

LOVE MATCH  ENTER YOUR NAME
& YOUR LOVER'S NAME

Ads by Google View ads about:

Home Reader Rant Bush Leagues Capitol Hillbillies FUBAR Politics Polls War Hal Brown Phil Hoskins Rob Kezelis Rant FAQs

Google

 Web Capitol Hill Blue

Home

Time to remove both Bush & Cheney

October 8, 2007 - 6:27am.

These madmen must be driven from office

By DOUG THOMPSON

George W. Bush is an American Hitler. We can no longer deny that unpleasant reality and we must face the sad fact that the President of the United States is an international war criminal, a despot who sanctions torture and a madman who is nothing less than a mass murderer.

Impeachment of this criminal is no longer an option. It is a necessity. Bush, along with his partner in crime Dick Cheney, must be removed from office. They must be arrested and tried for their crimes and, upon conviction, they must be punished to the full extent of the law.

The United States can no longer sit back and allow the slow, plodding wheels of Democracy take its course. We cannot wait until January 20, 2009, to remove these thugs from office. It must happen now. He is a threat not only to the peace and security of the United States but represents a clear and present danger to the world as we know it.

Bush is an international terrorist far more dangerous than Osama bin Laden. Bush is a Hitler with nuclear weapons, an unhinged, megalomaniacal madman bent on world destruction.

On Friday, Bush defended his administration's use of torture. He has ordered the Pentagon to draw up plans for an invasion of Iran and authorized the military to develop scenarios that include the use of nuclear weapons in such a war. He has placed loyalists in permanent positions on many key federal agencies, ensuring that his insane policies will be carried out long after he leaves office.

I'm sorry, but as an American I can no longer sit back and leave the removal of George W. Bush from office to the flawed political system. That is the system that put him into office, not once but twice, and it is the system that has allowed him to seize control of the government and subvert the will of the American people.

The Democratic leadership of Congress failed the American people by not delivering on the promises that swept them into power in the 2006 midterm elections. The only way they can restore credibility is by taking the drastic, but necessary, steps to remove Bush and Cheney from office before they destroy this nation and the world.

I truly believe the situation is that desperate, that this nation cannot survive another 15 months with Bush and his cronies in power.

The time to act is now...before it is too late.

I only pray it not already too late.

» Login or register to post comments Printer friendly version  Delicious  Digg  Reddit  Newsvine  Furl  Google  Yahoo  Technorati

Doug, the problem is that

Submitted by Sandra Price on October 8, 2007 - 6:47am.

Doug, the problem is that the American public is not aware of these actions from our President. I often talk about his actions against our freedoms to my friends and neighbors and they are bored with politics. There have been such trivial reporting on the networks that nothing rings true to them.

The war has not hit the majority of the people at this time. They have no concept of the number of deaths of our men and women and no idea of how many limbs were left in the Middle East. The cost of the war does not affect them in any way.

They don't care who wins the election as it will have no affect on

Sign up for Capitol Hill Blue's email newsletter
Get our headlines each morning.

Email:

HOW MANY WOLVES HAVE TO DIE?

HELP STOP THE SLAUGHTER!

Hawaii early bird sale
25% off hotels
BOOK NOW
 Expedia.com.au

Recent Stories

- Rice covers up 'endemic corruption'
- Ex-Pentagon official: 'Iraq a nightmare'
- Romney claims he is 'values' candidate
- Obama, Edwards snipe at Hillary
- The resurgence of Al Gore
- Getting arrested can be deadly
- CIA goes after its watchdog
- Democracy is not always the answer
- Defending Christianity
- The case against capital punishment

LOVE MATCH  ENTER YOUR NAME
& YOUR LOVER'S NAME

Petraeus Report & Big Oil

Calling Out the "BS" on this Report The Real Benefactor: Oil. New Rpt.
EnergyAndCapital.com/Oil_War_Rpt

british soldiers

Read real life stories eye-witness view of the war in Iraq guardianweekly.co.uk

them at all. The American people want their free handouts of health care and lousy academics. They have ignored the moral values when it comes to their children and grandchildren and look to the government to legislate the bad decisions.

I wish an impeachment would change the makeup of our government but only the American people can do that. Too many Americans are drugged with either alcohol or medicines and have turned off their thinking processes. I doubt if there is any chance of bringing back our individual freedoms as there is no one to do it. Our teachers and parents have no interest in the end results of their offspring and students. I see a bleak future for America.

How do we start the impeachment action?

» Login or register to post comments

Sandra Price, I can't agree

Submitted by everyman099 on October 10, 2007 - 5:31pm.

Sandra Price, I can't agree with you more! But it seems to be an illusion that the typical American has any control over whether or not to impeach a President. What can a person do? Show up at the White House and make a citizens' arrest??

I am sick of most media sources (not you Sandra -- you make a good point) condemning individual Americans for complicity through indifference. We would be better served if they could tell us what actions we can take that won't cause us to be tackled on the White House lawn. And this rhetoric about writing your Congressmen ... Please!!! Does anyone really believe that they even read their mail.

So really what can we as working-class Americans really do? Quit our jobs to become politicians ourselves?

» Login or register to post comments

anthny: In july of 07 I

Submitted by anthny on October 8, 2007 - 8:30am.

anthny:
In july of 07 I watched Bill Moyers interview John Nichlos and Bruce Fein about the impeachment process. Bruce Fein wrote the article of impeachment for Bill Clinton which was a side show if we can remember that far back. Fein was all for the impeachment of Bush and Cheney. He is a Republican insider who knows his way around the District. And still there have been no news from the MSM about impeachment. Seems most idiots like the post above calls for ignorance is bliss defence. If the crimes don't effect there lives they could care less what this regime is doing against the constitution, nation and world.

» Login or register to post comments

Impeachment has never before

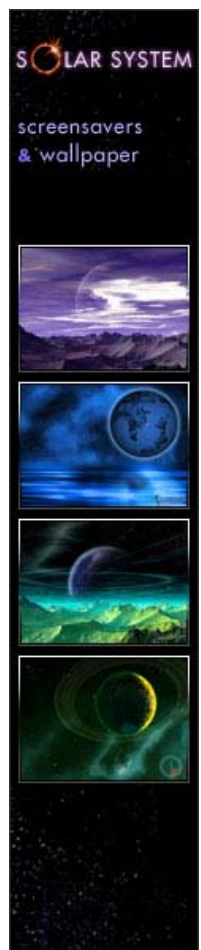

Submitted by mary cali on October 8, 2007 - 8:56am.

Impeachment has never before been more justified. However, the reality of actually removing both Bush and Cheney is highly unlikely. As Doug points out impeachment has to be a double header to remove these two incompetent malfescants.

Nancy Pelosi, as speaker of the House, is next in line for the presidency should both Bush and Cheney be removed. It is understandable that she does not want to attempt what would appear to be a power grabbing coup. An impeachment trial of the two would enrage the right wing who would rally behind Bush/Cheney. The right wing media would be clamoring against this. Don't expect them to be enlightened by the facts of what these two have done to the country. They have shown no such inclination. The GOP is imploding, this would be a boon to galvanize what is left of the party

The Senate needs 60% of the vote for actual removal. The aroused right wing base would strongarm their R Senators not to vote for impeachment. That is why most Rs in congress have continued to stand behind the president. I see no reason why that would change with impeachment that would enrage the people who put them in office.

The reality is we are stuck with these two until their term ends. I do not see impeachment as a viable option. I would hope there are other ways to hold them accountable and ensure that they do no more harm. As long as the Ds do not have enough votes for

Support Our Troops

Silicone Wristbands
Silicone Bracelets
www.admagnets.com

Fix Your Computer

Fix PC. Remove Errors.
Clean System Complete
Scan. Takes 6 Mins.
www.RegistryFix.com

Support Troops

Products and information about Support Troops.
eBay.com.au

Patriotic Gifts

Creative gift ideas for the Yankee Doodle on your list.
www.surprise.com

Discount Products

Discount new and used items. Find deals now!
www.ebay.com

Syndicate

removal, impeachments of a Pres. and VP are momentous tasks that would wind up in failure given the political realities.

The main focus in congress needs to be redeployment of the troops in Iraq. Impeachment would be a distraction and an impediment to that objective where Republican votes are needed.

» Login or register to post comments

Besides reading about it and

Submitted by TallMike2 on October 8, 2007 - 8:57am.

Besides reading about it and posting comments on it, what can we do right now to accomplish the removal of the Shrub and his cronie? Congress doesn't talk about it. Even the more liberal members don't mention it. How can we get rid of the two worse criminals in the history of the US and even the world? The Shrub is truly the reincarnation of Adolph Hitler and even if we don't impeach him, I hope he will, nevertheless, be brought to trial by the international community for war crimes and spend the rest of his life in jail.

» Login or register to post comments

Fall of the American

Submitted by AustinRanter on October 8, 2007 - 9:31am.

Fall of the American Empire

Apparently the American Congress and public see blowjobs as being more immoral than mass murder.

My son or daughter hasn't died in battle...so? My son or daughter hasn't been tortured in battle...so?

The national debt isn't coming out of my paycheck earmarked as such....so?

My healthcare takes two incomes to meet the deductible, but hey, we've all gotta be productive...right?

Scarce resources have shifted more and more to the few, but as long as I have my basic needs met...so what?

My political representatives are corrupt, but nothing I can do about it...so?

....so?

....so?

....so?

So who am I to fix a government turned sociopathic? I'm just one person, powerless against the powers to be.

I guess the next step is to raise and extend our arm out and say, "Heil Bush"??? Why not, Congress from both parties have.

» Login or register to post comments

Grandma Pelosi isn't going

Submitted by Elmo on October 8, 2007 - 9:44am.

Grandma Pelosi isn't going to let it happen.

» Login or register to post comments

There is a minority of

Submitted by mary cali on October 8, 2007 - 10:25am.

There is a minority of rightwing diehards that will support Bush/Cheney no matter what. Right now, because of the small D majority in Congress, they have the upper hand when it comes to impeachment. That is the long and short of it.

» Login or register to post comments

The time for impeachment may

Submitted by Steve Horn on October 8, 2007 - 11:22am.

The time for impeachment may have passed - "W" and his administration are in a downward spiral, all impeachment would do, at this point, would be to further drain the economy and make life worse for the (few remaining) factory workers - Pelousy and the rest of the gutless liberals are responsible for this sad state of affairs -

Had the call been listened to years ago "W" being impeached may have made a difference - at this point getting rid of Bush and declaring the US "free again" would be like walking up to the body of a dead junkie and saying "well, he's clean at last" -

We'd be better off putting our energies into ensuring that a decent, honest candidate was found and elected in '08 -

Peace

Steve

» Login or register to post comments

Who? "We'd be better off

Submitted by jarrodlombardo on October 8, 2007 - 1:08pm.

Who?

"We'd be better off putting our energies into ensuring that a decent, honest candidate was found and elected in '08"

Who do you suggest and how do we do it?

The way I see it:

Given the full roster from both parties, the only one that comes close to both being decent and honest looks like Kucinich, who has been consistently shunned by the MSM because he's reasonably honest and decent compared to the rest.

--Jarrod

» Login or register to post comments

I agree that it is late in

Submitted by caligraph on October 8, 2007 - 4:17pm.

I agree that it is late in the day to seriously begin the process of impeachment. But here is why I think it should be done:
1--Grounds for impeachment--After Bill Clinton we all had a pretty good idea of what constituted grounds for impeachment: making misleading statements about a blow job under oath would be sufficient. Now however, are we saying that violating international agreements and our own Constitution by initiating an illegal aggressive war under false pretenses, depriving detainees their rights under the Geneva Conventions, engaging in torture, and shredding the Bill of Rights is NOT enough? If not, what will the next president have to do to be impeached? The mind reels.
2--The precedent of executive power--Unless the other two branches of our government step up and restore the balance of powers spelled out in the Constitution, the powers arrogated unto himself by the current executive will be transferred to the next occupant of the White House by virtue of unchallenged precedent. Impeachment can redress that imbalance and make it clear that such actions on the part of the executive branch must not be repeated. I don't see how we can just let this go and hope the nightmare will disappear after the election and everything will just go back to normal.

» Login or register to post comments

Congress need only refuse to

Submitted by ekaton on October 8, 2007 - 6:21pm.

Congress need only refuse to appropriate more funds for Iraq AND Afghanistan and start impeachment proceedings. No more money for war and time to stand on principle. The troops will have to be brought home and Bushco will be able to do no more further damage for the rest of his term. Of course with no more money for Iraq we can expect the petulant commander-in-chief to simply leave the troops in the field and claim its the democrats fault they are stranded there without supplies. This of course would be a treasonous act and traitors I believe can still be shot on sight.

-- Kent Shaw

» Login or register to post comments

If only, Doug... If

Submitted by denroth on October 8, 2007 - 12:22pm.

If only, Doug... If only...

I believe the time for impeachment has passed. As great as it sounds, at this point, I see impeachment as only a pipe dream. I would like to see the Democratic leadership tie up all, and I mean all, spending bills through the end of this administration.

I agree with Steve Horn that the best thing to do now is to elect the best person possible to replace this disgraceful piece of Bushit! I only pray that it's not going to be another self-righteous "compassionate" Conservative Republican.

But kudos to you, Doug, for the provocative rant. Frankly, if you were the candidate, I'd vote for you!

»

Login or register to post comments

Doug, I wrote my state

Submitted by Tinker on October 8, 2007 - 12:31pm.

Doug,

I wrote my state Senators and Representative after the Bill Moyers Show on impeachment. The Senators replied that impeachment had to begin in the House of Representatives, and our Representative in the House is a republican. He never answered. Then I wrote to the Speaker of the House. I didn't expect a reply there and was not disappointed. The whole exercise was like spitting into the wind. And that wind was coming from a foul place!

If you want to join the Impeach Bush movement try www.impeachbush.org and get your T-shirts, hats, and perhaps even show up at the next march on Washington.

»

Login or register to post comments

Doug, This is a good

Submitted by Helen Rainier on October 8, 2007 - 1:20pm.

Doug,

This is a good commentary and I'm pleased to see you address this issue.

That said, it obviously would be a next-to-futile action to take at this point. All that is necessary to confirm this is to review the actions of the Republicon/Neocons who continue to support Bush and refuse to listen to the people and exercise the will of the people.

At this point, I believe it would be counterproductive because the Republicons won't support it. For god's sake, they won't even support reasonable bills applying to providing for the welfare and morale of our nation's sons and daughters that they primarily enabled Bush to send into harm's way based on lies and delusional hallucinations. If they care so little about that, they sure as hell won't give a flying crap about their oath of office to uphold, protect and defend the US Constitution. Even if all the Democrats and Independents were to vote to take action, the Republicons will NEVER go along with it.

I have reluctantly come to the conclusion, much as I hate to admit it, that the only chance we have now is to look to the 2008 election and getting ride of as many of the Republicon legislators who have enabled the bastard Bushies.

It is personally repulsive to me to say that in the future I will never vote again for a Republicon but having watched them for over the past 10 years when they have been in control has made me feel so sad for what has happened to America.

I have called my federal representatives, I have signed petitions, I have done everything I can do at this point. I do as much as I am able to do -- health permitting. I have contributed to NGOs whose causes I believe espouse the principles of the US Constitution. I will NEVER contribute to any political campaign again.

However, unless and until our federal representatives "get" that their responsibilities are to We, the People and the US Constitution and NOT to their political party, we are swimming against the tide.

I'm interested in knowing what suggestions you could proffer as to what other action/s we can take? I'm really at an intellectual standstill on that issue now.

» Login or register to post comments

"Its never too late" Is how

Submitted by JudyB on October 8, 2007 - 2:06pm.

"Its never too late" Is how I feel about this NECESSARY (but unlikely) Impeachment. At the very LEAST, the process of impeachment should be started. There is NO doubt in my mind that if a legal petition were to be written and put before the public to sign, many millions would do it in a flash. The problem is, that so far, I have not seen even one petition out there for impeachment, except for those coming across my computer. I too watched the Bill Moyers show with Nichols and Fein and found it both brilliant and enlightening (aired 7/13/07). President Bush/Cheney must be held accountable for the abusive use of the power they were intrusted with. By starting the process of impeachment it will serve to show any future Presidents, that abuse of presidential powers, as well as ignoring the Constitution cannot and will not be tolerated. My question is. WHEN will there be a legal impeachment petition out here for us to sign? Thanks again Doug for a great RANT...I cannot even imagine what more damages and danger Bush/Cheney will create for us if they are allowed 15 more months.

"The world is a dangerous place, not because of those who do evil, but because of those who look on and do nothing." Albert Einstein

» Login or register to post comments

I've never liked Bush or

Submitted by JoyfulC on October 8, 2007 - 2:11pm.

I've never liked Bush or Cheney. I do believe that some hijinks took place in both elections that put them into power. And yet... I'm not in favour of an impeachment. It would just be yet another clusterfk. Right now, that's the last thing we need.

Let's just get through this next election and hope that our next president, regardless of party, has an understanding of the need for common sense and balance, both internally and externally.

Justice can be done, but I fear that trying to push it through now won't be successful and will only generate more damage and dysfunction. We have to heal ourselves before we're up to this task.

» Login or register to post comments

Draft Al Gore. He's the

Submitted by Cailleach on October 8, 2007 - 2:30pm.

Draft Al Gore. He's the only candidate I trust and who has the smarts and experience to run this country. I believe he would knock every other candidate out of the race. (I'm sorry. I just don't trust Hillary. I think she will be another Pelosi, and will spend her first term running for a second term. We've had enough triangulating with the current Democrats.)

History has shown that candidates that have won the popular vote, lost in the electoral vote, then run again later, have won by a landslide the second time. I believe Gore is the one this country needs.

» Login or register to post comments

Al Gore?? I'm not so

Submitted by JoyfulC on October 9, 2007 - 9:55am.

Al Gore?? I'm not so sure!

I'm about 2/3s the way through his book, 'Assault on Reason,' and I'm having trouble finishing it. Here's a man to whom history gave not one -- but TWO -- chances to make a difference. And he weened out both times.

I don't care if he writes a book a year for the rest of his life. I don't care if we share some of the same ideas and views. I could never trust him. He let us all down TWICE. That's twice too many times for my liking. He's a yellowbelly.

» Login or register to post comments

A windmill we MUST tilt

Submitted by nigeldh on October 8, 2007 - 2:38pm.

A windmill we MUST tilt at!

Although Doug's Rant might be seen as "too late," it is a windmill we MUST tilt at!

1. The Democrats and others insist on bringing knives to a gun fight with machine guns and cannons.
2. The grandfathers of these folks were true Reichwingers supporting Fascism in the 1930's. Do a search on 1934 US coup plot.
3. We have to tell our leaders to stop being bubble gum machines - put in some money or poll numbers and you know what drops.
4. Madam Speaker can't have it both ways - reward and punish bad behavior. She can't say "America tortures, bad boy" yet allow the Iran resolution to go through. Anyone who is parent or has animals knows this. We are dealing with a drunk (wet or dry) frat bully. And since Papa can't, or won't, punish him, someone else has to. Witness the Iraq Study Group flop.
5. Even Papa's Carlyle Group buddies can't, or won't, control him. Which says how out of control things are. They have billions of dollars to protect (or maybe they want to make some more and don't see this as a sub-prime melt down).

>

Login or register to post comments

I couldn't agree more - our

Submitted by billtc on October 8, 2007 - 3:46pm.

I couldn't agree more - our situation is dire, and I also fear it may be too late. It's astounding that the American people are so apathetic about the greatest threat our republic has ever faced. I have tried my damndest to sound the alarm bells, only to have people look at me like I've sprouted a second head. We simply MUST make impeachment happen!
Bill Cowan in SE Texas

>

Login or register to post comments

The old Doug that I have

Submitted by douin on October 8, 2007 - 4:17pm.

The old Doug that I have grown to love has returned. We all have missed you and your 'take no prisoners' style. You are so right. Bush and Cheney, along with that whole Administration, should be turned out on their butts. But we know that impeachment is not a plausible scenario, no matter how much 90% of us want it. We are realistic enough to know that with this Congress so tied in knots with keeping their Seats, it will not happen. What those devoted-to-themselves members will discover is that it has all been for naught. Those Senate seats are in more danger from doing Nothing.

It is not necessary for me to recount all of the things that Bush has done. We know many of them and many more are coming out every day. The most we can hope for is for him and all of his helpers to pay for what they have done once their time is up...and before they take off for his already prepared mountain top retreat in Paraguay, the intended refuge from the vengeance that is certain to come from the world that now hates them all.

>

Login or register to post comments

There's nothing worse than a

Submitted by kevns007 on October 8, 2007 - 6:18pm.

There's nothing worse than a Repug. Nothing. Except a Neocon Repug. Or a spineless Democrat. Because of this lethal combination we're toast. Game over. The Carlyle Group won.

>

Login or register to post comments

I've written my

Submitted by Janice on October 8, 2007 - 6:44pm.

I've written my representative and senators. I've told everyone I know. I've gotten everyone I could to watch the Bill Moyers show on impeachment. It's not enough. We need to mount a phone calling/letter/email writing campaign aimed at Congress. The only hope is to get everyone on board. I do not like what it will do to our country, but I like even less what not doing it is doing. We the people have to send a message loud and clear to our elected representatives that we expect only the best from them. We elect them to office to represent what is best for us - the citizens of this country. We are their bosses and they are accountable to each and every one of us - it is their job! That is how it is supposed to be, and it's up to us to make it that way again. Bitching is not going to straighten this out - and action may only have a chance - but knowing what needs to be done and doing nothing makes us no better than those turning a blind eye to what is happening. These folks in Washington need to 'get it'. The status quo is not good enough. But, it will take a mass group effort - and who will lead us? Doug, are you up to the job? Will Moveon do it? Who???

If you tell the truth you don't have to remember anything.
Mark Twain

» Login or register to post comments

Does everyone understand the

Submitted by CheckerboardStr... on October 8, 2007 - 8:00pm.

Does everyone understand the REAL REASON why Iran is the new target?
Iran has moved 85 percent of its oil sales to the Euro currency, and this without ever opening the threatened Oil Bourse.

» Login or register to post comments

Why waste time on

Submitted by SEAL on October 8, 2007 - 10:29pm.

Why waste time on impeachment. Just arrest the bastards and throw them in the hoosegow. I thought that when a person committed a crime, that's what happened to them. Is there any reason why the president can't be arrested when he/she/it commits a crime?

Bush has committed quite a few crimes. Murder for one. A few hundred thousand counts. It's all documented and should be easy to prove. The way the law works is, if someone(s) dies as a result of your wrongdoing or your commission of crime, then you are responsible for that, also. His deliberate misleading of congress to get permission to kill Iraqis should qualify as negligent homicide at the very least. But it seems to me that those lies constitute perjury, a felony, and that would make the resulting deaths murder one. And then there is the illegal wiretapping, which he admits. The list goes on, actually.

The Constitution is not just a format or a guide or a structure for governing or a set of rules to be interpreted. And it sure as hell is not just a 'goddamn piece of paper.'

Violating the Constitution is a crime because the Constitution is the LAW, the SUPREME LAW of the land. All other laws owe their existence to and derive their power from the Constitution.

Is the President of the United States immune from arrest and prosecution for a crime? I don't believe so. What is to prevent any citizen from filing a criminal complaint against Bush? What is to prevent any federal judge from issuing a warrant for his arrest upon a presentation of the facts by a federal prosecutor? Nowhere in the Constitution can I find any immunity granted any elected official.

So, why don't we just charge everyone in the administration who has committed a crime, arrest, and prosecute them?

» Login or register to post comments

It's pretty sad when Nixon

Submitted by DeJaVuAllOver on October 8, 2007 - 10:37pm.

It's pretty sad when Nixon seems like a Saint. After all, he was good to labor, opened relations with China, and he DID end the Vietnam war, in spite of a certain ^%$#bag by the name of Kissinger. Bush / Cheney have destroyed everything they touch. In record time, no less. Filth. Pure, unadulterated filth.

» Login or register to post comments

There's no question

Submitted by Bluesman2007 on October 9, 2007 - 12:52am.

There's no question Bush/Cheney should be impeached. But it will never happen because the Dems simply don't have the balls to do the right thing. That's the sad bottom line. If they had any guts, they would have defunded the war in it's entirety the minute they got voted into the majority but they didn't. They whined about the secret wiretaps and what did they do? They allowed Bush to continue doing it. Why do you suppose the public doesn't bother voting any more? They see it's a futile effort.

What a huge disappointment. But none of them have the guts. None of them. Most of them (during the debates) wouldn't even commit to having the troops out in a year or two...or three. It makes me sick. And I fear if Hillary does get voted in, it will be more of the same special interest money runing the show and NOT elected officials and certainly in their interests but damned sure not ours.

If anyone thinks the government is making the decisions for our country, they're extremely naive. I doubt that anything short of a revolution will get their attention and based on the fact that the majority of our population (as indicated in other threads here) are sound asleep and could care less. It truly pains me to see what's happened to my country in the past 20 years. But all I can do is yell and scream about it and that just gets me a sore throat.

» Login or register to post comments

While visiting on the other

Submitted by SEAL on October 9, 2007 - 2:19am.

While visiting on the other side of my state this weekend, my friend pointed out something I had forgotten. Back in the 40's or 50's J. Edgar Hoover came up with a long detailed list of features on the human face that identified him or her as a criminal. Bush has every single one of them.

» Login or register to post comments

THE AMERICAN HITLER,

Submitted by thinker on October 9, 2007 - 7:24am.

THE AMERICAN HITLER, BUSH----Being new to the site, I will make my comment brief but to the point. The bottom line, no matter how one spins it, is that Bush and Cheney ARE Nazis; bush, the American Hitler, seems hellbent on killing off as many Middle Eastern people as he possibly can, he spys on American citizens like they were in a Concentration camp, he hunts down illegal Aliens (read: Mexicans only) like they were the Jews of the old Germany, and he carts them away to said gulags for "processing", he wants to start a NUCELEAR WAR with the people of Iraq.....how much more does this country have to take before we see him for what he really is? It is my opinion that in order to remove him from the Oval office, there MUST be a Civil War in this country, otherwise we all will wind up in happy camps, seperated by color or political beliefs, or some other baked-up reason that this administration can think of. And, still there are those who, like the Nazi sympathizers of Germany, support ANYTHING this madman wants to do with the country. I sincerely hope that this doesn't happen, but I fear that the world just may begin to see the evil that is America under the Hitler in the Oval office, and perhaps attack the US before we can unleash any nuclear damage to the world.

And we would've deserved it for not putting this bast*rd in check before he did any more damage.

Ein Reich, Ein Furher, Ein bush!!!!

» Login or register to post comments

1 2 next > last »

Capitol Hill Blue's policy on reader comments

Capitol Hill Blue welcomes comments on selected stories and columns or we invite you to discuss stories and other issues in our popular ReaderRant discussion forum. We do not allow our comments section to become propaganda platforms for candidates, causes or political parties and will remove any attempts at such activity. We believe in civility at Capitol Hill Blue and must insist that commenters avoid attacks on other readers, obscenities or threats. We reserve the right to moderate or remove comments that we feel violate our rules. Posts that contain racism, homophobia, bigotry or Antisemitism will be removed and the posters banned.

Scan & Fix Your PC

Fix Computer Problems Instantly.
100% Guaranteed. Free Download!
www.ErrorKiller.com

Fix PC Errors

Get A Faster, Error-Free PC. Free
Download & 100% Guaranteed!
www.Registry-Cleaner-Help.com

Internet Speed Test

Connection Speed Test Faster
Internet Connection
Internet-Connection.org

Remove Windows Errors

Repair PC Problems Instantly with

