Taken on January 29, 2007, I was on break at work and just looked up to see this hole in the clouds. It was slowly getting bigger. I wish I would have had my digital camera, but had to settle for the camera on my phone. No one I have asked has seen anything like it before. The larger hole was taken at the same place about ten minutes later. Just as odd was that across and away from this hole in the sky was a chemtrail with a "shadow" beneath it. This makes no sense to me.
