Australia has its own version of AIPAC, called "AIJAC"

Here in the United States of Israel, the one group braying like some drunken jackass that's constantly urging that America fight another war for Israel is AIPAC.

"Down Under," it seems the Aussies have their own inebriated donkey that goes by the name of the Australia-Israel Jewish Affairs Council or AIJAC.

AIJAC brings to Australia such "distinguished" persons as Michael Ledeen, he of the Niger Yellowcake forgeries and Daniel Pipes, the one that is the poster child for Islamopobia.

And guess what their web site is pushing for? That's right, pushing to get Australia involved in fighting another war for Israel, with these headlines:

Australian Israel Lobby

Australia has AIJAC, which operates exactly like AIPAC does, but the Australian government isn't quite a ZOG. Members of parliament are still free to speak out against Israel. Australia is controlled by Israel indirectly - we take our orders from the White House, which is Zionist occupied.

AIJAC doesn't have the same deathgrip on government that AIPAC has in the U.S, but it still has clout and uses the same tactics as AIPAC does. Mark Liebler is National Chairman and former head of AIJAC's magazine publication, the Australia Israel Review (AIR):

As for AIR chairman and tax lawyer Mark Liebler, he is perhaps best known for inventing tax havens to get his super-wealthy clients off with little or no taxes. When ABC's 7:30 Report did a story on July 8 1996 asking "Where is the missing $800 million?" that the government had promised to collect from ultra-wealthy tax dodgers, it answered its own question, stating "All roads to Liebler--Mark Liebler." Indeed, the 1984 McCabe LaFranchi Report on Tax Avoidance named Liebler as a director of seven companies, and an advisor of many others, which went to the "bottom of the harbour" in the well-known scam of that name.

Mark Liebler is a senior partner in the specialist tax business Arnold Bloch Liebler which is based in Melbourne. It reportedly boats about 30 of Australia's top 200 wealthiest families as clients. He is also a director of Coles Myer Ltd and Jetset Tours Pty Ltd and a former president of the Australian Zionist Organisation which is directly funded by the openly racist state of Israel. He has also been allegedly associated with Israel's secret service, Mossad.

Actually

Colin Rubenstein heads AIJAC now, not Mark Liebler.
