages of the attack, US planes were launched from nearby carriers to assist the Liberty, in response to its SOS. When Washington was notified, US Defense Secretary Robert McNamara ordered these aircraft back to the carriers. At the time of the attack, US President Lyndon Johnson (supposedly representing the US people rather than international racketeers) said, "I don't give a damn if every man drowns and the ship sinks. I don't want to embarrass our allies."

Israel's plan was to sink the Liberty, kill any survivors (which it attempted by firing on the life rafts), frame Egypt for the attack, and provoke the US into attacking Egypt. After assassinating Kennedy, the zionist mafia crime lords had installed their stooge - Johnson - as US President. All US opposition to Israel's nuclear programme had, predictably, vanished. Johnson and McNamara were probably advised in advance of the plan to sink a US ship to provide the US with a pretext for attacking Egypt. When the Liberty failed to sink, two hours into the operation, Tel Aviv and Washington had to revert to Plan B - the claim of an "accident".

As the zionist mafia gained in power and influence, they became ever more brazen and demanding. Once merely a band of very rich gangsters with excellent skills in bribery, blackmail and deception who were blagging their way into seizing their own sovereign state, they progressed through to gangsters trying to become a nuclear power, and then to a mafia who not only had their own nuclear sovereign state and international ring of spies and terrorists but also a capability to deliver nuclear warheads anywhere within 900 miles of the coast. An embryonic mafia will run protection rackets and have politicians in its pocket. Advanced globalist gangsters manage a protection racket that has entire governments in its pocket - bribing, blackmailing, and terrorising them into submission. Whenever one of the zionist mafia's client satellite states does something which displeases its crime lord masters, the ex-Khazar terrorists order a hit, which the satellite must then blame on a suitable patsy (or bogeyman) who (or that) is acceptable to both parties.

In the Eighties, when Reagan was US President, Libya was frequently selected as the "perpetrator" of Mossad's various deceptions and terrorist acts. Whenever a Bush was in the White House, the crimes would be blamed on "Iraq" and "Saddam Hussein". Clinton, although a sleazeball, appears to have resisted some of his blackmailers' demands such as large-scale invasion of Iraq or Afghanistan. Hence, his trysts with Monica Lewinsky were publicized.

In April 1986, a bomb exploded in La Belle Discotheque in Berlin. Three were killed including two US soldiers, and over 200 injured. Ten days later, Ronald Reagan gave the order to bomb Libya. Around 37 people were killed including Colonel Gaddafi's adopted baby daughter, and over 200 wounded. This was the result of the Mossad's Operation Trojan - known by their agents as "the old Trojan dick trick" - that conned some countries into believing Libya was actually behind terrorism such as the Berlin disco bombing. It is true that there was a territorial dispute between the US and Libya, following some provocative US naval manoeuvres in the Gulf of Sidra. But Libya was innocent of many of the terrorist crimes it was alleged to have committed.

Shimon Peres had given the order to launch Operation Trojan in February 1986. One of Israel's ships would broadcast misleading pre-recorded digital transmissions that could only be received by a Mossad device planted in Tripoli - the Trojan. The Trojan would retransmit a signal on a frequency known to be used for official Libyan business, ready to be received by the Americans or their allies. The source would appear to be emanating from such location as to appear genuine, and Western intelligence services would find that the Mossad also had confirmation that these series of "terrorist orders" were supposedly being broadcast to various Libyan embassies.

On the night of February 17-18, an Israeli team of naval commandos headed for Tripoli. The dark green Trojan cylinder, six feet long and seven inches in diameter, was carried by two men from the shore to a grey van parked about a hundred feet from the water's edge. The van driver - a Mossad combatant - stopped "repairing a flat tyre" as the team approached and opened the rear doors. He then headed for Tripoli, accompanied by four commandos. Wrapped in a carpet, the Trojan cylinder was carried by the Mossad combatant and two commandos to a Mossad-rented apartment on the top floor of a five-storey building, and installed in front of a north-facing window. In the event of unauthorised entry to the apartment, the Trojan was rigged to self-destruct, taking out most of the upper part of the building. In that case, the Western press would doubtless have blamed "Muslim terrorists" for the incident.

France and Spain smelt a rat and realised that the broadcasts were bogus. If Western Intelligence had been monitoring transmissions of a conspiracy to bomb the Berlin disco, then they should have been able to prevent the attack. Officially, the Mossad claimed not to know the identity of those who had carried out the attack. In fact, they would be the prime suspect.

The bombing of Pan Am 103, which crashed in December 1988 at Lockerbie, Scotland, was probably another Mossad operation. Evidently, the Mossad were running drugs and had to eliminate CIA operatives who knew too much. Whatever the motive, normal practice would be to frame some innocent third party. A retired Scottish police chief - described as "of assistant chief constable rank or higher" - gave lawyers a signed statement testifying that the CIA planted a tiny fragment of circuit board that supposedly linked Libya to the crime. The fragment was identified by the FBI as part of a timer device used to control a detonator. Mebo, a Swiss company, manufactured these electronic timers and supplied them only to Libya and East Germany's Stasi. But in 2003, a retired CIA officer gave a statement to the lawyers of a Libyan convicted and jailed for the bombing, admitting that evidence had been planted. This was later corroborated by the former Scottish police chief, who was a member of the Association of Chief Police Officers Scotland. The Zionist press had also been quick to blame Syria and Iran for Lockerbie; Israel is the prime beneficiary of conflict between the West and Islamic nations.

Other terrorist operations conducted by Israel in the late 20th century included the murder of 220 US Marines and 21 other servicemen in a massive bombing in Beirut (to teach the Americans not to interfere in Lebanon), the 1995 Oklahoma City bombing of a Federal building by Jews including Andreas Strassmeir and Daniel Spiegelman which killed 168 (blamed on "white supremacist" patsies in order to discredit US patriots), the 1985 hijacking of the Achille Lauro by "Abu Abbas" who killed a disabled American Jewish tourist and threw his body and his wheelchair overboard (to turn world opinion against Arabs and in favour of Israel), the murder of British policewoman Yvonne Fletcher in 1984 (another false-flag operation that was blamed on "Libya"), and other acts blamed on "Abu Nidal" (a Zionist agent) and his "Black September" group. When briefing and remunerating their agents, Mossad katsas would sometimes pose as Sicilian dons. In addition to JFK, targets of Mossad assassination squads included Robert Maxwell, and Gerald Bull (who designed and worked on a "supergun" project for Iraq).

In February and March of 2001, the Zionist-controlled Fox TV network broadcast a documentary titled "Conspiracy Theory - Did We Land on the Moon?" on the notion that the Apollo landings were a hoax, with scenes having been filmed in a US desert. The evidence that the Apollo landings were faked is much weaker than the evidence that they were genuine. The motive for the timing of these Fox broadcasts was Zionist foreknowledge of a massive Mossad false-flag terrorist operation that was planned for the second half of that very year. The Zionists knew that sceptics would be able to prove that the official government account of the forthcoming major event was false, and it would not be possible to refute the sceptics with rational arguments. Hence, it would be necessary to resort to ad hominem attacks in which they would be portrayed as tin-foil-hatted crackpot conspiracy theorists, in the same mould as the Apollo Moon landings sceptics.

On May 4, 2001, Rabbi Dov Zakheim was sworn in as Comptroller at the Pentagon, overseeing its (then) $300 billion budget. On September 10, 2001 (well aware that it would be a good time to "bury bad news"), Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld declared at a press conference that, according to some estimates, they could not track $2.3 trillion in transactions. After the audit had uncovered a massive black hole in the Pentagon's finances, Zakheim remained at the helm for more than two years until resigning in April 2004. Zakheim, a dual nationality Israeli-American and a rabid Zionist, had co-authored "Rebuilding America's Defenses", a position paper by the Project for a New American Century (PNAC) in 2000, which called for a new "Pearl Harbor" type of incident which would provide a pretext for US military moves to boost its global hegemony. Throughout much of his career he was working for the US government at the Department of Defense (DoD) or as a foreign policy adviser.

However, in the run-up to 9/11, from 1997 to 2001, he left to take a post as CEO of System Planning Corporation (SPC). SPC is a manufacturer of highly sophisticated technology which enables remote operators to control up to eight planes simultaneously, from a single position either on the ground or airborne (or, say, in WTC Building 7). The technology also provides operators with the capability to take remote control of aircraft already in flight.

Zionists had tricked the Bush Administration into carrying out a relatively small scale false-flag terrorist operation. An unmanned, remote-controlled plane would be crashed into a section of the Pentagon that was under renovation; hence, casualties would range from zero to very low. The remote control technology for the Pentagon incident would be provided by Raytheon. Since it was necessary to claim that "Arabs" had hijacked a passenger plane and the US government had not signed up to deliberately murder dozens of their own civilians as part of Operation Pentagate, the claimed flight that the "suicide pilots" had taken over would be one that ran fairly regularly, but was unscheduled on the particular day of the operation. The Bureau of Transportation Statistics (BTS) flight records could be falsified after the fact - unless, of course, the planners were to slip up, as they did...

The "dead passengers" were to be individuals linked to government (e.g. Barbara Olson), and the defense contractor Raytheon, who would be paid to fake their own deaths and provided with sanctuary in Israel. As confirmation of the official version of events, it would be claimed that the "passengers" had made cell phone calls to report a hijacking by men of "Arabic" appearance. (Never mind the fact that such cell phone calls were impossible with 2001 technology at cruising height and speed; the fact that it takes at least an hour and 30 kg of coke to cremate a cadaver had not stopped the indoctrination of millions of people with a physically impossible ludicrous conspiracy theory about a secret German plot to gas and cremate 11 million "undesirables".) If required, fictitious names could be concocted. In order to save on names, it would be claimed that the passenger count just happened to be unusually low that day, say, around one-third of capacity.

American Airlines Flight 77 from Washington Dulles to Los Angeles was scheduled on most days, but was not scheduled (and did not fly) on September 11, 2001. The date had been chosen from the US "911" emergency number. Hence, the official Bush-Cheney story would claim this as the plane which hit the Pentagon. The Bush Administration would then have a pretext for invading Islamic oil-rich nations and looting their oil wealth, and for granting itself with authoritarian powers by introducing legislation such as the Patriot Act. More to the point, Rumsfeld and Cheney - along with other corrupt leaders who had been bribed or blackmailed into the scam - would have a pretext for doing the Zionist mafia's bidding of supplying the servicemen of the US, UK, Australia, Italy, Spain, etc, as Israel's proxy army to fight its enemy neighbours. I.e., the offering up of national armed forces as a supply of private mercenaries, or cannon fodder, or uranium-ingesting leukemia and cancer cases waiting to happen. These sacrifices were primarily for the personal profit of the avaricious Zionist mafia, along with the corrupt mafia-appointed government leaders who lapped up the few scraps and morsels tossed their way by their Zionist handlers.

Rumsfeld directed this part of the operation from his Pentagon office, which was well clear of the renovated section where the hit was planned. In order to ensure that the plane would get to the Pentagon without meeting any resistance from the mighty US air defenses, Cheney directed wargames exercises from his bunker, including Vigilant Guardian, Vigilant Warrior, Northern Guardian, Northern Vigilance, and Tripod II. The first three were all to do with hijacked airplanes in NE US airspace. Some of these drills were live-fly exercises with remote-controlled planes, simulating the behaviour of hijacked airliners and coinciding with the alleged start of the "Arab hijacking(s)". In addition, the National Reconnaissance Office (NRO), based in Chantilly, Virginia and intrinsically entangled with the CIA and the DoD, had scheduled an exercise starting at 09:00 which involved an aircraft hitting one of its buildings.

As late as the fall of 2003, the BTS website provided accurate flight records of AA Flights 11 and 77, and United Airlines Flights 93 and 175, the four that were allegedly hijacked by incredibly lucky "suicidal Moslems". Flights are regularly cancelled when bookings are low, and if a domestic flight is still shown in computer reservation systems within seven calendar days of the scheduled departure, the law and regulations direct that it must be reported and listed as "cancelled" in the BTS database. Sometimes a dearth of passengers results in cancellation more than seven calendar days prior to the scheduled departure, in which case the non-existent flight does not need to be reported and is not listed in the records for that day.

The latter was the situation for two of the four "hijacked flights" on September 11, 2001 - AA

Flight 11 and AA Flight 77. Their non-appearance in the official BTS website is evidence that both flights had been cancelled more than a week prior to 9/11. The BTS records continued to report this for more than two years, until several months after independent 9/11 researchers had discovered the anomaly in the fall of 2003. In 2004 the website's on-time delivery flight records section was shut down. By April 2005, a doctored version of the records had reappeared, with Flights 11 and 77 now included on 9/11/2001.

In the six years up to August 31, 2001, American Airlines Flight 11 cancellations had been running at 4.13%, i.e. an average of about 15 days per annum. It had been unscheduled 14 times, 0.64% of days or 2.333 times per annum. AA Flight 77 had seen 1.99% of its scheduled (a week prior to schedule) flights cancelled, with 43 cancellations in 6 years. It had been unscheduled 27 times, a rate of 1.23% or an annual average of 4.5 days.

Both flights had very recent cancellations. The last time AA 11 was shown as "cancelled", i.e. it was in the database because the cancellation was not at least a week in advance, was the previous Tuesday, September 4, and prior to that it was cancelled for Monday August 27, 2001. AA Flight 77 last cancelled on Wednesday, September 5, 2001, and before that the Saturday August 18, 2001 flight was cancelled.

However, the best proof that the object which hit the Pentagon on the morning of 9/11 was not AA Flight 77 is provided by the fact that no video evidence supporting the official story was ever made public. The FBI immediately confiscated videos from a gas station and a hotel overlooking the Pentagon. In these days of the ubiquitous security camera, it is inconceivable that the defense HQ of the world's greatest military power did not have cameras trained on its west wing on the morning of 9/11. It was not until another six months or so that five frames of a pathetic amateurishly faked video were released by officials, purporting to be of the "Flight 77 impact".

The problem with the five frames of the "Pentagon security camera" record of the Flight 77 impact is that none of them show a Boeing 757 about to strike the Pentagon facade. The authorities admit that the security camera frame rate was 100 frames per second. Let us suppose the frame rate was only 10 frames per second, and that the impact speed of Flight 77 was as high as 780 fps or 530 mph, the figure stated by Civil Engineering Magazine, Feb 2003. In 1/10 second, the plane would travel 78 feet. Thus, there should exist a frame showing the nose of a 757-200 in AA colours within 78 feet of striking the Pentagon facade, i.e. within half a length of a Boeing 757-200. Given that the actual frame rate was likely to be considerably higher, the final pre-impact frame would probably have the nose well within 25 feet of the wall. In addition, the plane was supposed to be approaching at a 45 degree angle, so the gap from nose to wall and the slightly rotated aircraft length are foreshortened by $\cos[(\text{angle of impact from the perpendicular}) - (\text{angle of camera slight inclination from parallel to facade})]$, a factor somewhat higher than 0.7071, which makes it even easier to fit a good view of Flight 77 in the frame.

The official story of Flight 77 has been comprehensively debunked before we even start to consider the fact that the alleged hijacker who flew the plane, Hani Hanjour, was a notoriously poor pilot who had been refused permission to hire a Cessna in August 2001 because his flying skills were so poor. Hanjour would not have suddenly developed the skills of a crack fighter pilot after a few weeks' flight simulator training, managing to steer a Boeing 757 a few feet above the Pentagon lawn at over 500 mph after descending 7000 feet in 150 seconds and making a sharp 270 degree turn pulling high Gs on his jet flying debut. There are several inconsistencies with the passenger manifest and the autopsy and their lack of Arabic names. There is the unlikelihood of the hijackers being able to turn off the aircraft transponder and persuade the pilot to hand over control of the plane, the coincidental exercises, and the fact that Mossad agents lived a few houses away from the "Arab hijackers". These problems, and many others, also apply to the other planes featuring in the official Ladenist hoax.

Unfortunately for Cheney, Rumsfeld and Bush, zionists had a much more ambitious scheme underway, to run in parallel with the Pentagon strike. For some thirty years, since its construction, the World Trade Center (WTC) complex had been owned by the Port Authorities of

New York and New Jersey, who had full management rights. Then, in July 2001, seven weeks before 9/11, the Port Authorities inexplicably agreed to lease the buildings to Larry Silverstein (Silverstein Properties Inc.). Reports variously place the date of the transfer of management rights as July 24 or 26, 2001. Silverstein, a real estate magnate whose portfolio included the "Runway 69" Queens dance club linked to the heroin trade, money laundering and New York police corruption, was a former president of the United Jewish Appeal in New York. Also involved in the WTC deal was Frank Lowry, an Israeli businessman from Australia, and chairman and founder of Westfield Holdings. The lease was negotiated by Lewis Eisenberg, another prominent Israel supporter.

Silverstein agreed to pay a total of some $3.2 billion in leasing instalments over 99 years to the Port Authorities, who would remain the owners. However, Silverstein - now known as "Lucky Larry" - would take the rental income, and was the sole beneficiary of the buildings insurance policies. At the same time, he increased the insurance cover to $3.6 billion (the policy could pay out up to twice that, but only if it was judged that both Towers had been destroyed following two entirely separate incidents.) The initial payment to the Port Authorities was a tiny fraction of $3.2 billion, to be followed by smaller annual fees. Silverstein, backed by New York investor Lloyd Goldman and former entertainment industry distributor Joseph Cayre, had to put up a mere $125 million in equity for the office portion of the WTC lease in July 2001.

The probability of a transfer of management rights at the WTC and signing of a new lease, whereby the new management is the beneficiary of the insurance (which they increased!), within 7 weeks of the destruction of the WTC complex can be conservatively calculated from the ratio 7 weeks divided by the duration of the previous ownership. Both of the Twin Towers had been completed by 1972, so 7 weeks divided by 29 years equals a 1 in 215 chance.

Another stroke of fortune for "Lucky Larry" was that he had regularly been taking breakfast at the elegant Windows on the World restaurant at the top of the North Tower. On the morning of 9/11 by an amazing coincidence, his wife had reminded him that he had a "doctor's appointment"; consequently, the tycoon eluded the tragic fate of more than 2,000 WTC workers and hundreds of emergency responders.

Suppose a middle-aged lady had been happily married for 29 years, the first husband had died, and husband number two took out a massive insurance policy on her life. Seven weeks later, the lady dies in mysterious circumstances in an accident that would not be fatal unless the laws of physics, chemistry and biology were revised - e.g., a small piece of cardboard falls on her head from a height of one foot. Any detective worth their salt should be suspicious, to say the least. The relevance of the "less than lethal with invariant scientific and natural law" part of this analogy to the 9/11 destruction of the WTC will become apparent when we examine how the plane crashes and fires could not possibly have caused global collapse of a single skyscraper, let alone the three towers 1WTC, 2WTC and 7WTC, and each of them in the manner of a controlled demolition.

A day before the 9/11 attacks - the same day Rumsfeld announced that $2.3 trillion had gone missing at the Pentagon - the Washington Times ran an article on its front page in which the Army's School of Advanced Military Studies (SAMS) was quoted describing Israel's intelligence service Mossad as: "Wildcard. Ruthless and cunning. Has capability to target U.S. forces and make it look like a Palestinian/Arab act".

Dov Zakheim had access to technology for the remote control of aircraft through his tenure at SPC; he had access to Boeings through a lease deal he arranged whilst at the Pentagon. The second plane to hit the WTC - UA Flight 175 which hit the South Tower 2WTC - had to be very close to the genuine article, as the media would then have plenty of cameras in place. Flight 175 was shown in the BTS records, and did actually hit the South Tower. In this case, SPC technology was employed to take control of the Boeing 767 after it had got into cruising mode.

For the plane which hit the North Tower, it was not necessary to take over a plane in flight. One of Zakheim's Boeings, pre-packed with explosives, was used as a dummy. The official story had to claim this as an "Arab-hijacked passenger plane", which required a fairly regular flight that happened to be unscheduled on 9/11. Ideally, this flight would also depart from Boston for LA (as did Flight 175). Hence, AA Flight 11 was selected. It was important that at least one WTC hit was successful out of the three commissioned, and a retro-fitted model complete with all necessary software patches was their best chance. With Flight 175, there was a slight risk that the operators might not have been able to take control, the fireball might have been less spectacular, and the steering could have been less precise. The slight errors apparent in the steering actually helped the effect of the fireball, although gave less credence to the "fire collapse" theory. From their command post in 7WTC, the operators noticed that the South Tower fires were going out first; thus it was necessary to initiate the demolition after only 56 minutes.

The original plan was to have both Twin Towers collapse at around 10:15, allow the operators sufficient time to exit 7WTC, and then have Flight 93 hit 7WTC at around 10:30. The third crash would provide the pretext for the planned 7WTC collapse, which was necessary in order to eliminate evidence of the remote-control transmitters for controlling Flights 11, 175, and 93, and detonating charges in each of the Twin Towers. At 9:36, Flight 93 had filed a new flight plan to arrive in Washington at 10:28. Unfortunately for the zionists, the US air defenses could not be delayed indefinitely. Moreover, UA Flight 93 was part of the zionist cabal's three-plane false-flag insurance scam, rather than Rumsfeld's Pentagate plan. The zionists' third plane, UA93, was shot down over Shanksville at 10:06. They still had to demolish 7WTC, but without a "suicide piloted passenger plane" to hand. Hence, the official story was forced to assert that the global collapse of 7WTC was solely as a result of "fires".

A detailed analysis of the fires in 1WTC proves how the fire collapse theorist must either hope that no one bothers to do the calculations, or must postulate a version of reality which features variable physical and natural law (which is precisely what the Holocaustian must do for Poland in 1944). 1WTC, which was hit by an aircraft, and where fires burned for 102 minutes before global collapse occurred, offers the best hope for the fire collapse theorist who tries to pose as a "scientist".

Throughout the 100-year history of steel framed high-rise buildings and skyscrapers up to September 10, 2001, there had never been even a single incidence of fire-induced collapse in the US. According to Ronald Hamburger in the Stanford Report, Dec 3, 2001, 7WTC was the "first major structure in the U.S. to collapse because of fire". A report on multiple fatality fires, 1994-1996, has no mention of "collapse". And National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST), Building and Fire Research Laboratory (BFRL), Investigation of the World Trade Center Disaster reports, "The WTC Towers and WTC 7 are the only known cases of total structural collapse in high-rise buildings where fires played a significant role." The worldwide statistics for high-rise buildings since 1970 include only 17 cases of fire-induced collapse, two of these being structural steel buildings, and none in the US. Yet on September 11, 2001, three separate skyscrapers collapsed in the US, where building codes are more stringent than in poorer nations.

Being generous to the government-backed fire-collapse theory - just before a random event occurs the rate of occurrence will tend below the mean; after the event it will tend above the mean. Let's suppose 3 collapses in every 100 years is the average fire-induced collapse rate to be expected for steel framed high-rise buildings in the US (and the fact that the rate remained at zero for so long suggests that this is an overestimate). So the rate is one day every 33.333 years = 1 day every 12,175 days. Hence, the probability for one such collapse to occur on any specified day is 1 in 12,175, and the probability for three collapses is 1 in 12,175 cubed = 1 in 1.805 trillion.

For a compartment fire, an allowance must be made for incomplete combustion in places, which will reduce the total heat liberated for a given mass of fuel. In the case of the WTC fires, both sides of the debate included absurdities. Some Zionist press articles claimed that "jet fuel fires melted the steel"; some sceptics argued that "oxygen-starved" hydrocarbon fires in buildings could never burn at temperatures higher than about 500 C.

Conditions will range from stoichiometric near the vent side of a flame to fuel rich at the smoke side. Let us suppose a linear distribution of oxygen reactant over the range stoichiometric (equivalence ratio or "phi" = 1) to half that mass of oxygen per unit of fuel (phi = 2), ignoring all cases where the fires are even more oxygen starved. [Please refer to "Mathematics of the WTC Fires" sections of www.takeourworldback.com/911/ for full details.] From the integral of the function, we have a mean equivalence ratio close to phi = 1.386 (the natural log of 4). Calculation of the thermochemical equations for wood (a cellulose-lignin mix) and kerosene (dodecane) over this linear range of oxygen reactant, and averaging, provides a figure of 67 to 68% as the mean efficiency of such a fire. The analysis computed a calorific value of some 11.43 kJ/g for wood, down from the stoichiometric value of 16.74 kJ/g from the equation used:

and 29.7 kJ/g for dodecane, compared to 44.14 kJ/g in complete combustion from:

These thermochemical equations are both for phi = 1. Apart from setting phi = 2 as the maximum equivalence ratio, another assumption here is that as oxygen is removed from the reactants, CO₂ and H₂O products decrease in the proportion 59:41. CO is substituted for lost CO₂ product, and H₂ for lost H₂O. The combustion efficiency value (Eff) of around 68% is found to derive from the heat released per unit of oxygen according to:

$$\text{Eff} = 1 - 4.1575 / H_{ox}$$

where H_{ox} is the maximum heat released per unit of oxygen (kJ/g) consumed for the particular fuel, in complete combustion. A typical value is 13.1 kJ/g. Adjustments to the assumption of a 59:41 split make little difference to the calculated combustion efficiency.

The 11.43 kJ/g for wood compares favourably with the 10.75 kJ/g assumed by Kawagoe and others such as Magnusson and Thelandersson as the net effective heat of combustion of wood in fully developed compartment fires.

Selecting a floor assumed to have the severest fires, we then take a worst case scenario for that particular floor. For the maximum possible energy density, we will suppose that the mass burning rate coincidentally just happened to be such that the entire floor's combustibles including aircraft fittings were consumed over 102 minutes, the fire duration from impact until collapse. We also suppose that this floor received an above average share of jet fuel, which would have been dispersed over several floors. The heat released from the jet fuel is also counted, although the pool fire would have burnt up within a few minutes.

A typical aircraft contains 3,300 to 8,400 kg of combustibles, according to the FAA. We shall suppose 7,000 kg over two floors, with 3,500 kg on the model's worst-affected floor.

FEMA's report quotes Culver (1977) stating that typical office-type occupancies contain fuel loads (described in terms of the equivalent weight of wood) of 4 to 12 pounds per square foot, with the mean slightly less than 8. However, NIST's reports of June and October 2004 by S. Shyam Sunder state that the typical (WTC) floor contained an average of 4 psf of combustible materials.

The fuel load in the core area was relatively light, with much of this zone taken up by service shafts. The remaining space between shafts would have contained a limited fuel load, with the great majority of combustible material such as desks and workstations being outside the core. Let's suppose there was on average 7 psf or 34.18 kg/m² (close to Culver's geometric mean) outside the core, and 2 psf or 9.765 kg/m² within it. The core area was 137' x 87' out of 208' x 208', or 1,107 m² out of 4,019 m², leaving 2,912 m² as the non-core area. However, above the floor 78 sky lobby, some 40% of the core space is taken up by elevator shafts, stairwells, etc. (It was about 50% in the middle section and 60% below floor 44; express elevator shafts stopped at each sky lobby.) So the core space on the upper floors of the fire zone was effectively 0.6 * 1,107, i.e. about 664 m². Hence, the combustibles per floor, excluding aircraft debris, are 34.18 * 2,912 + 9.765 * 664 = 106,016 kg = 116.9 tons, expressed in terms of the equivalent weight of wood.

Averaging over the whole floor including core and shafts space, this works out around 5.4 psf which is still above NIST's assumed 4 psf average for a typical WTC floor. The NIST figure may well represent the actual weight of combustibles, and so would be less than the equivalent weight of wood, given that some combustibles have a higher calorific value. Other substances such as plastics would exhibit little difference in the heat released per unit of oxygen consumed. Since the combustion inefficiency factor associated with fuel rich fires derives from the calorific value of the oxygen rather than the fuel, our inefficiency factor calculated above at around 0.68 is applicable to a mix of various fuels.

FEMA's report suggests (for WTC 2) 3,000 gallons as a reasonable assumption for the jet fuel initially consumed in fireballs, leaving 7,000 gallons. It assumes about half of this flowed away, either down elevator shafts or out of the building, with approximately 4,000 gallons remaining on the impact floors. It also says, "Barring additional information, it is reasonable to assume that an approximately similar amount of jet fuel was consumed by fireballs as the aircraft struck WTC 1".

We have no quibbles with these assumptions, and will take their figure of 4,000 gallons dispersed on the impact floors, which would have burned as a pool fire. In the model it was supposed that the total area of the pool fire, unevenly distributed over several floors, was 2,067 m². Given that the mass burning rate for free burning pool fires is on the order of 50 grams per square metre per second, the minimum burn time assuming an unlimited oxygen supply is given by:

$$\text{mass of fuel \{Kg\}} / (0.05 * \text{pool fire area \{m}^2\}) = t \{\text{secs}\}$$

Jet fuel is around 3.1 kg per gallon, and 3.1 x 4,000 = 12,400 kg of fuel. So we have:

12,400 / (0.05 * 2067) = 120 seconds to burn up (which is why 2067 m² was selected). As the oxygen is consumed, the mass burning rate is limited to that set by the area and height of the vents. It was found that for the 106,016 kg (116.9 tons) of office combustibles and 3,500 kg of aircraft combustibles to be consumed over 102 minutes (109,516 / 6,120 = 17.9 kg/s mass burning rate), and given the vent area, the effective height of the vent had to be slightly greater than one 10-foot storey (excluding 2-foot floor-ceiling area). I.e., at the impact area some floor space was taken out which raises the height of the two-layer zone. Further away, a single floor is a two-layer zone of cooler air at the bottom and smoke and hot gases at the top.

12,400 kg of aviation fuel burning in 120 seconds is a mass burning rate of 103 kg/s, which is nearly six times greater than the rate for the whole floor's combustibles to burn over 102 minutes. A six-storey fire compartment model could only sustain about half of this rate (air throughput per floor relates to the square root of the effective vent height). So the fuel burning time would be somewhat more than two minutes, but not more than a few minutes. Nevertheless, we shall add the energy released by the kerosene to that of the other combustibles, and include this over the whole 102 minutes which will provide the best prospects for a fire-induced global collapse ensuing at the end of that period.

If the fuel is unevenly distributed over several floors, a distribution might, for example, have consisted of areas of 100, 300, 400, 500, and 767 square metres. We shall take the 767 m² for the model's worst affected floor, which gives 12,400 * 767 / 2,067 = 4,601 kg or 1,484 gallons of kerosene. This floor is also assumed to have 106,016 kg of office combustibles, and 3,500 kg of aircraft combustibles, totalling 109,516 kg expressed in terms of the equivalent weight of wood.

Allowing for combustion inefficiencies, the effective calorific value of the kerosene was some 29.7 MJ/kg, with 11.4 MJ/kg for the wood.

$$1484 * 3.1 \text{ kg/gallon} * 29.7 \text{ MJ/kg} = 1.37 * 10^{11} \text{ J (kerosene)}$$

$$+ 109516 * 11.4 = 1.25 * 10^{12} \text{ J (other combustibles, wood equivalent)}$$

This gives a total of $1.39 * 10^{12} \text{ J}$ for the worst floor, including heat which flowed out of the building. Of the total, some 60% - i.e. $8.34 * 10^{11} \text{ J}$ - is retained in the building, with the building absorbing the greatest proportion when cold.

For this worst case storey, the kerosene and aircraft combustibles are added to the total floor area excluding shafts. The total floor area comprised the non-core of $31,345 \text{ ft}^2$ and the 60% of $11,919 \text{ ft}^2$ core space - i.e. $7,151 \text{ ft}^2$, to give a total area excluding shafts of $38,496 \text{ ft}^2$ or $3,576 \text{ m}^2$. With the kerosene yielding the equivalent of 12,018 kg of wood, $12018 \text{ kg} / 3576 \text{ m}^2$ is an extra 3.361 kg/m^2 or 0.688 psf. 3,500 kg of aircraft combustibles adds 0.979 kg/m^2 or 0.2 psf. So we have:

$$\text{Non-core combustibles} = 7 + 0.688 + 0.2 = 7.888 \text{ psf} = 40.8 \text{ MJ/ft}^2$$

$$\text{Core combustibles} = 2 + 0.688 + 0.2 = 2.888 \text{ psf} = 14.93 \text{ MJ/ft}^2$$

These figures were the basis of computations involving summing the radiant heat contributions from each square foot/metre of floor space, as viewed at some specified point on the floor. Specifications of structural steel members was determined from information in the public domain. Each point source contribution computed a radiation view factor and proportion of the heat released from combustibles at that point that would be absorbed by a given member. Working in square metres did not greatly affect the results. With a nearly tenfold difference in computation time for a floor, the final set of results worked in square metres of floor space. The final temperatures at 102 minutes were predicted for each core column and other members for various proportions of fire resistive coating (FRC) remaining or assumed stripped off.

The above core density of 14.93 MJ/ft^2 was based on lowering the area from $11,919$ to $7,151 \text{ ft}^2$ after allowing for 40% of area being taken up by shafts. Rather than determine which points were taken up by shafts, it was easier to multiply the energy density by 0.6 and plot all points. The model pretends the shafts do not exist to shield the columns, thereby exaggerating absorption. The non-core released $1.279 * 10^{12} \text{ J}$, with a corresponding $1.068 * 10^{11} \text{ J}$ from the core. In metric, the total points plotted were x and y coordinates 0.5 to 62.5 which is $63^2 = 3,969 \text{ m}^2$. There were 1,134 core points and 2,835 office area points. Thus, the core energy density came to 94.2 MJ/m^2 , and the non-core was 451 MJ/m^2 .

It was assumed that 40% of the energy flowed out of the building. With a mean adiabatic flame temperature of $1,488 \text{ C}$ after allowing for 68% combustion efficiency with conditions ranging from stoichiometric to fuel rich, actual flame temperatures averaging $1,000 \text{ C}$ after transmitting heat to surroundings, an exiting gases temperature of 669 C , and an average hot gases upper layer temperature of 835 C , the total heat transmitted to the building was 6.84 MJ/kg of wood equivalent, with another 4.56 MJ/kg vented to the exterior. Of the heat transmitted to the building, 4.16 MJ/kg was from the flames and 2.68 MJ/kg from hot gas or smoke upper layer. So the program multiplied the above energy density figures by 0.6, which took account of contributions from the flames and smoke layer.

For the full results for each core column and accompanying description, see www.takeourworldback.com/911/911fires4.htm.

The ongoing research at present suggests that the only real vulnerability would have been with the trusses on two floors that were subject to the onslaught of impacting debris. In any case, the central area of one floor, up to the core, was probably taken out by the initial impact. The effect of the fires, if causing local partial floor collapse, would have been small compared to the impact damage. This analysis (confirmed by the NIST study) found that it would be necessary to totally remove four or five floors - depending on core column temperatures - before there would be any possibility of global instability. A partial failure of trusses on two floors and partial local floor collapse would not bring down the building.

The original demand : capacity ratios were around 0.4 to 0.5 for the core columns, and 0.17 to 0.2 for the perimeter columns. Most core columns were aligned with the webs running north-south, so the "Flight 11" debris approaching from the north of 1WTC would have impacted with one side of a flange. The web and other flange would have been essentially in the "shadow" of the exposed flange, hence protected. Core column 704, one of the weakest and with the web running east-west, might have failed on the model's worst case floor, if flying debris had stripped all FRC from a side of its web, and if the fire had raged as per the worst case scenario detailed above. However, the other columns would have remained below 550 C and retained spare capacity even if debris stripped FRC from the debris-exposed side. In order to initiate collapse of even a single floor, failure of a number of additional columns would be required - a failure which would not have occurred.

2WTC collapsed in only 56 minutes; therefore heat absorbed by members would have been 55% of the 1WTC absorption for a given mass burning rate. The 2WTC fires were not observed to be 82% more severe than in 1WTC. As for 7WTC, it was never hit by a plane, and the FRC would have remained intact. The idea that fire could lead to this building collapsing as if in a controlled demolition is as ludicrous as the idea that the face of Elvis Presley would appear in a Danish pastry.

Hence, the probability of 1 in 12,175 against each (of three) high-rise collapses will be found to be valid; a probability of 1 in 1.805 trillion.

Israel's guilt in the WTC demolition was also confirmed by the arrest of the "dancing Israelis" for "puzzling behaviour", the Odigo warning to 7,000 Jews to stay away from work that day, and the sighting of Mohammed Atta on Jack Abramoff's gambling boat.

Five Israelis had been observed photographing or videoing pictures of themselves with the WTC burning in the background. They were jumping for joy in Liberty State Park, celebrating with high fives in a Jersey City parking lot, and celebrating on a roof in Weehawken. Witnesses said that they appeared happy rather than shocked - smiling, laughing, joking, and shouting in what was interpreted as cries of joy and mockery as the Towers burnt and collapsed.

The five - Sivan Kurzberg (the driver), Paul Kurzberg (his brother), Yaron Shmuel, Oded Ellner, and Omer Marmari - had been travelling in a white, signwritten 2000 Chevrolet van with New Jersey plates. One passenger was found to have $4,700 in cash hidden in his sock, another carried two foreign passports, and a box cutter was found in the van. Maps were found with certain places highlighted, and said to link the Israelis to the WTC plot. Dogs reacted as if traces of explosives were in the van, although nothing was found; it had probably already gone up in smoke.

Ostensibly, the Israelis worked for a Weehawken moving company, Urban Moving Systems, with offices on West 18th Street in Weehawken and on West 50th Street in Manhattan, and owned by Dominik Otto Suter, another Israeli. Paul Kurzberg refused to take a lie detector test for ten weeks, and then failed it. It was later confirmed that the FBI had concluded that several or most of the men were Mossad operatives and the moving company a Mossad front.

The five were arrested about 8 hours after the 9/11 attacks, held in Brooklyn for more than two months, and then quietly released and allowed to go back to Israel. Suter fled for Israel a few days after the attacks and arrests, leaving dozens of customers' property lying around in the warehouse and cell phones in the office.

Two hours prior to the WTC attacks, two employees of Odigo, an Israeli instant-messaging service, received text messages at their research, development and international sales office in Herzliya, Israel, warning of an attack on the World Trade Center. The Odigo service included a feature called "People Finder", allowing users to seek and contact others based on interests or demographics. Odigo admitted that the attack warnings could have been broadcast to other users, too. Odigo also had a New York office, four blocks from the WTC. In May 2002, Odigo was acquired by Comverse, which incidentally is the Israeli parent company of Verint Systems, which handled video security for the London Underground at the time of the 7/7 bombings.

Employees of Goldman Sachs, the Jewish investment banking firm with headquarters in Lower Manhattan close to the former WTC site, were probably warned of a terrorist attack even earlier than those on the Odigo buddy list. The Sept 14, 2001 edition of Counterpunch reported "Counterpunch has also learned that an internal memo was sent around Goldman Sachs in Tokyo on September 10 advising all employees of a possible terrorist attack. It recommended all employees to avoid any American Government buildings". It is unlikely that Tokyo employees got a warning on the previous day (when New York local time, at 14 hours behind, was probably within a few hours of midnight September 9th/10th), but New York-based Goldman Sachs workers did not receive advance warning.

Clearly, the above Mossad agents - who were held in solitary confinement for weeks - had been involved in planting explosives or thermite in the WTC, and had sent warning text messages to a list of Jews to make sure they did not turn up for work that day. Apart from WTC workers, the list included a couple of Odigo employees in Israel. For corroboration of this, we can consider the occupancy of the Towers at the time of the attacks.

According to NIST, 15,400 escaped and 2,159 were killed in the WTC, which is a total occupancy of 17,559 at the time of the attacks. Let us suppose as many as half arrive after 8:46, which is rather high considering these workers in what were some of the world's most prestigious offices were high-fliers rather than the type who would amble in in mid-morning. The normal daily occupancy of both Towers was more than 50,000. So we have:

(more than 25,000) - 17,559 = more than 7,441

...which is certainly consistent with internet reports of 4,000 Jews being warned not to turn up for work that day. The number who were either on the Odigo buddy list or received verbal warnings from those who were, when we include offices such as Goldman Sachs, was probably well over 4,000.

Less than a week before the 9/11 attacks, Mohammed Atta and several others allegedly from his Muslim terrorist group visited a gambling boat run by Jack Abramoff, a Jewish Washington lobbyist who pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy, fraud and tax evasion in January 2006. Konstantinos "Gus" Boulis, a Greek immigrant, launched the SunCruz Casinos business offering gambling "cruises to nowhere", taking its clients to international waters to escape gambling laws. In February 2001, Boulis was shot to death, five months after selling his SunCruz fleet of gambling boats to Jack Abramoff and partners. Boulis had maintained that the $23 million payment was never made.

 SunCruz employees said they recognised some of the men suspected of being in the 9/11 attack as customers on a ship that sailed from Madeira Beach on Florida's west coast. One name on a passenger list from a September 5 cruise matched that of one on the FBI's terrorist list, with a cash advance taken out on his credit card. Another man on a Port Canaveral ship was also recognised as one of the listed terrorists. Photos, documents and videos were turned over to the FBI.

 Although half of the suicide 9/11 terrorists were found alive and well within weeks of the atrocities, these may have been victims of identity theft. It was necessary for the zionist mafia to kill the other patsies after they had outlived their usefulness. Abramoff may have a history of arranging assassinations, so a connection to the "hijackers" would be valuable. If Atta and Co had been 'groomed' by being encouraged to go on regular gambling cruises, they could have been lured on a private gambling trip around September 11 - "You're going to win big-time" - and dumped miles out to sea in the Gulf of Mexico.

After 9/11, the Zionist mafia and Bush Administration had a phony pretext for the attacking and looting of nations that were deemed worthwhile prey. The CIA was anxious to invade Afghanistan in order to get back into the opium trade, which had been lucrative for them until the Taliban curtailed it. The Bushes and partners hoped to profit from Iraq's oil wealth, from looting its Oil-for-Food fund, and from reconstruction contracts. Israel wanted to see its Arab neighbours neutered, and maybe even turned into satellite colonies such as the US, UK and Germany. Their immediate interest was Iraq, not Afghanistan. The Mossad's identity theft operations had provided about nine names as suspected hijackers with another nine being groomed on Abramoff's gambling boats. The Bush family had business links with the bin Ladens, and Osama was selected as the arch-villain since he had ailing kidneys and was not expected to survive long. But it was easier to link Osama with Afghanistan than Iraq.

For the criminals, wars were great, since they provided a form of wealth transfer from the many to the few. The US taxpayer might stump up hundreds of billions of dollars to prosecute a war, and yet the rewards would not amount to much more than $9 billion or so from an Oil-for-Food fund and a few treasures from museums. Overall, it is a negative-sum game. But those making the profits are not those who bear the losses. The financial expenditure is from public funds seized from the taxpayer, and the blood price is borne by innocent servicemen who have been told they are serving their nation. The profits go straight into the private accounts of the war criminals. They have not needed to lay out a cent of their own money, which equates to an infinite rate of return; neither have they or any of their children had to pay any blood price.

The Bush Administration and other poodles of Israel were faced with problems in supplying a suitable pretext for invading Iraq. They tried to morph Osama into Osama-Saddam, but this was not too successful. The absurd "WMD" claims were going to take some time. This approach required the forging of documents about purchase of yellowcake from Niger, dodgy dossiers including excerpts cut-and-pasted from a student's obsolete thesis on the internet and passed off as current intelligence information, and claims that weather balloon inflators were really "mobile biological weapons laboratories".

Israel decided to put pressure on the US to speed up its Iraq attack; the kingpins were not prepared to wait for four or five years. American Airlines Flight 587 crashed shortly after take-off in Belle Harbor, New York on November 12, 2001. Witnesses reported two explosions, and after the second, larger explosion, the vertical stabiliser cleanly broke away at the connection to the fuselage as an unmarked, complete unit. Then the engines were severed. The official story claimed "wake turbulence" as the cause. After all, fires had suddenly gained the power to bring down skyscrapers of structural steel treated with Cafco Blaze-Shield or Monokote fire resistive coating, where the perimeter columns had a demand : capacity ratio of 0.17 to 0.2 with a corresponding 0.4 to 0.5 for the core columns. Maybe in this brave new reality, winds might conceivably have attained the power to blow aircraft apart!

In the following months, the US and UK governments worked overtime trying to concoct an excuse to invade Iraq. After the invasion, when the WMDs were nowhere to be found, there were suggestions that Saddam had "hidden them to avoid getting into really deep trouble", or had sent them off to Syria. As the WMD claims fell apart, the warmongers had to claim that the invasion - i.e. the killing and maiming of tens of thousands of Iraqis, thousands of the invaders' troops, the destruction of Iraq's infrastructure, and the dumping of radioactive waste on its land to be dispersed to a lesser extent around the globe - was carried out in order to "liberate", and "bring democracy to", the Iraqi people. The only 'crime' they could even hope to pin on Saddam was his signing of death warrants for 148 people linked to an assassination attempt on him in 1982. George W Bush personally signed more than 150 death warrants during his tenure as Governor of Texas, so by the previous logic, the US should invade itself to remove Bush (one case where the Zionist version of events leads to a far from totally undesirable conclusion).

The UK's 'leader', Tony Blair, had always been a gung-ho supporter of the US-led invasion of Iraq. The 4 million pounds he received (laundered by purchase of a London house and two Bristol flats) and blackmail involving pictures of Cherie Blair "having her toxins cleaned out" by Carole Caplin, and possibly of Tony in a compromising position with Peter Mandelson, saw to that. But the zionists wanted to make sure that Australia would toe the line, too...

The Mossad's planting and detonation of a micro nuke in Bali on October 12, 2002, killing 202 and injuring 209, provided yet another opportunity for them to practise their skills. Two small bombs were exploded at the same time, in order to cultivate the myth of the deadly professional "al Qaeda Muslim terrorists" whose trademark was synchronised attacks of great ferocity. The highly lethal micro nuke was targeted at the Sari Club, frequented by Australians, of whom some 89 were killed. There were no Israeli victims.

Evidence that this was a micro nuke is best observed from the damage done to concrete reinforcing bars (rebars) over 50 feet (15 metres) from Ground Zero. A rebar of the old US grade 40 has a minimum yield strength of 40,000 pounds per square inch (psi), or grade 60 is 60,000 psi minimum. The concrete itself is of course weaker than the composite structure, and typical compressive strengths for concrete range from 3,000 to 5,000 psi. A TNT detonation is capable of producing some 4,000 psi of overpressure in very close proximity; however, this greatly attenuates with distance. At a range of one metre, for instance, the peak overpressure from 1 kg of TNT equivalent is around 100 psi, and the dynamic pressure much less.

In order to get the same blast effect at a greater distance, it is necessary to raise the mass of TNT equivalent by a factor equal to the cube of the ratio of the distances. So to achieve even a "mere" 100 psi at a 15 metre range, the bomber would require 15 cubed = 3,375 kg of TNT equivalent. Typical relative effectiveness factors range from 0.5 to 2, and the densities of explosives are less than 2,000 kg/m³. Even at the most optimistic estimate, a solid cubic metre of explosives would produce little more than 100 psi at 15 metres.

Conventional explosives do not reduce concrete to dust and sand at a range of 50 feet and more. There are also photographs of a mushroom cloud and reports of a "blinding white flash" at Bali. After these attacks of 2002, Australia's John Howard had an additional pretext to support the "war on terror" and the vaguely-linked war on Iraq.

After the Iraq war was in progress (and even claimed to be almost over), there were a number of other Mossad hits, with the relevant satellite state government attempting to claim bombings as the work of an appropriate scapegoat deemed acceptable to both parties. The favourite choice was "al Qaeda" or "Muslim suicide bombers".

The Madrid train bombings of March 11, 2004 ("3/11"), was another Israeli black op. With ten coordinated bombs on four trains, at least 191 were killed and up to 2,050 wounded. The authorities tried to concoct a hoax about "bombs in rucksacks"; evidence from the blast damage showed that this was a typical Mossad multiple train bombs operation (to be repeated in London around sixteen months later).

Debris from the floor of the carriages was embedded in the ceilings. The military-grade high-order explosives - in greater quantity than could be carried in rucksacks by ten bearded Muslim gentlemen - were fitted to the bottom of the carriages the previous night, as the trains were in the overnight rail yards. A major intelligence service - with decades of experience in deception, computer hacking skills, and access to diplomatic privileges - could have gained access to these yards, and also obtained detailed information on rolling stock movements from the computer network. A group of angry Muslims or home-grown separatists could not have obtained the necessary security clearance, or smuggled the explosives in without detection.

Officially, the bombers were originally supposed to be "ETA", and then "al Qaeda". In March 2006 it was officially admitted that there was no evidence whatsoever of an al Qaeda link. Given that Israel's Mossad and al Qaeda are one and the same thing, that is not literally true, but at least the deceivers were forced to admit that their fake al Qaeda story had fallen apart.

The key to this is in the timing. At first sight, Israel did not appear to have a motive to target Spain. PM Jose Maria Aznar had carried out the Zionist mafia's orders, after a secret deal had been struck at the Azores summit of March 2003. Ostensibly, the summit was a last-minute attempt to agree a new UN resolution in order to avert war over the crisis of Iraq's "WMDs"; in actuality it was about how much would be paid into whose secret accounts and how much of their military would be offered up as Israel's proxy army. Spain had contributed some 1300 soldiers for the invasion of Iraq.

March 11, 2004 was exactly 30 months after the 9/11 attacks. Moreover, it was 912 days after 9/11; i.e., there were 911 intervening days between the two dates. With the US elections due later that year, Israel had decided to conduct an experiment in order to test the effect of terror attacks on an incumbent's popularity. Just three days after 3/11, Spain was due to hold elections. If Aznar had been re-elected, then the US would have seen another attack in the fall in an attempt to boost Bush's poll ratings. Aznar deserved to be thrown out of office for his betrayal of the Spanish people in signing up to Israel's war on Iraq, but the Madrid bombings were not his fault. In the event, Aznar lost the election, and so the US was spared another attack for the time being.

Zionists have a fixation with numerology; 3/11 and its 911 intervening days was the obvious choice for the timing of the experiment. The location of 3/11 was determined by the timing of Spain's election. The Bali 2002 micro nuke operation was exactly one year, one month and one day after 9/11. Subsequent Zionist attacks included Jordan (November 9, 2005 which is 9/11 in Israeli and European calendars), and Sharm al-Sheikh (July 23, 2005 which is 1,411 days after 9/11). The second half of 2006 includes the five-year anniversary of 9/11 and December 5 which will be 1,911 days after 9/11 (or December 6 for 1,911 intervening days). So if any countries are planning elections within a few days of these dates, they would be well advised to postpone them.

Zionists wanted to see Bush re-elected in the 2004 US presidential election.

Of course, the idea that a dry drunk with an inane fascination for watching small animals explode, and lacking either a reasonable intellect or even the basic motor skills to swallow a pretzel or ride a tricycle or bicycle, is actually the architect of US foreign policy is akin to supposing that data manipulation within a computer is carried out not by the CPU, but by a tiny nut within the assembly. Israel gives its orders to Cheney, Rumsfeld, Rice and Co via the neocon intermediaries.

There were parallels between the US election and the UK general election of May 2005. Both had suitable Zionist puppets to play the role of a "leader", in reality nothing more than a front for Israel. The opposition candidates were both Jews who had changed their name - John Kerry (Kohn) and Michael Howard (Hecht). Both of these opposition candidates were desperately trying their level best to lose. Another little scam for the US elections was to concoct a video purporting to be of Osama bin Laden - who had died at least two years ago - in the hope that this might frighten some into voting for Bush as the man who would "protect" them.

In the UK election the Zionists' plan worked, and Blair was re-elected. But Dubya was so unpopular and so incompetent that Kerry's kid gloves strategy and the Osama hoax would not have prevented Kerry from winning. Hence, it was necessary to fiddle the results by a few additional percentage points. The various chicanery included electronic voting machines, such as the Diebold optical scanner machines, with results sent to a central tabulator that was just a Windows-based PC. Walden O'Dell, Chief Executive of Diebold, had written to 100 wealthy Republican supporters in a fund-raising exercise: "I am committed to helping Ohio deliver its electoral votes to the president next year". Either the voting machines had secretly been programmed to bias the results by several points in favour of Bush, or hackers manipulated data in the central tabulators.

There were significant discrepancies between exit polls, which predicted a win for Kerry, and the official results. Where a paper trail existed, the divergence between exit polls and results was within the expected statistical margin of error. In contrast, results from the voting machines had consistently swung towards Bush. The National Election Data Archive demonstrated that the odds of these discrepancies occurring due to chance ranged from 1 in 17,800 down to 1 in 867,205,500. Dr Stephen Freeman of the University of Pennsylvania calculated the odds at 250 million to one against for just three of the major swing states - Florida, Ohio and Pennsylvania - to swing as far as they did from their exit polls. Other tricks included the barring of foreign observers, phony letters telling people they could not vote, and obstruction of minority groups from voting. Bizarre consequences included instances where there were more votes cast than voters. Historically, the incumbent had never managed a last-minute surge.

The machine-induced swing in Ohio was sufficient for Bush to steal the election. As if all was normal, the US then had the audacity to continue lecturing other countries about holding free and fair elections, and of the importance of "democracy" (one of the pretexts for the invasion of Iraq).

With Bush and Blair both safely re-elected and working to hasten the move to a global dictatorship, the second half of 2005 featured an above average number of Israeli false-flag terror operations. The Zionist cabal's protection racket continued to operate in similar vein to that of previous decades, albeit now flushed with success over its nuclear-armed subs, accomplishment of Silverstein and the Mossad's billion-dollar WTC demolition insurance fraud, Zakheim's trillion-dollar Pentagon embezzlement, and the neocons' recruiting of puppet states' armed forces as Israel's proxy army for the war on Iraq. This super-mafia was buying at the scent of the imminent despotism.

In general, terror attacks - to be blamed on some suitable scapegoat that would provide a pretext for stripping the people of their human rights and hard-won freedoms - were conducive to the Zionist mafia's programme for world dictatorship. Specifically, when a nation did something to displease its government's mafia masters, it would be punished with a terror attack. The nation's political leadership would be racked with guilt, feeling partly responsible for the casualties, but would be forced to cover up the mafia's crimes by going along with the cover story - e.g. of "Muslim suicide bombers", or "ETA", or "Chechen insurgents", etc.

July, 7 2005 (the "7/7 attacks") was the date of the UK's worst terrorist atrocity since Pan Am 103 exploded in the skies over Lockerbie, Scotland, in December 1988. A bomb in each of three London Underground trains and another on a London bus left 56 dead and about 700 injured.

British Gas had recently discovered significant offshore gas fields in Palestinian Authority areas off the Gaza coast. Israel did not express any interest in this gas, even though gas from Egypt was more expensive. Ariel Sharon preferred to deal with Egypt for political reasons, fearing that a $150+ million annual cash flow to the Palestinians would be used to bankroll "terrorism" - i.e. resistance to the occupation - against Israel.

On June 30, Israeli and Egyptian officials signed a $2.5 billion deal for the sale of Egyptian natural gas to Israel over the next 15 years, with options for a further 5 years. Israel then found out that Egypt and British Gas had struck a secret deal behind her back, whereby Palestinian gas would be sold to Egypt. Effectively, Israel would be purchasing from Palestine after all, and having to pay a premium price into the bargain. Hence, the Zionist mafia decided to whack Britain and Egypt. A series of bombings in Sharm al-Sheikh killed 88 and wounded over 150 - Egypt's deadliest terror attack in history. Most casualties were Egyptians. 11 Britons died, and an Israeli Arab. There were no Jewish casualties.

The initial news reports on 7/7, London's worst bomb attack since World War Two, stated that Israel's (then) Finance Minister and former PM Binyamin "Bibi" Netanyahu was warned in advance of the explosions. Netanyahu, scheduled to speak at the 4th annual Tel Aviv Stock Exchange (TASE) Investors Conference in the Great Eastern Hotel, arrived in London on Wednesday night and was staying at a Mayfair hotel. Original reports stated that warnings before the attacks prompted him to remain in his hotel room, and revised accounts held that he was "on his way to the hotel" when he was warned "after the first explosion".

It was necessary to explain why Netanyahu did not show up at the TASE conference. The original plan (of Israel and the mainstream media) was to report that Scotland Yard warned the security officer at the Israeli Embassy who in turn warned Netanyahu, a few minutes in advance of multiple simultaneous explosions on the London Underground, which were followed by a bus bombing. The simultaneity of the Tube train bombings would "prove" that the attack had "all the hallmarks of al Qaeda". When Scotland Yard refused to play along, Israel could not admit foreknowledge, leaving the original "warned by Scotland Yard before the attacks" claim dead in the water.

Following negotiations, the UK authorities did agree to a minor rewriting of the script. A version where the three Tube explosions were spread over a period of 26 minutes, from 08:51 to 09:17, allowed the Netanyahu warning story to be revised to "after the first explosion". With several detonations occurring after the warning, the decision to avoid the conference would have been vindicated. It was hoped that the warning story would be forgotten two days later, by which time the simultaneous Tube explosions account would be resurrected.

Unfortunately, the new improved script still incriminated Israel. Until the bus bombing, almost an hour after the attack began, the British police believed that the incidents were related to "power surges" rather than bombs. In fact, the explosions caused power surges after rails were shorted out by metal debris.

A former head of the Mossad, Efraim Halevi, wrote a piece about the London "multiple simultaneous" bombings in the July 7 online edition of the Jerusalem Post. But if the official story is correct, Israel is innocent, and Israeli-UK negotiations on the warning story did not take place as above, then Halevi could not have known that the explosions were simultaneous, two days before the London police knew. Clearly, most of the article was pre-written, and Halevi forgot to revise the paragraph about simultaneity on the day.

There was also a report in the German newspaper, Bild am Sonntag, that the Mossad office in London received advance notice of the attacks, but only six minutes before the first blast. In fact, they would have known days earlier. But if their story were true, it would be an extraordinary coincidence that they learned of the attacks just in time to warn Netanyahu, but too late to warn anyone else.

The oil deal double-cross motive for whacking the UK and Egypt with their biggest terror attacks for at least 17 years, the Netanyahu warning fiasco, Halevi's prior knowledge that the explosions were simultaneous, and the admission of the Mossad London cell's prior knowledge are all events that are correlated with the truth-value of Israel's guilt.

Another interesting test is the nationality of the company that was selected by Metronet Rail to provide a "networked video solution" for installation in the entire London Underground. The company is Verint Systems, previously known as Comverse Infosys (before February 1, 2002), and is a subsidiary of Israel's Comverse Technology. The Israeli security company's control of the software and computers involved in Verint Systems' "networked video solution" enabled multiple 'malfunctions' to occur at the very times and places that a Mossad operation was in progress. Hence, they had a camera-free window of opportunity to install the 7/7 bombs. The Zionist mafia's massive spy network, and puppet "leaders" of government and police etc who are either bribed, blackmailed, or brainwashed Masons, provided them with the means and the opportunity.

Information that surfaced at the end of August 2005 dealt another fatal blow to the official 7/7 attacks theory. Police claimed that four "Muslim suicide bombers" were filmed at Luton station at 7:22 and took the 7:40 Thameslink train to King's Cross, where they were filmed at 8:26. However, the relevant trains did not run to schedule on July 7, due to problems with the overhead lines in the Mill Hill area of North London, between Luton and King's Cross. Thameslink's 7:40, 7:46 and 7:56 trains were cancelled, and others were delayed (arrival at King's Cross but not departure from Luton) by up to 35 minutes.

The 7:24 departed Luton at 7:25. Independent trials have shown that it takes over three minutes to walk up the steps to the ticket office and down to the platform. In the image of Hasib Hussain on the stairs, he is not running. For the official theory to have even a snowball in hell's chance, the "bombers" would have had to have bought tickets in advance, they would not have needed to queue at the station, almost immediately upon entering the station (just after the almost stationary Hasib was filmed) a Tannoy announcement must have informed them that their train was about to depart from the relevant platform, and they must have immediately started to run for the train. But if a quartet of Muslim guys with bulky rucksacks were rushing up and down stairs to catch their train, there should have been witnesses. And the "suspects" would not have jeopardised the mission by sprinting like Linford Christie to catch a particular train whilst carrying bulky rucksacks containing ten pounds of shock-sensitive high explosives. The official Thameslink summer timetable shows trains running every six minutes on average, from 07:00 to 08:00 on weekdays. It was not until about 07:40 that the advertised trains on the screens began to be cancelled, and those arriving at the station at 07:22 would have been unaware of delays at Mill Hill.

The 7:30 did not arrive at King's Cross until 8:39 (35 minutes late). In this event, the 8:26 CCTV capture is patently impossible, and it is most improbable that all three Tube bombers would have reached the explosion sites by 8:50. Subsequent trains all arrived later than 8:39. An eyewitness has confirmed that no King's Cross trains left Luton between 7:25 and 7:56, apart from the 7:30 at 7:42 from Platform 4.

Clearly, those who concocted the frame-up merely referred to the Thameslink summer train timetable, rather than the actual times on the day. Just as the official theory was holed below the waterline and it was starting to look as if Sir Ian Blair would be facing grave criminal charges and Tony Blair an impeachment, a ludicrous heavily dubbed and edited video was released, purportedly of one of the 7/7 "suicide bombers". The look-alike actor could not mimic a Yorkshire accent, so had to mime along to a Yorkshire-bred narrator, with the audio and video out of sync by an ever-changing interval. This practice had been previously employed in the "Nick Berg beheading" video, as the actor playing the part of a ruthless Arab terrorist could not convincingly speak Arabic.

The movements of Rudi Giuliani - the former New York mayor who played a key role in 9/11 - are interesting, to say the least. On July 6, he happened to be speaking at Harrogate, North Yorkshire, which is within some 20 miles of the south Leeds areas of West Yorkshire where most of the 7/7 "suspects" lived. Leeds is about 190 miles from London. As the Tube bombs detonated on July 7, he was just yards from Liverpool Street station, having breakfast at the Great Eastern Hotel, where Netanyahu was due to address the TASE conference to promote investment in Israel. Giuliani's Yorkshire role could have included planting peroxide-based explosive material in the Leeds apartment rented by the Egyptian biochemist, whom the UK authorities unsuccessfully attempted to frame, and buying plastic tubs from a Leeds garden centre to obtain a receipt which could then be "found" in pristine condition at one of the blast sites.

Israel played no part in the "failed bombs plot" of London, July 21. The simplest theory, consistent with the evidence, limits the plot to four people. Four plucky friends, loyal to their own kith and kin, felt obliged to make a political protest in relation to the carnage of the illegal Iraq war. The plan neither involved suicide nor any injuries, since the devices were designed to be all bark and no bite.

However, the July 21 operators could have been entrapped and directed by MI5 agents. Either way, as the 7/7 frame-up began to fall apart - even with the aid of phony videos and Orwellian revisions such as "traces of TATP/HMTD", "no timers", and "bombs in rucksacks" - the UK Government would benefit from a second wave of "failed" bombings that would boost its case for measures such as compulsory biometric ID cards and 90-day detentions without trial. The Government would attempt to promote 21/7 as part of its ludicrous conspiracy theory of thousands of evil Muslims bent on world domination.

In 9/11, a main concern of the operators was to make it appear as if there really were "Muslim terrorists". If the Muslims could be seen drinking, gambling, in strip bars, etc, all well and good - it would just be hoped that few would notice the inconsistencies. Similarly, the UK government's overriding priority was to make it appear as if hundreds of crazed Muslims were bent on destroying British society. The negative publicity arising from the "accidental" shooting of Jean Charles de Menezes, a Brazilian electrician (with eleven bullets at point blank range - seven shots to the head, one to the shoulder, and three bullets totally missing to become lodged in the carriage) was considered to be outweighed by the considerable promotion and reinforcement that this would provide for the "suicide bomber" hoax.

The assassins would have known full well that there was zero chance of an explosion; with four bullets missing the head there would have been a good chance of detonating shock sensitive explosives in a "suicide vest". Jean Charles de Menezes was allowed to get on the train so that police could seize videotapes or discs, bringing them back later and claiming that there was "nothing on them"; the system must have been "not working". A suitable large magnet, heater, or hammer would have done the trick. Any witnesses who seemed as if they might speak out would be warned to stay out of it.

The 7/7 planners had to select committed Muslims as patsies. The UK's Office for National Statistics (ONS) is responsible for the decennial Census, which included religion for the first time in 2001. For each individual in a household, religion was an optional question, although 92.29% volunteered this information. Other questions such as ethnicity were compulsory. 2001 was also the first Census where the main scanning and capture services were contracted out. The external service provider was Lockheed Martin, the world's largest defense contractor with links to the US DoD and Homeland Security.

Government agencies could readily obtain lists of known Muslims. Foreign operatives could have breached security at the time of data capture, or more recently by infiltrating ONS, hacking their database, providing IT services (potential suppliers approach the Procurement office in Newport, South Wales), or even being supplied by Lockheed Martin or the Pentagon. A select statement around July 1st may have specified four columns rather like "Leeds" + "Muslim" + "male" + "born 1974 to 1987". Three of the 7/7 "bombers" grew up in Beeston, Leeds. Mohammed Khan only moved to Dewsbury very recently and would have been within the Leeds Authority in 2001. The fourth, the Jamaican, was an enthusiastic Islam convert in 2001, so may well have declared as such in the April 29 Census.

Bali was hit by another zionist terror strike on October 1, 2005, a few days after suggestions that Australia could be moving 450 troops from Iraq. Fortunately, the 2005 attacks were not on the same scale as the 2002 micro nuke operation. But at least 20 were killed and over 100 injured. Bombs had been planted at Jimbaran Bay and Kuta; some were buried in sand and some were hidden under tables. Three bombs, packed with pellets and ball bearings, were detonated remotely by mobile phone. The authorities hastily shut down the local mobile network. Three unexploded bombs were then discovered, having failed to go off as a result.

Various cover stories were floated in which the attacks were said to have been carried out by the ubiquitous Muslim suicide bomber. The first claim was that there had been three suicide bombers with backpacks containing manually-triggered bombs, and another three unexploded bombs that were to have been detonated remotely by mobile phone. But if the "Muslims" had the technical capability for remote mobile detonation, it would not make sense to needlessly sacrifice three of their own simply to save the cost of another three mobile phones. The authorities soon saw how ridiculous this story was, and wheeled out a Mk II version which attempted to deny the earlier reports of unexploded bombs.

But the fact of the unexploded bombs could not be suppressed, and the police were forced to abandon Mk II for a Mk III revision. The third version of the official story held that, although there were three pre-installed remotely-detonated bombs that failed to go off after the mobile network was shut down, the other three bombs had been in backpacks carried by suicide bombers, but had been triggered remotely just in case the "bombers" had a last minute change of mind. This theory was even worse than the Mk I version - if the three suicide bombers had placed their backpacks under a table and got out quickly they could have reported "installation complete" to the remote operatives and then lived to fight another day. Now the Muslim planners had sacrificed three of their own without even saving the price of three mobile phones. A better theory would be that Mossad planners sacrificed drugged or coerced Muslim carriers; an even better, simpler theory is that six bombs were pre-installed and three failed to detonate after the authorities hastily shut down the phone network.

As always, avoidance of internal inconsistency has never been the forte of the Zionist-employed conspiracy theorist. The main priority was to push the theme of "Muslim suicide bombers", and to this end the slippery police chief Pastika and the dodgy anti-terror official Major General Mbai released pictures of three heads, supposedly of the "bombers". In the 2002 Bali micro nuke attack, concrete had been stripped from rebar at a range of over 50 feet from an alleged conventional explosion, which is impossible. However, the heads were almost in perfect condition, give or take the odd bruise, after allegedly being in close proximity to an exploding bomb that had been packed with shrapnel. That is also impossible, with a TNT detonation capable of some 4,000 psi overpressure at very close range.

Mbai said, "Their faces are normal; their heads have been cut off". Yes, after being ordered to "make it look like a suicide bombing", three hapless men in custody had been beaten up and their heads cut off and planted for "discovery".

Israel ordered the Mossad to bomb three hotels in Amman, Jordan on November 9, 2005, killing 60 and injuring 115. The motive was that Jordan's King Abdullah II had just announced his willingness to mediate between the US and Syria, as war would benefit neither Jordan nor Syria. Since the fomenting of hatred, division and conflict is the cornerstone of the ex-Khazar tribe's long-term strategy, Zionist Jews need peace like they need a hole in the head. Hence, peace activists are regularly discouraged by being abducted in Iraq, shot or bulldozed in Palestine, and frequently assassinated. So Israel decided to teach the Jordanian leadership a lesson.

As in previous attacks such as the WTC 9/11 and London 7/7, Jews were warned and evacuated in advance of the Amman bombings, and Israel tried to revise history afterwards by denying any foreknowledge or evacuation. Independent corroboration of the Jews' evacuation was provided by a Los Angeles Times report, with confirmation by a former senior Israeli counter-terrorism official. The Mossad also had a specific target - a head of Palestinian military intelligence. There were no Jewish casualties. Most of the dead were Jordanian Sunni Muslims; two Israeli casualties were both Arabs. Five Palestinians died including Major-General Bashir Nafeh, the head of military intelligence in the West Bank.

The Zionist fictional account of the Jordan bombings featured Muslim suicide bombers. At the Radisson hotel, the blast was known to have emanated from a bomb placed in a false ceiling. When they could not cover up the fact of the ceiling bomb detonation, the Zionist media claimed that there really had been a "al Qaeda" suicide bomber, but there just happened to have been another bomb in the ceiling at the same time, placed by someone else. A CIA or Mossad audiotape appeared on the internet with "Abu Musab al-Zarqawi" claiming that the Muslim wedding party at the Radisson was not the target, but because of the "other" bomb the roof had unfortunately collapsed onto the wedding hall.

The absurd Zionist version of events had bungling Sunni Muslim terrorists, failing to target a single Jew and killing mostly Sunni Muslims, as opposed to the reality of Jews having killed Arabs. But after rounding up 120 to 200 "suspects", the authorities persuaded a woman to confess (probably after threats of rape or torture) to being a failed suicide bomber.

February 2006 featured a major Mossad operation against Egypt, leading to great loss of life. Contact with the al-Salam Boccaccio '98 Egyptian ferry was lost around 11 p.m. local time on February 2. A fire was known to have broken out on the car deck. Ahmed Mohamed Ahmed, a maintenance crew member who helped with the firefighting, used sea water pumped into the ship through hoses. Ahmed said that the fire would go out but revive, and "We couldn't figure out the cause". The drainage pumps were not working properly, and sea water from the firefighting collected in the hull. The ferry soon started to list; after a couple of hours the list became severe, and the ship sank about ten minutes later. Around 400 were rescued but about 1,000 were killed. On February 6, mass protests included the ransacking of the office of the ferry's Egyptian owners.

The Mossad's operation would have consisted of driving cars or trucks loaded with phosphorus and possibly magnesium onto the car deck, sabotage of the drainage pumps, and installation of a small incendiary for ignition. They had previously employed phosphorus for attacks on Egypt back in July 1954, in the Lavon Affair. Three months prior to the ferry sinking, Maged Abdelfattah, Egypt's Permanent Representative at the UN, had expressed reservations about the wording of Israel's resolution to designate January 27 as an "annual International Day of Commemoration in memory of the victims of the Holocaust", and asked why crimes against Christians and Muslims were not similarly recognized and remembered. Then around January 30, 2006, the Egyptian Parliament unanimously rejected Israel's call to observe the January 27 Memorial Day. The Mossad enforcers' hit followed within a few days.

Since the invasion of Afghanistan (supposedly to capture Osama bin Laden), it had been necessary to create an illusion of "militant Muslim terrorists". Innocent Muslims - who simply had the misfortune to be in an Islamic country just at the very time that Israel's proxy armies were ordered to invade it - were picked up off the streets, designated as "al Qaeda enemy combatants", and shipped to Guantanamo Bay. Here they would be denied basic human rights, and detained, tortured or killed without due process. The US also flew some prisoners in CIA planes to Eastern European or Middle Eastern nations that practised more elaborate forms of torture. The aim was that some prisoners would "confess" to being al Qaeda members, having undergone terrorist training in a Muslim country, or having taken part in some terror attack that was probably a Mossad operation.

The US and UK governments unsuccessfully tried to cover up the "extraordinary rendition" CIA torture flights; plane spotters fastidiously logged the numbers of CIA planes. Although there was not always hard proof that prisoners were being taken for torture, they were certainly not being provided with international flights for a holiday or the benefit of their health and wellbeing. Israel's puppet states were also frustrated in their attempts to cover up their links with

Uzbekistan's dictator Karimov. Victims of the despot are boiled alive after being raped with broken bottles and having their fingernails pulled, their teeth smashed with hammers, and their limbs broken. The Blair government's support of human rights abuses was exposed by Craig

Murray, former British ambassador to Uzbekistan.

The second half of 2005 included a suppression of free speech in countries that were only too pleased to stir up trouble with insulting cartoons of Islam's prophet Mohammed, and citing free speech as justification. The Zionist "Holocaust" hoax was atrophying at an ever-increasing rate, due to diligent efforts by historians, chemists, execution science experts, etc, and the growth of the internet. In February of 2003 Ernst Zundel, an artist and peaceable dissident who had questioned the official account of WWII, had been abducted from his home in Tennessee, USA on bogus immigration charges. He was taken to Canada where he had resided for 42 years, and held for over two years in solitary confinement without even being allowed to hear the evidence against him, or details of the accusations or the witnesses. In March 2005 he was finally deported to Germany, and charged with "inciting racial hatred". As of March 2006, the trial continues, albeit with frequent adjournments.

In August 2005 a Belgian historian, Siegfried Verbeke, was arrested in the Netherlands on "internet speech crime" charges. He was later extradited to Germany.

In October 2005 Germar Rudolf, a chemistry expert, was arrested and held in a prison some 50 miles from Chicago. Rudolf had proved that the walls of the tiny delousing rooms at Auschwitz had high cyanide concentrations whilst the large alleged "gas chambers" rooms had zero or negligible cyanide content, thereby playing a major role in debunking the hoax that was created in order to provide the Zionist mafia with its very own sovereign state. In November 2005, Rudolf was deported to Germany to face trial for "holocaust denial".

In November 2005 the British historian, David Irving, 67, was arrested in Austria for speeches he had delivered in that country back in 1989. In February 2006 he was sentenced to three years' imprisonment.

In conclusion, the Zionist criminals are aware of the precarious nature of their predicament, as their myths and propaganda crumble, and their power base becomes ever more flimsy. The vast majority of Jews are not to blame for the crimes of their leaders, and humankind has already wasted so many lives in senseless tribal warfare and pogroms. But a small clique persists, whose members will stand trial for their atrocious misdeeds, provided they live long enough. Relatively minor players and puppets such as Bush and Blair can be offered commutation to lengthy imprisonment terms if they sing like canaries. But after sixty years of propagating a hoax about gas chambers, there can be only one fitting penalty for the principal perpetrators of Zionist atrocities.
