MOSCOW, August 25 - Russian President Dmitry Medvedev on Monday sent a message of condolences to Kyrgyz President Kurmanbek Bakiyev in connection with the crash of a Boeing-737 plane at Bishkek's international airport Manas, the Kremlin press service reported.

The Boeing, belonging to Kyrgyz Itek Air carrier, was on a flight from Bishkek to Tehran. It took off from Manas at 18:30, Moscow time, on Sunday and several minutes later requested an emergency landing. However, it failed to reach the airport and went down five kilometres away from the landing strip, near the settlement of Dzhany-Dzher.

According to official reports, there were 90 passengers and crew on board the plane. Sixty-five bodies have been found at the site of the crash. The Kyrgyz government has set up a commission to look into the plane crash.

The jet was on its way to Tehran, the Iranian capital. Among those on board were 44 Iranian Scientists and Engineers.

A priliminary internet search yields no result for either the title or the content.

the last air crash I heard of by eureka on 26.08.2008 [04:45 ]

was the one in Madrid; haven't heard anything about any other since that one.

Have to disagree with you on that one. Even the BBC reported it. Admittedly, not for long, but it was reported. And Bulov's sources are usually reliable. But I agree that it would be nice to have a URL from the poster of the article to confirm that so many scientists and engineers were among the passengers - and why e.g. returning from a conference.

I would suspect sabotage

Who profits from this?

Sabotage likely but...

Yes, the west beast is growing desperate every minute as the realisation that it's fucked sets in in its stupid animal brain and so it's likely they'll turn to crap like this but let's make one thing perfectly clear: this changes nothing.

It would take far more to derail Iran's quest than this. It's probably possible in the west to create a traffic accident and wipe out the entire intelligence of a west nation, but unlikely anywhere else on the planet, where humans are born with brains in their heads.

Nuke programme, peaceful or otherwise, is by now understood by more than 44 people.

And the reality is there's nothing the west can do to avoid its econ demise and being encircled with nukes, satellites, and subs. In fact, all that west has done has accelerated this ominous reality for the west monkey species or whatever flawed DNA you saxonic christianic loons are and of course that goes for your whore mothers.
