Beyond Loophole: Obama's Nuke Policy 'Change' Administration Very Clear in Threatening to Nuke Iran

by Jason Ditz, April 06, 2010

Last night it was reported that the Obama Administration was about to unveil the nation's new nuclear weapons doctrine, ostensibly backing off the more bellicose claims of the Bush Administration while slipping in a "loophole" regarding nuclear first strikes clearly aimed at Iran.

Secretary Robert Gates But today when the administration revealed the new policy, it quickly became quite clear that far from being a loophole slipped under the radar, the administration is being very explicit in its threats to nuke Iran.

Secretary of Defense Robert Gates said the policy was meant to send a strong message to Iran and North Korea that "all options are on the table in terms of how we deal with you."

Gates said Iran and North Korea were being deliberately "carved out" of the policy, as were "non-state actors." The US has repeatedly threatened to attack Iran, and it has often been speculated that the attack would include the use of tactical nuclear weapons against underground sites.

This zioIdiot Gates knows damn well that

by cosmo on 07.04.2010 [10:54 ]

if he nukes North Korea then he is at war with China, there is no question about that and yet the zioanglo sax keep on bragging and ziofarting.

Who the hell kicked their ars-- out of North Korea during the Korean war???

Oh how i would love China on their arse

by phil_s66 on 07.04.2010 [12:28 ]

and kick the shit out of them just like in 50 to 53.

North Korea can easily says it would

by djandjolic on 07.04.2010 [17:23 ]

nuke Seoul and Tokyo in case attack by US with tactical nuclear.

It seems to me

That the USA is the biggest threat when it comes to nuclear weapons as they are very willing to use them in combat. (see Baghdad airport, Japan)
