More Saudi pussies captured, killed - Jordanians join battle: Houthis Not Chicken Feed (II)

Article SHAME ON YEMEN, SAUDIS, JORDAN.

After inflicting heavy losses on both the San'aa Yemeni regime and Saudi armies, now the Houthis are facing Jordanian commandos in addition. The Jordanian military intervention was requested by defeated Saudi Arabia.

Saudi forces in desperation are now using F16's and White Phosphorus bombs against Yemeni towns and villages, just like the Israelis in Gaza.

Don't believe any of the propaganda coming out of the Qattar, United Arab Emirates, Jordan, San'aa Yemen, and Saudi Arabia: That Houthis "infiltrate" the Saudi border from Yemen (they live there, it is their home); That they are being armed by Iran (they are armed by captured weapons); That they are drug smugglers (they are farmers and shepherds fed up with petty dictator and ZioWest collaborator Yemeni president Aly Abdullah Saleh).

These regimes are puppets to the invaders of Palestine, Iraq, Afghanistan, Somalia, Darfur, and the Red Sea. Both Jordan and UAE have troops in Afghanistan. Qattar has provided the largest American Base, and Yemen is providing safe haven for the ZioWest Armada in the Red Sea.

The Houthi battle cry is:

Death to Amerika!
Death to Israel!
Fuck the Jews!

The Houthis are fighting a popular battle against the ZioWest puppet regimes. People in the Arab and Moslem street are voicing more and more support as the plight of the Houthis becomes better known.

Muktada Al-Sadr

In his first recent public appearance, even Muktada Al-Sadr, leader of Iraq's Al-Mahdi Shiite Army, has voiced concern and support for the Houthis. He has alleged that U.S. and Yemeni forces are widely violating human rights against Houthi loyalists, calling on the U.N., the Arab League and the Islamic Conference Organization to intervene and stop such violations, maintaining that both the U.S. and Yemen are using banned weapons.

Likewise, in a meeting with Al-Jazeera satellite channel at the end of the last week, Hassan Al-Zarkawi, director of the Beirut-based Al-Sadr office, denounced what he described as injustices against Houthi followers in Yemen, assuring that the Sadr sect supports Houthi rebels in Sa'ada.

Three Saudi soldiers killed on Yemen border - report

Jordan Times: Monday, November 23rd, 2009, 10:38 am Amman Time

DUBAI (AFP) - Three Saudi soldiers were killed and an unidentified number of others wounded in an attack by Yemeni "infiltrators", a Saudi newspaper reported on Sunday.

The soldiers died on Saturday in an attack by "dozens" of infiltrators in the Jabal Rumayh area on the Yemeni border, the daily Asharq Al Awsat said, quoting military sources.

The sources said Saudi forces "inflicted heavy losses in equipment and lives on the infiltrators", according to the report.

The dead soldiers were identified as Majid Haef Al Shami, Faisal Abdel Rahim Al Khaybri and Mohammad Attiya Al Zahrani, the Saudi-owned newspaper reported. The wounded were taken to the King Fahed Central Hospital.

Asharq Al Awsat also quoted medical sources at the Samatah Hospital as saying it received "patients" from the front.

Yemeni Shiite rebels, known as Zaidis or Houthis, said in a statement late on Saturday that they had repelled two Saudi attacks into Yemen.

"Today, two incursions into Yemen by the Saudi army were repulsed near the Jabal Rumayh region, and a number of aggressors were killed" and others captured, the statement said.

The attacks came after Saudi Arabia carried out the heaviest aircraft and missile bombardment since its entry into the conflict, it said, adding Hidan, Razah, Shedah and Malahidhd were bombed.

"We call on Saudi Arabia to stop its unjustified aggression on Yemen," the statement said.

Asharq Al Awsat quoted military sources as saying Saudi aircraft continued to carry out strikes in the Jabal Rumayh region aimed at destroying equipment the Houthis had captured from Yemen and were now using against Saudi Arabia.

The sources said the Saudi navy foiled a Houthi "plot" to seize the northern Yemeni port of Midi.

Sources referred to what they said were Houthi slogans, such as "Ramadan in Midi" and "Eid Al Fitr in Midi," as evidence of the rebels' intentions regarding the port, the report said.

On November 15, a Saudi government adviser told AFP the Saudi navy had been closely patrolling the Yemeni port of Midi for several days aiming to cut off a key supply route for the rebels.

Saudi forces entered the conflict on November 4 after rebels killed a border guard and occupied two small villages inside Saudi territory the previous day.

UN children's agency UNICEF says 240 Saudi villages have been evacuated and 50 schools closed to keep local residents away from the fighting.

Riyadh has said the air strikes and shelling will continue until the rebels withdraw dozens of kilometres from the Saudi-Yemeni border.

Saudi Arabian Soldiers captured by Al-Houthis

23 Nov 2009 8:01

Source : Islam Times

Al-Houthi forces have been successful in capturing a number of Saudi Arabian soldiers in Yemen.

The Al-Houthi Movement announced that a few (not specifying the number) Saudi Arabian soldiers were captured during battles taking place in the northern region of Jabal al-Ramih. The statement also mentioned that the Al-Houthi soldiers were able to take military equipment and weapons from the Saudi Arabian forces as well.

The people of northern Yemen are fighting against their government because the government does not pay any attention to their living conditions and does not allow them to take part in politics or in the society.

Jordanian commandos join war on Houthi fighters

Sat, 21 Nov 2009 16:30:03 GMT

Jordanian commandos have recently joined the state-led and Saudi-aided offensives against the Houthis fighters in northwestern Yemen, reports say.

The Arab-language daily Sada-Najdhejaz reported on Saturday that the commandos, enlisted with the Jordanian military's crack forces, had joined the fight in the northern Mount Al-Dukhan.

The military contribution was enabled by Saudi Arabia, which received the forces at its Tabuk Military Base a few days before airlifting them to the northern Yemeni territories, the newspaper added.

The auxiliary units reportedly incurred heavy losses in their struggle against the Shia Houthi fighters.

Foreign troops joined hands with Sana'a after Yemeni forces failed to produce result through Operation Scorched Earth, which was launched in August.

This is while sources say that the Yemeni troops are divided over the conflict, with some not having a motive to fight the Houthis. According to the sources a large number of soldiers in the Yemeni military are Zaidi Shias, hence sympathetic toward the Houthis.

The Yemenis are

by RoyDubai on 24.11.2009 [02:52]

very tough people and by accounts these Houthis are even tougher. The capture of Saudi soldiers and vehicles seems reminiscent of the 67 war when the Israelis found 30 or so brand new Panhard armoured cars abandoned by their Saudi crews in the Golan. Indiscriminate bombing of Houthi villages from 15000 ft seems to be a tactic the Saudis have adopted from their friends in Israel who regularly do the same on Gaza and in S.Lebanon. The entry of Jordanian forces into this is not a good thing. The government of President Abdullah Saleh will be worried that other Yemeni nationalist resistance groups will draw strength from the Houthis. You may see a clampdown in the main towns and cities.

Long have I wondered what my grandfather experienced in war firing artillery at Vimy. Getting another headache must be all the explosive residue in my DNA molecules. Love watching those big guns that shake the ground and kick up pieces of paper 100 feet away. Those new high tech discarding-sabot rounds with camera in nose cost $35,000 each. Bizarro world. Not chicken feed, men of steel indeed.

Yes, the media has been very silent about this. But then, nothing is really being told about what is going on in the Red Sea region. Somalia, Eritrea, Yemen, Bab Al Mindab (where the French were just given a Naval base) where warships of every nationality are located: India, China, Iran, Egypt, Russia, Germany, Saudi Arabia, etc. Pirates?

And I suspect that is why NileSat (Egypt) and ArabSat (Saudi Arabia) shut down the Arabic channel Al Alam TV News (Iran). They switched to another SAT but the shutdown just increased their audience, as you can imagine. You can watch Al Alam (Arabic) live here:

by informatron- on 24.11.2009 [18:55]

Developments in the past 48 hours: Saudi and most establishment media are repeating the lies that the Huthies are attacking inside Saudi Arabia:

First: Secret Saudi documents Captured previously show clearly the orders given to their forces to attack INSIDE the borders of Yemen (video of documents):
h http://www.liveleak.com/view?i=aa1_1258296125

Second: The Houthi fighters say that Saudi Arabian forces along with Yemeni military have carried out a fresh ground incursion on northern parts of the country after suffering a heavy defeat on ground.

The attacks on Tuesday were taking place in the border districts of Malahiz and Shada provinces. In the incursion, the Saudi army had been using all kind of weapons; land, air, tanks, and artillery, they added.

The Houthis have already said they inflicted heavy damage on Saudi troops.

"Saudi troops attacked Yemen from several positions on Monday, but was stopped short by night from two of those positions," the fighters' leader Abdul Malik al-Houthi's office announced in a Tuesday statement according to a translation of the Arabic text.

"The third offensive dragged on into the night but eventually our fighters were able to block the attack and inflict heavy losses on the enemy," it added.

h <http://presstv.com/detail.aspx?id=112047§ionid=351020206>

According to Al Manar TV (Hisbullah), Saudi Ministry of defense admitted the loss of a number of Saudi invaders parachute soldiers.

Update

by informatron- on 25.11.2009 [12:06]

Saudi Arabia now accuses the Houthis of being Al CIADA affiliates, using the same methods and tactics of Al CIADA.

Houthi spokesman Mohamad Abd Al Sallam, speaking live on Al Alam TV from Saada (Yemen) on the 23 November, denied the accusation categorically, saying in effect that Saudi Arabia was just mouthing American propagandist lies against the Houthis.

Abd Al Sallam said that it is widely known, according to many thinkers, political analysts, and military strategists, that Al CAIDA is an American invention of a fictitious organization. A tool, to serve the interests of the Zio West to attack Islam and Moslems.

Abd Al Sallam continued: Under this lie of AL CIADA, the Americans constructed the "war on terror" under which slogan much blood has been spilled and many moslem towns and cities have been destroyed, and moslems everywhere have been placed under siege in every aspect of their lives, including religious and economic, in addition, the Americans have tried to picture the moslem world, contrary to its true nature, as blood thirsty and violent. There is no such thing as Al CIADA, it merely an intelligence agency tool, and we are not dupes to believe such fiction. Our struggle is one of self defense against agressors on our homes.

The Houthis are fighting this sixth war of self defense against an unjust socio-economic, and political situation brought about by a corrupt and tyrannical central government of Yemen. That Saudi Arabia had no business in attacking them, the Houthis being a very significant proportion of the Yemeni population.

Interesting to note that when the Saudi interlocutor heard these words by the Houthi spokesman, the Saudi pussy said: "How can we rely on this illiterate man to tell us that Al CAIDA does not exist?"

There you have it. It is all on YouTube (Arabic) for those of you who can follow, very worthwhile to see this exchange in full:

Part one:

h <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=DaYUGGLQ-Zg>

Part two:
h <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=cBhTlwQf1-A>

Meanwhile:

Saudis continue with their offensive and advance into Yemeni territory but Huthis are interdicting them destroying two tanks.

Today Huthi spokesman Abdul-Malik said: "The fighting is still continuing." The Saudi army continued its rocket bombardment and raids throughout Tuesday evening after the failure of his previous attempts to land encroachment . He said that Saudi security forces fired around 600 rockets, 15 air raids targeted districts and Al mlahiz Haydan, Shada, Razeh, and Saqyn, northern Yemen.

The Houthis accused the Yemeni army in collaborating in the Saudi army offensive inside Yemen, with missile strikes and artillery strikes, and that the ground forces of the Yemeni army participated in the march along side Saudi army.

The Houthis have captured again a number of Saudi soldiers.

Elsewhere, in the capital Ankara, the Turkish Human Rights Society organized a protest outside the embassy in Saudi Arabia. The demonstrators condemned the war by Saudi Arabia in the against the Yemeni people of Saada province, and vowed to pursue the Saudi regime before international tribunals. Protesters have also threatened mass protests if the Saudi forces did not stop the killing of innocent people and civilians.

"SAUDI ARABIA has unquestionable sovereignty rights over its territory and can protect its nationals in any way it deems fit. This is why the Gulf, the Muslim region and the world supports it. Saudi Arabia, based on this theory, protected itself and preserved its security against the mercenary Houthis, who infiltrated its southern border. Although the evil intentions of the foreign-sponsored Houthi insurgency have been unveiled, it is important that all countries which support Iran, especially Syria, speak out against the Iranian use of the Houthi tools to attack Saudi Arabia.

Leaked documents: CIA and MI6 fear that Somalia and Yemen could be the new al-Qaeda headquarters
By Chris Hughes on Nov 25, 09 10:30 AM in WESTERN intelligence chiefs fear young radicalised muslims will head to Yemen and Somalia to newly-established al-Qaeda terror camps.

A leaked US military intelligence reports reveals the two states are being targeted by al-Qaeda leaders looking for alternatives to Afghanistan.

Fleeing Pakistani terrorists who have been fighting in Afghanistan are already flocking to poverty-stricken Yemen to set up training camps, already according to the report.

The American CIA and British MI6 spy agencies fear Osama bin-Laden's henchmen hope to set up a network of terror-academies there.

This is a direct consequence of the succeses of NATO soldiers - including 9,000 Brits in Helmand who have made it too difficult for Islamic fighters to move around in any great number in Afghanistan.

US spies in Yemen- the poorest of the Arab countries - believe Al Qaeda's inner-circle hopes to relocate its main bases there.

British MI5 has in the past been aware of several thousand UK radical Muslims travelling to Pakistan and Afghanistan to train with al-Qaeda.

But now US intelligence agencies fear a switch to Somalia and Yemen - areas where it is far less easy to monitor what radicals do there.

In recent weeks President Obama's senior counter-terrorism adviser John Brennan - a former CIA spook for 25 years has been to Yemen.

He carried a personal message from Obama to Yemeni President Ali Abdallah Saleh, promising him US help in tackling terrorism.

How dangerous, a Saudi /US proxy war vs Houthis/iran linked war.

How convenient for those who "sit in the stadiums and watch with glee" as their enemies fight each other.

the history of the "royal families" known previously as just Sheiks is filled with aligning with western imperial powers(who themselves used "royal" as a label to justify unquestioned leadership by the incompetent) to gain their own power.Even if it meant imposing Wahabism upon their people (but they themselves??) and marry into the powerful elite via maranos like connections from turkey.Cosmos do you have a name for that female??

Alas, the usual pawns in these deadly games suffer. In Somalia the Us quickly came to Ethiopian (note the same kind of leadership conections) assistance just as I suspect it will to the Saudi.

If Iran 'snavy is inbetween it will be an escalation.

Consider.

Egypt Kuwait: Jarab

by informatron- on 26.11.2009 [16:10]

Wednesday 11 November 2009 08:32

Hosni Mubarak had a conversation with King Abdullah bin Abd al-Aziz examining the war between the Yemeni forces and the Al-Houthi Movement in Saada. Mubarak emphasized Egypt's support for Saudi Arabia in this war.

Kuwait also officially announced that its soldiers are prepared to cooperate with the Saudi Arabian forces in the war against the Al-Houthi Movement.

Shaykh Sabbah al-Ahmad, Kuwait's Prime Minister, emphasized his country's support of Saudi Arabia in the war against the Shia in Yemen in a letter addressed to King Abdullah bin Abd al-Aziz. This letter reached Saudi Arabia's king through Shaykh Jabir al-Mubarak, Kuwait's Defense Minister who recently visited Saudi Arabia.

He also stated: "Any invasion of Saudi Arabia is the same as an invasion of Kuwait."

Jedda drowning

by Lima-P on 26.11.2009 [17:33]

in flood water, Dubai drowning in its debts. Wrath of God, as informatron asks? Or just well-deserved punishment for human failure?
