Why Did Kucinich Cave In To Obama?

I am totally shocked by what has happened.

It had appeared that Dennis Kucinich had Obama worried, rather than the other way around.

It appeared with Obama and Kucinich "discussing" Health Care on Air Force 1 no less, that the opportunity existed where Obama might possibly consider making a concession or two, just to secure Kucinich's vote.

Suddenly, and sadly, Kucinich just gave in, and got absolutely nothing back in return.

While DKos, MoveOn.bored, and mainstream Democrats all publically threatened to oppose Kucinich and get their pay back and revenge on him, it is pretty well established that Kucinich is in a district which knows him well, and that re-elects him every two years — whether or not he faces a Primary challenge. I can't see Kucinich caving just on something like empty "reelection" bluffs, hot air, and threats of this nature. Kucinich has been through all of that many times before and won the War.

Remember Dennis Kucinich is a guy who stared down the Bank Monopoly in Ohio before and won. He even faced an assassination attempt before and won. This is a man not easily shaken. So why would Kucinich suddenly be so easily intimidated now?

What threat did Obama issue? Black Ops? Did his unconstitutional wiretapping program create or fabricate some embarrassing family story or personal smear? Did Obama threaten Elizabeth Kucinich? Did Obama and Pelosi move to take away Kucinich's Subcommittee Chair (something they'd never do to Joe Lieberman)? Was Dennis Kucinich's life directly threatened?

In his announcement today, Kucinich said absolutely nothing to endorse the bill on any its so-called "merits". He even condemned the bill, even as he stated simultaneously that he must submit a yes vote. This makes no sense. Clearly, some unusual, and possibly criminal personal threat was made here.

Dennis Kucinich never just backs down and says "oh well, never mind"... It is also clear that the U.S. Senate had, and still has, 50 Senators willing to vote in favor of a public option, if the House sends it to them (which Nancy Pelosi has assured they won't at Obama's own request).

If the resistance and pressure from the Left had refused to back down, perhaps some improvements could've been made to an otherwise terribly bad, awful bill.

But nothing has changed. As Michael Moore pointed out, there is no true "ban on preexisting conditions". That talking-point is a complete falsehood. First of all, the clause does not even kick in for 4 whole years, so the Insurance Companies can deny care and eligibility all that they want to for the next 4 whole years. Secondly, when the clause does kick in, it only imposes just a very small penalty (a fine) if they reject people. So for an Insurance Company, it is going to be much cheaper for them to pay a simple $5000 fine, then it would ever be to cover a citizen with a health problem of any consequence (especially someone with a past cancer diagnosis). So, this is all just a big lie. There is no "ban on pre-existing conditions".

The other completely false talking point is that "the bill will get 30 million new people covered." It does nothing of the kind. All the bill does is to mandate that people write horribly expensive checks to the Insurance Monopolies, and become their victims and slaves — with no choices and no options. But no actual "care" is ever assured. The Insurance Companies set all the rules, and can continue to deny treatments, deny surgeries, deny tests, and even terminate your entire policy (for a small fine) if you get too expensive.

So the entire rationale for this bill that is being made by Obama, the Democrats in Congress, and even so-called "progressive" groups like MoveOn.dog is a lie.

It's a LIE folks. But, unlike others who don't even bother to read the fine print, Dennis Kucinich knows all of this.

So why did he cave?

The Jewish Wall Street cancer...

...can be only treated in places like Auschwitz.

You are correct gmmonko

by chestergimli on 20.03.2010 [01:20]

I don't believe the so-called holocaust ever took place. The Jews were holding the purse strings of the Nazi war machine and any holocaust that would have taken place would have been their direct responsibility and due to their direct orders. Just shows how much the Jews run things in this world.

In Auschwitz...

the poor jews were learning all sorts of trades they weren't used to, such as building, woodwork, etc, etc... all that was needed so that the future state of Israel could start with people with some skills other than accounting...

And as chestergimli correctly stated, the rich ones masterminded the operation...

Your nick is an apt one. You dare to express what I sometimes think in my darkest moments. I comfort myself with the thought that if it was that bad there would have been no free education, healthcare, human rights, etc... in the world I grew up in.

I agree that most, perhaps nearly all, of what we are told on the media is bullshit. But I don't think it is as well planned as some like to make out. World "statesmen" seem to be such dummies in intellectual and practical terms that it probably really is mostly cock-up not conspiracy.

It is the aftermath of the cock up that we need to watch out for - I never cease to be amazed at the extent to which people will deceive and scapegoat to "cover their backs".

Trying to be positive...

I thought I heard recently on the radio that Obama was thinking about bringing the US into the realms of the UN Declaration on Human Rights.

Could this be the concession that Kucinich was seeking?

Well I just watched that long video interview

by DarkStar on 20.03.2010 [14:57]

of Zundel with that israeli journalist the other day...

He seems to have fairly solid arguments as to what the real purpose of the concentration camps was as far as jews were concerned.

He sees Hitler as some sort of true nationalist hero though which he obviously wasn't IMO, being, to me, only another zionist puppet.

Worth watching entirely if you've got some time even though it's quite long, it's on youtube somewhere.

Interesting stuff, DarkStar...

and like you I can only go on the information that gets presented to me.

I think there is little doubt that:

1. Many in Europe who could did nothing to stop or curtail the rise of Hitler in the late 1930s, and some powerful figures in the US supported him
2. Hitler did increasingly persecute the jews (but wasn't it the communists first, and perhaps when they had been quietened he needed a new scapegoat?)
3. The Nazis were a movement, and Hitler was their figurehead
4. The Nazis were very clever, very powerful, and very rich

It therefore seems inconceivable to me that they would have just sat there in Berlin and let themselves be destroyed. I'm sure that from late 1944 onwards they were planning the next phase of their quest for world dominance.

One question, and I'm sure the evidence is out there, if there is any... did ex-Nazi scientists help the Manhattan Project in any way?

Perhaps you want to read

by DarkStar on 21.03.2010 [18:24]

Reich Of The Black Sun by Joseph Farrell.

His arguments that one of the two atomic bombs dropped on Japan by the US was actually manufactured by Nazi Germany are quite interesting.

There are other books on the topic , all referenced in Farrell's opus I think.
