LAHORE: Indian and Israeli intelligence agencies have ganged up to stir trouble in Pakistan's border with Afghanistan, Pakistani intelligence agencies have alleged.

The agencies, in a report to the government quoted by Online news agency, have asked it to take "ample measures" to combat terrorism allegedly linked to Indian diplomatic missions in Afghanistan and Indian and Israeli spy outfits.

"Intelligence agencies have warned the government that Indian and Israeli missions along the Pak-Afghan border are involved in terrorist activities," the news agency said quoting reliable sources.

It added: "Certain evidence also indicates that Israeli and Indian missions are behind the recent acts of terrorism in Balochistan."

The obvious reference was to a terrible bomb blast in a mosque in the Balochistan capital Quetta this month that killed dozens of people and led some Pakistani officials to suspect an "Indian hand".

Online quoted "sources" as telling the government that India's Research and Analysis Wing (RAW) and Israeli's Mossad intelligence agency were hand in glove against Pakistan.

"The sources revealed that RAW, Mossad and Khad (the former Afghan secret service) have regrouped after 23 years and are planning to launch terrorist activities in Pakistan," it said.
