

Our Advertisers Represent Some Of The Most Unique Products & Services On Earth!

www.PhysicalAddictions.com Discount Nutrition Center

rense.com

Israeli 'Art Students' Show Up At Interesting Times

From Dick Eastman

7-18-9

Look at all of the anti-American espionage Israel has been caught in. (links follow article below)

Using high speed computers with linguistic analysis that surpass the Internet they monitor everything we send back and forth and have a very long list of people whose "hate" of what they are doing threatens them. (That would be you, and all those upstream and downstream of your Internet activity. You are targeted for elimination, one way or another, but always as quietly as possible, one by one. I can list several 9-11 investigators, Clinton investigators and weather modification investigators who are now dead -- and there have been a great many active discussants who have vanished from mailboxes -- right now I am worried about Bob Taft and Wayne Blanchard.

Ask yourself why no organization and no leader has appeared who stand of the facts as you and I know them to be?

The only way we are going to correct all of the wrong we have been uncovering and communicating -- is to come in from Cyberspace and go out to our neighbors and begin teaching leading -- to go after them in the flesh. At some point we have to convert knowledge to political remedy, real people determined to realize a common publically stated purpose. ? It is collective autism to think you can, in isolation from each other, "tweet" down tyranny.

Saving reforms -- remedies, not irrational violence and not collective autism -- begin with heart to heart talks among three or more people resulting in a compact among them to commit to the application of a set of principles. Then, you rent a hall and invite the public, right here in "Kansas City."

Israeli Art Students Show Up At Interesting Times

By Wayne Madsen
Online Journal
7-18-9

(WMR) -- The way the corporate media would have it believed is that Israeli "art students" who aggressively sell cheap art door-to-door, usually at federal office buildings and the houses of government employees, are merely traveling abroad after their military service in Israel to "see the world." In fact, these "art students" are classic intelligence operatives who have appeared before and after major terrorist events and covert operations conducted by the Mossad.

WMR has learned that an Israeli art student cased the offices of an investigator of the suspicious February 26, 2004, death of Macedonian President Boris Trajkovski. Trajkovski's Beechcraft King Air 200 crashed near Stolac, Croatia, in southern Bosnia while en route to an investors' conference in Mostar.

After the crash, U.S. Ambassador to Macedonia Lawrence Butler quickly met with Nikolai Gruevski, the minister of finance in the VMRO-DPMNE government. Gruevski was an ardent supporter of denationalization, a globalist, and supporter of NATO membership for Macedonia. Prime Minister Branko Crvenkovski, although a Social Democrat, was also seen as close to the globalists.

Although Trajkovski, a Methodist minister, was also a member of the VMRO-DPMNE party he was viewed as less accommodating to international demands for privatization of state enterprises in Macedonia.

After Trajkovski and his party were killed in the plane crash, Macedonian and Bosnian authorities complained that NATO's investigation of the plane crash was secretive and the two countries' aviation authorities were kept in the dark. Many Macedonian officials were opposed to allowing the United States to investigate the crash and there was confusion about who had access to the two "black boxes" on Trajkovski's plane. NATO troops stationed in Bosnia were the first to arrive at the crash scene.

In April 2004, Crvenkovski, the pro-American, won the Macedonian presidential election. VMRO-DPMNE officials charged that there was massive ballot box stuffing in the election and refused to accept the results. The pro-U.S. Gruevski is now the prime minister of Macedonia.

Although the crash of the King Air 200 was blamed on dense fog, on February 27, 2004, the Xinhua news agency reported another scenario, one that suggests terrorism: "A suspected blast occurred on board shortly before the crashed Macedonian presidential plane went lost from radar, a local Bulgarian radio reported Thursday.. The report quoted Sasho Yordanovski, editor-in-chief of the Macedonian magazine Forum, as saying that there have been two versions of the cause of the tragic incident, which claimed the lives of the Macedonian president and other eight people. One version attributed the accident to bad weather conditions in the area early Thursday and the other suggested a technical failure of the 25-year-old aircraft . . . Besides the president, the victims include his councilors Dimka Ilkova-Boshkovic, Risto Blazhevski and Anita Lozanovska, foreign affairs official Mile Krastevski, two bodyguards Atse Bozhinovski and Borsi Velinov, and two pilots Marko Markovski and Branko Ivanovski."

WMR has learned that an independent firm hired to investigate the crash was not able to conduct its investigation because its private investigator received death threats if he went to the Balkans to conduct his probe. In addition, a young Israeli male "art student" showed up selling art sketches at the U.S. offices of the investigation firm. The Israeli arrogantly entered three office rooms in the facility without invitation. When asked by office workers what he was doing, he abruptly left. No other offices in the vicinity received a visit from the art student. It was later discovered that the office's surveillance camera had been disabled by an intruder.

The reported involvement of Israeli security advisers in the coup d'état in Honduras also puts into another perspective the following report from the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) on the espionage activities involving Israeli art students in the months prior to 9/11:

"Tegucigalpa Country Office

"On February 28, 2001, a couple attempted to sell at the residence of the Tegucigalpa Country Attaché. His neighbors advised the Country Attaché that a man and a woman in a red car were trying to open the CA's gate. The neighbors asked the couple what they wanted and advised them that no one was home. The couple left the area. No identification information was revealed."

Some FBI counter-intelligence agents are painfully aware that Israelis traveling on tourist visas in the United States and who mask their true intelligence functions as art students, movers, and mall kiosk vendors pose a significant hostile intelligence threat to U.S. national security. However, the FBI agents are also aware that any push to pursue Israeli agents will result in career-ending personnel actions taken as a result of pressure from the all-too-powerful Israel Lobby in the United States.

---

Using high speed computers with linguistic analysis that surpass the Internet they monitor everything we send back and forth and have a very long list of people whose "hate" of what they are doing threatens them. (That would be you, and all those upstream and downstream of your Internet activity. You are targeted for elimination, one way or another, but always as quietly as possible, one by one. I can list several 9-11 investigators, Clinton investigators and weather modification investigators who are now dead -- and there have been a great many active discussants who have vanished from mailboxes -- right now I am worried about Bob Taft and Wayne Blanchard.

The only way we are going to correct all of the wrong we have been uncovering and communicating -- is to come in from Cyberspace and go out to our neighbors and begin teaching leading -- to go after them in the flesh. No one is going to "tweet" to At some point we have to convert knowledge to political remedy, real people determined to realize a common publically stated purpose.

They are coming for you -- let us join together and find a way to stop them.

Israeli 'Art Students' Show Up At Interesting Times

From Dick Eastman

7-18-9

Look at all of the anti-American espionage Israel has been caught in. (links follow article below)

Using high speed computers with linguistic analysis that surpass the Internet they monitor everything we send back and forth and have a very long list of people whose "hate" of what they are doing threatens them. (That would be you, and all those upstream and downstream of your Internet activity. You are targeted for elimination, one way or another, but always as quietly as possible, one by one. I can list several 9-11 investigators,

Clinton investigators and weather modification investigators who are now dead -- and there have been a great many active discussants who have vanished from mailboxes -- right now I am worried about Bob Taft and Wayne Blanchard.

Ask yourself why no organization and no leader has appeared who stand of the facts as you and I know them to be?

The only way we are going to correct all of the wrong we have been uncovering and communicating -- is to come in from Cyberspace and go out to our neighbors and begin teaching leading -- to go after them in the flesh. At some point we have to convert knowledge to political remedy, real people determined to realize a common publically stated purpose.

It is collective autism to think you can, in isolation from each other, "tweet" down tyranny.

Saving reforms -- remedies, not irrational violence and not collective autism -- begin with heart to heart talks among three or more people resulting in a compact among them to commit to the application of a set of principles. Then, you rent a hall and invite the public, right here in "Kansas City."

Israeli Art Students Show Up At Interesting Times

By Wayne Madsen

Online Journal
7-18-9

(<http://www.waynemadsenreport.com/>WMR) -- The way the corporate media would have it believed is that Israeli "art students" who aggressively sell cheap art door-to-door, usually at federal office buildings and the houses of government employees, are merely traveling abroad after their military service in Israel to "see the world." In fact, these "art students" are classic intelligence operatives who have appeared before and after major terrorist events and covert operations conducted by the Mossad.

WMR has learned that an Israeli art student cased the offices of an investigator of the suspicious February 26, 2004, death of Macedonian President Boris Trajkovski. Trajkovski's Beechcraft King Air 200 crashed near Stolac, Croatia, in southern Bosnia while en route to an investors' conference in Mostar.

After the crash, U.S. Ambassador to Macedonia Lawrence Butler quickly met with Nikolai Gruevski, the minister of finance in the VMRO-DPMNE government. Gruevski was an ardent supporter of denationalization, a globalist, and supporter of NATO membership for Macedonia. Prime Minister Branko Crvenkovski, although a Social Democrat, was also seen as close to the globalists.

Although Trajkovski, a Methodist minister, was also a member of the VMRO-DPMNE party he was viewed as less accommodating to international demands for privatization of state enterprises in Macedonia.

After Trajkovski and his party were killed in the plane crash, Macedonian and Bosnian authorities complained that NATO's investigation of the plane crash was secretive and the two countries' aviation authorities were kept in the dark. Many Macedonian officials were opposed to allowing the United States to investigate the crash and there was confusion about who had access to the two "black boxes" on Trajkovski's plane. NATO troops stationed in Bosnia were the first to arrive at the crash scene.

In April 2004, Crvenkovski, the pro-American, won the Macedonian presidential election. VMRO-DPMNE officials charged that there was massive ballot box stuffing in the election and refused to accept the results. The pro-U.S. Gruevski is now the prime minister of Macedonia.

Although the crash of the King Air 200 was blamed on dense fog, on February 27, 2004, the Xinhua news agency reported another scenario, one that suggests terrorism: "A suspected blast occurred on board shortly before the crashed Macedonian presidential plane went lost from radar, a local Bulgarian radio reported Thursday.. The report quoted Sasho Yordanovski, editor-in-chief of the Macedonian magazine Forum, as saying that there have been two versions of the cause of the tragic incident, which claimed the lives of the Macedonian president and other eight people. One version attributed the accident to bad weather conditions in the area early Thursday and the other suggested a technical failure of the 25-year-old aircraft . . . Besides the president, the victims include his councilors Dimka Ilkova-Boshkovic, Risto Blazhevski and Anita Lozanovska, foreign affairs official Mile Krastevski, two bodyguards Atse Bozhinovski and Borsi Velinov, and two pilots Marko Markovski and Branko Ivanovski."

WMR has learned that an independent firm hired to investigate the crash was not able to conduct its investigation because its private investigator received death threats if he went to the Balkans to conduct his probe. In addition, a young Israeli male "art student" showed up selling art sketches at the U.S. offices of the investigation firm. The Israeli arrogantly entered three office rooms in the facility without invitation. When asked by office workers what he was doing, he abruptly left. No other offices in the vicinity received a visit from the art student. It was later discovered that the office's surveillance camera had been disabled by an intruder.

The reported involvement of Israeli security advisers in the coup d'état in Honduras also puts into another perspective the following report from the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) on the espionage activities involving Israeli art students in the months prior to 9/11:

"Tegucigalpa Country Office

"On February 28, 2001, a couple attempted to sell at the residence of the Tegucigalpa Country Attaché. His neighbors advised the Country Attaché that a man and a woman in a red car were trying to open the CA's gate. The neighbors asked the couple what they wanted and advised them that no one was home. The couple left the area. No identification information was revealed."

Some FBI counter-intelligence agents are painfully aware that Israelis traveling on tourist visas in the United States and who mask their true intelligence functions as art students, movers, and mall kiosk vendors pose a significant hostile intelligence threat to U.S. national security. However, the FBI agents are also aware that any push to pursue Israeli agents will result in career-ending personnel actions taken as a result of pressure from the all-too-powerful Israel Lobby in the United States.

---

Using high speed computers with linguistic analysis that surpass the Internet they monitor everything we send back and forth and have a very long list of people whose "hate" of what they are doing threatens them. (That would be you, and all those upstream and downstream of your Internet activity. You are targeted for elimination, one way or another, but always as quietly as possible, one by one. I can list several 9-11 investigators,

Clinton investigators and weather modification investigators who are now dead -- and there have been a great many active discussants who have vanished from mailboxes -- right now I am worried about Bob Taft and Wayne Blanchard.

The only way we are going to correct all of the wrong we have been uncovering and communicating -- is to come in from Cyberspace and go out to our neighbors and begin teaching leading -- to go after them in the flesh. No one is going to "tweet" to At some point we have to convert knowledge to political remedy, real people determined to realize a common publically stated purpose.

They are coming for you -- let us join together and find a way to stop them.

Disclaimer

Donate to Rense.com Support Free And Honest Journalism At Rense.com	Email Article	Subscribe To RenseRadio! Enormous Online Archives, MP3s, Streaming Audio Files, Highest Quality Live Programs
--	--------------------------	---

MainPage

<http://www.rense.com>

This Site Served by TheHostPros