Khudari: Israel has no right to block a vessel from crossing Palestinian waters

Palestinian Information Center

August 5, 2008

GAZA, (PIC)-- MP Jamal Al-Khudari, the head of the popular committee against the siege, told the BBC that the sailing of the anti-siege ship across Palestinian territorial waters coming from Cyprus is a Palestinian right and no one else has the right to prevent the passage of a peaceful vessel.

This came in response to statements made Tuesday by Israel's foreign ministry's spokesman Ofir Gendelman to the BBC in which he said that Israel would not allow the passage of the ship, alleging that the Oslo accords and international law ban unwanted vessels to sail across Israel's waters.

MP Khudari underlined that such international solidarity gives more hope to the Palestinian people that there is increasing qualitative sympathy with them against the unjust Israeli siege.

The lawmaker pointed out that Israel's practices against the Gaza people are in violation of international law especially the fourth Geneva convention which ensures the protection of civilians at wartime, but the Israeli occupation deliberately targets civilians with its illegal and inhuman blockade.

He stated that the world must work on pressuring Israel to open the crossings and allow freedom of movement either for medical treatment, education, or work.

For his part, Osama Qashu'a, the spokesman for the participants in the anti-siege voyage, said that the ship left a European port for Cyprus and is expected to reach there today or on Wednesday and then get prepared to head to Gaza.

Qashu'a told the head of the popular committee against the siege that Lauren Booth, sister-in-law of Middle East envoy Tony Blair, will participate in the anti-siege trip.

For her part, Greta Barlin, the head of the free Gaza movement, stated Tuesday in a telephone call with the foreign relations committee of the Hamas parliamentary bloc that the ship will set off next Saturday to Gaza in a bold step taken by European parliamentarians and jurists to break the Israeli siege.
