Former Pakistani Army General Mirza Aslam Beig claims the US Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) has distributed 400 million dollars inside Iran to evoke a revolution.

In a phone interview with the Pashto Radio on Monday, General Beig said that there is undisputed intelligence proving the US interference in Iran.

"The documents prove that the CIA spent 400 million dollars inside Iran to prop up a colorful-hollow revolution following the election," he added.

Pakistan's former army chief of joint staff went on to say that the US wanted to disturb the situation in Iran and bring to power a pro-US government.

He congratulated President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad on his re-election for the second term in office, noting that Pakistan relationship with Iran has improved during his 4-year presidency.

"Ahmadinejad's re-election is a decisive point in regional policy and if Pakistan and Afghanistan unite with Iran, the US has to leave the area, especially the occupied Afghanistan," Beig added.

Its not the Job of the state to advise its citizen which clothes to wear, how to cover face ,which channels to watch. These are common interferences in lives of Iranian people by the clergy. Iran has an impotent democracy.People do vote but their verdict is subservient to the clergy.If their is an internal unrest only then it could be exploited by CIA. If people are happy, no one can penetrate.

Irans rich children dont have jobs but have everything provided by their rich families such as a degree, a marriage... This government also angered many prestigious and rich Iranian families along with some big cities because they have spent money on other regions ignored by previous goverments. Did Mousavi ever care about these passionate children running around the streets?
