Russia ready to produce 6 - 7 Topol-M missiles per year - Ivanov
 MOSCOW. Dec 7 (Interfax) - Russia is capable of producing six or seven Topol-M intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBM) per year, First Deputy Prime Minister Sergei Ivanov said.

"We count on the fact that we can afford six-seven missiles, with complexes, if we speak about RVSN the Russian Strategic Rocket Forces and ground strategic nuclear forces. We count on the fact that this is acceptable given real possibilities," Ivanov said at a meeting with veterans of the military and industrial commission at the Soviet Council of Ministers on Friday.

Ivanov also said that Russia will not be able to produce 30 Topol-M complexes per year, and this figure is redundant.

at least they're being financially responsible, but I'd prefer that they average 30 and 6 and produce 18 a year.

Hell, if the US can sell tridents to england, russia should sell some ss-18s, ss-19s, and ss-24s to help finance the production of the ss-27s.

the US would shit!

to china,

such as the US/Israhell launching a first strike.

Luckily the Topol-M is immune to ABM systems and unstoppable.
