The MOSSAD asset in the White House and the Iraq-Israel Oil Pipeline

The reason for the war in Iraq. Oil flowing to Israel.
This secret pipeline is buried deep underground and encased in cement.

<http://nogw.com/ilrunshow.html>

It seems fitting that the pipeline flowing oil to Israel is buried underground, since that's where at least 3,800 American kids are also located.

Dead and buried underground, fighting a war for Israel.

Underground is also where over ONE MILLION Iraqi civilians are located, many in mass graves, buried by the thousands.

Dead and buried so that the homicidal maniac in the WH and the homicidal maniacs in Tel Aviv can enjoy their sumptuous lifestyles of wine, women, song and sometimes, little boys.

Dead and buried to appease the vampire like thirst of the WH and Tel Aviv war mongers, who need the death and destruction to feed their unquenchable thirst for the blood of others.

Dead and buried..... forever.

To Greg re. Haifa pipeline

Yes, the Haifa pipeline was a major reason why Bush invaded Iraq. Arabs would never allow Iraqi oil to go to Israel. Therefore northern Iraq will break away on November 17. Kurds are not Arabs. They cooperate with Israel.

The British built the Kirkuk-to-Haifa pipeline in 1927. In 1934, they completed a 12-inch pipeline from the Kirkuk fields to Al-Haditha on the Euphrates River. At that point the pipeline forked. One branch went through Syria to Tripoli (Lebanon). The other went across Jordan to Haifa. The British built refineries at both Tripoli and Haifa to handle this Iraq oil. (In World War II, Germany wanted to get control of this oil.)

In 1945 the British added a parallel 16-inch pipeline in Syria. The image we see in Greg's post is from the British era. (More recent images are not available to the public.)

When Jews started to invade Palestine in 1945, Syria shut down its branch to Tripoli. Iraq shut down all oil from from Kirkuk to Haifa. At that point, most of northern Iraq's oil went to the Turkish port city of Gihan, which was okay with the USA, since Turkey was a U.S. ally against the USSR. Turkey collect transit fees for this oil.

In 1947 the British oil refinery at Haifa still handled trickle of oil from miscellaneous areas, and still employed some 1,700 Arab workers, plus 360 Jewish employees. The Arab and Jewish workers formed a union to oppose British tyranny. Then the UN General Assembly created Israel. Immediately IRGUN (aka ETZEL, commanded by Menachem Begin), plus the Hagana and other terrorist groups moved in. IRGUN had bombed the King David Hotel the year before, and they started massacring Arabs in Haifa and elsewhere. They also killed British people.

In 1952, western oil companies built two new lines through Syria to Tripoli. The pipeline to Haifa was allowed to decay. Pieces of it were dismantled. Various interests used the pieces to build water pipelines.

In 2003, Bush invaded Iraq, partly to revive the pipeline to Haifa, and partly to bring oil deals to his personal friends, such as Ray L. Hunt. Small American oil companies like Hunt Oil will extract Kurdish oil as soon as Mosul and Kirkuk are broken off from Iraq (17 November 2007). Mosul is the first stop for Kirkuk oil. From there the pipeline will go through an Arab part of Iraq. Americans will guard those sections for Israel. Those are the bases seen in Greg's image. Then the pipeline will enter Jordan and continue to Haifa.

When the Haifa pipeline opens back up, Jordan --not Israel-- will collect hefty transit fees. Kurdish oil will go to Europe via Israel, not Turkey. This is one reason why the Turks are threatening to invade. The minute Bush invaded Iraq, the Turks realized that the pipeline to Haifa would be opened back up. Therefore the Turks tried to make deals with Central Asian states (such as Azerbaijan) to get new pipelines to Turkey, but now Iran and Russia have foiled Turkish plans by forming the new alliance of Caspian Sea states. Turkey feels squeezed. This is yet another reason why they are threatening to invade northern Iraq.

I do not know who is building the Haifa pipeline. The logical choice is Bechtel Inc., but Bechtel has never been fond of working with Israelis. Therefore it is probably Halliburton, or perhaps an Israeli company.

Shortly after the 2003 invasion, Benjamin Netanyahu (who was then the Israeli finance minister) boasted, "Soon you will see Iraqi oil flowing to Haifa. It is just a matter of time until the pipeline is reconstituted, and Iraqi oil will flow to the Mediterranean. It's not a pipe dream."

Netanyahu was punished for this outburst, since the Haifa pipeline was supposed to be secret. Netanyahu longs to be back in power, and constantly shoots off his mouth in the hope of being seen as an "insider." Most recently he did this by announcing the 6 Sep 07 Israeli air attack on Syria, at a time when Israel wanted to keep that a secret. This is why Netanyahu is persona non grata among Israelis. When AIPAC holds its giant conventions in Washington every spring, AIPAC does not allow Netanyahu to open a booth in the convention center, or hold press conferences there.

Under a 1975 Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) the USA guaranteed all Israel's oil needs in the event of a crisis. This Memorandum of Understanding is quietly renewed every five years. It commits U.S. taxpayers to maintain a strategic U.S. reserve for Israel, equivalent to $3 billion in 2002 dollars. Special legislation was enacted to exempt Israel from restrictions on oil exports from the USA. Moreover, the U.S. government agreed to divert oil from the USA, even if this causes domestic shortages. The U.S. government also guaranteed delivery of oil in U.S. tankers if commercial shippers become unable or unwilling to carry oil from the USA to Israel.

For the last several years, most people – even Arabs – have been skeptical about the pipeline to Haifa, since they cannot face the reality of an Iraq partition. However, Kurds are not Arabs.

Shiite oil in the south will continue to go through terminals in the Basra area. This will help provide cover for the northern pipeline to Israel.

Egypt also has a pipeline from Iraq. It also goes through Jordan, but it does not end in Haifa. The Jordanians and Israelis will close that pipeline when the new pipeline to Haifa is complete. This will increase Israeli power over Egypt.

Eventually the American public will learn about the Haifa pipeline. The U.S. government will tell the peasants, “This is the safest way to get oil to the Mediterranean,” and the American peasantry will accept it.

At first the Israelis will buy Kurdish crude, and will eventually own it. Here’s how...

Israel will pay for Kurdish crude by extending credit, which will make the Barzani clan fabulously wealthy. This will also allow the Kurds as a whole to enjoy a brief period of prosperity. In this way, Kurds will become addicted to the pipeline. Soon the Israeli debt load will pile up, and the Israelis will “reschedule” their loans (credits) to the Kurds. That is, the Israelis will forgive some of the debt in exchange for greater control of the Kurdish crude. After that, the Israelis will repeat the cycle, extending more credit (debt) to the Kurds each time, until the Israelis have it all.

International bankers control mankind by addicting mankind to debt. Their “credits” are like heroin. Loans give you a “high,” but you soon become addicted, and a slave. You do anything, and kill anyone, to get another “fix.” With each “fix” you become more enslaved.

The Kirkuk-to-Haifa pipeline will have to cross Jordan, which won’t be a problem, since Jordan has long cooperated with Israel, and will get hefty transit fees, and I noted above. Amman, the capital, is already a second Tel Aviv. Mossad has a huge office at the Amman airport. When NGOs and humanitarian organizations want to send aid to Iraq, most aircraft must go through Amman. This allows Israel Mossad to log everything. After Israel finished raping Lebanon in 2006, all aircraft to Beirut had to detour to Amman for a Mossad inspection. This is still largely the case.

The Kirkuk oil fields contain perhaps 40 percent of Iraq’s oil. This will quadruple Israel’s power in the region. The Israelis will become completely self-sufficient for oil supplies, and will have enough excess to sell to Europe. They will buy oil cheap from the Kurds, and sell it high to Europe. This will increase Israel’s power over Europe.

At first, Israel will offer Kurdish oil at a discount, in order to help Europe adjust to its new master. Then Israel will start to squeeze Europe, wringing more and more concessions from them.

Thus, Americans are killing and dying to expand Israeli hegemony, and to make Bush’s cronies richer.

It’s all part of the plan.

Kissinger and the MOU

I had read about the 1975 Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) and knew that Henry Kissinger had bragged that it was his accomplishment.

And the oil that is kept in Louisiana salt mines, allegedly for American use during emergencies, is in reality for Israel.

The large majority of Americans don't know this, but will find out when the oil bought with their tax dollars starts flowing to Israel when the deranged Bush starts the war against Iran.

But what is the significance of the November 17, 2007 date?

Bush launched his war of aggression against Iraq on March 18, 2003, the Jewish date of the "Holy" day of Purim.

And the 2008 date of Purim is March 10, when the war against Iran will probably be launched.

Is there any Jewish mysticism to the November 17 date?

To Greg Bacon re. 17 November

There's nothing mystical about November 17th.

I see that no one has read my posts about northern Iraq. Oh well. I tried not to be long-winded.

November 17th is the day when the Kurdish Regional Government (the Barzani clan) will have a referendum to include Mosul and Kirkuk in the KRG's sphere of control. They will take it (if they can) from Baghdad's control. That's why the Turks are making such a stink. This Armenian genocide chatter is just a cover story.

Miraculously, this will be one day after the U.S. House adjourns. Hence there will be little or no congressional comment about it.

Immediately after November 17th, Hunt Oil is scheduled to begin exploration in northern Iraq (right on the Turkish border), with drilling scheduled to begin in January. Hunt's Canadian partner, Impulse Energy, will also start to move, as will Heritage Oil of Canada, plus several French firms.

Once these private outfits start to extract the oil, it can be sent through the pipeline to Haifa.

Is the Haifa pipeline complete? I don't know. All information is highly classified.

The breakup of Iraq

Iraq's constitution, largely written by the US, has an article in it that allows individual provinces to break away from Iraq and form their own governing region.

That's an item rarely discussed in the American MSM.

When the windbags in the US Senate put forth resolutions urging the breakup of Iraq, it's just adding more fuel to the fire.

Breaking up Iraq--or what's left of that nation--into bits and pieces will make the Israeli Zionists dance with delight.

That's been one of their dreams for years and years.
