Tom Cryer acquitted on 2 counts of tax fraud (aka income tax)

Posted by ThoughtPolice on July 13, 2007 - 14:31.

Well boys and girls, for those of you who would like to challenge that we have to pay an income tax, Lawyer Tom Cryer was just acquitted on 2 counts of tax fraud, and one being not paying his income tax.

Quite simply, he proved that the definition of Income as defined by the supreme court is NOT income from our labor, but rather things like interest and profit. You CANNOT tax a persons labor because it is a God given right that we may work to support ourselves.

If I charge you $500 to fix your toilet, what part of that is profit or capital gain? The answer: You cannot decipher. Therefore, you cannot tax something that is considered an equal exchange on labor. You fix my toilet, I give you $500. It is quite simple.

Here is a link to a 5 part series of him talking about the Income Tax. Watch it if you want to learn why YOU don't have to pay an income tax on your labor. I cannot find any articles on his acquittal yet, but when I do I'll post that as well.

How about this, instead: Why don't YOU evade your taxes, and then try your case at why you shouldn't have to pay your tax, and then write us from the federal pen on how the case went?

Believe you me, I'd love to not pay income taxes, but I'm certainly not going to stop paying taxes just because I think I shouldn't have to.

I'll look at your stuff whenever I get to a faster connection, but for now you should know I think this guy's right. As Mr. Richman says: "The income tax is immoral not because it's an income tax but because it's an income tax." The way to get rid of it is to do it honestly, by eliminating a LOT of spending. If this guy won his case, why'd Irwin Schiff lose his? (And I've met Irwin, he's a very nice, very funny convicted felon and I like him very much more than I thought I would, but IMO he's going about the tax issue in the wrong way.)

I'm waiting for my faster connection too sarc...

..couldn't take it anymore, I got to get to so many links and some that relatives and friends send that just take too long, I can't wait for mine..any day now!

...and to think it was like XMAS when it got off of DSL about a year or so ago....

Too funny
