Israeli Ambassador Miriam Ziv hailed this as a "positive" step for ties between the two countries, both diplomatic and cultural.

"It proves the importance the Israeli foreign ministry places on our relations with Canada. The bigger staff will enable us to do more," Ziv told The CJN last week from her office at the Israeli Embassy in Ottawa.

9. Canada Votes Alone for Israel

Only one out of 47 nations on UN rights panel to refuse to condemn military offensive in Gaza

Jan 13, 2009

OTTAWA—Canada stood alone before a United Nations human rights council yesterday, the only one among 47 nations to oppose a motion condemning the Israeli military offensive in Gaza.

The vote before the Geneva-based body shows the Stephen Harper government has abandoned a more even-handed approach to the Middle East in favour of unalloyed support of Israel, according to some long-time observers.

Thirty-three countries voted for the strongly worded motion, which called for an investigation into “grave” human rights violations by Israeli forces, while 13 nations, mostly European, abstained.

8. British MP, Broadcaster and peace activist George Galloway banned from Canada for bringing food and medicine to Palestinians

Immigration Minister Jason Kenney cites security concerns

21 March 2009

George Galloway, a British member of Parliament, has been banned from Canada on security grounds, the country’s immigration service has confirmed.

Mr Galloway, a Respect Party MP, said the ban was “idiotic” and he would look at legal action to try to overturn it.

British media reported the decision was due to his views on Afghanistan and the presence of Canadian troops there.

7. Canada Boycotts Anti-Racism Conference, then Boycotts UN Speech

...the decision was jointly made by Israel and the USA through senior officials of the U.S. State Department and the Israeli Foreign Ministry after the issue was discussed in talks between U.S. Secretary of State, Condoleezza Rice, and Israeli Foreign Minister, Tzipi Livni.

Ahmadinejad's 'repugnant' remarks behind boycott: PM

September 23, 2009

Prime Minister Stephen Harper said Mahmoud Ahmadinejad's "absolutely repugnant remarks" about the Holocaust are reason enough for Canadian officials to boycott the Iranian president's address to the UN General Assembly.

6. Ottawa to spend $1M on Holocaust task force

"The timing of the task force and conference are critical... Canadian universities have become a hotbed of anti-Semitism"-Frank Dimant, Bnai B'rith also currently, the Asper's Holocaust Museum is being built in Winnipeg at a projected (and rising) cost of $310 million - most of it taxpayer funded

June 01, 2009

Canada will contribute nearly $1 million to create a three-year national task force to study and educate Canadians about the Holocaust.

Immigration Minister Jason Kenney announced the task force in Toronto this morning at the start of a conference on the Holocaust that marks the 70th anniversary of Canada's refusal to let hundreds of Jewish refugees aboard the St. Louis from Hamburg, Germany dock in Canada. The ship was forced to return to Europe and the refugees dispersed to various countries. Many would not survive World War II.

5. All Federal political leaders pledge allegiance to Bronfman's Israel Lobby group

Harper, Ignatieff, Layton and May at 29th plenary assembly of the CJC

the Pro-Israeli Zionist billionaires control ALL parties, not just the Conservatives

4. Canada becomes Israel at the UN

<http://electronicintifada.net/v2/article10291.shtml>

12 February 2009

Canadian Prime Minister Steven Harper's government publicly supported Israel's brutal assault on Gaza and voted alone at the UN Human Rights Committee in defense of Israel's actions three weeks ago. Now Canada has taken over Israeli diplomacy. Literally.

In solidarity with Gaza, Venezuela expelled Israel's ambassador at the start of the bombardment and then broke off all diplomatic relations two weeks later. Israel need not worry since Ottawa plans to help out. On 29 January, The Jerusalem Post reported that "Israel's interests in Caracas will now be represented by the Canadian Embassy." This means Canada is officially Israel, at least in Venezuela.

3. Conservatives Mail out Pro-Israel Pamphlets to Jewish Areas

Nov 19, 2009

Canada's Conservative Party, led by Prime Minister Stephen Harper, has continued trying to win more votes from the 350,000-strong Jewish community by ever-so-delicately implying that its rivals are not big fans of Israel. (As in the United States, Canada's relatively small Jewish population is disproportionately powerful. Canadian Jews tend to favor the Liberal Party, but there has been the inkling of a trend in the other direction.) Previously, Conservatives sent mailers to strategic neighborhoods asserting that several Liberal MPs attended the anti-Zionist Durban I conference (several did, though some claim this was to defend Israel); that Liberal Party leader Michael Ignatieff accused Israel of "war crimes" (he did, and has apologized); and that the party is soft on Hamas and Hezbollah (debatable at the very best)..

2. Canadian Parliamentary Coalition to Combat Antisemitism

Stealth plan to criminalize criticism of Israel

Dec 06 2009

One of the most recent - but almost totally unreported - developments in Canada is something called the Canadian Parliamentary Coalition to Combat Antisemitism (CPCCA). It is not an official parliamentary body but is a multi-party, voluntary association of 13 MPs. It is currently holding an inquiry into anti-semitism because, it says, "The extent and severity of anti-semitism is widely regarded as at its worst level since the end of the Second World War.

1. Canadian government says Christian churches anti-Semitic

Anglican, Catholic, and United Churches

<http://www.thestar.com/news/canada/article/740925-fury-grow...>

Dec 19 2009

OTTAWA – The United Church of Canada and other Canadian churches are demanding Prime Minister Stephen Harper explain why one of his cabinet ministers accused them of being anti-Semitic.

The United, Catholic and Anglican churches are part of KAIROS, an aid group that was shocked to hear Immigration Minister Jason Kenney say its funding was lifted as part of the Conservatives' effort to cut off anti-Semitic organizations.

I'm surprised you left out that recent flap about how the Conservatives spent millions of taxpayer dollars to print flyers sucking up to jewish voters.

Other than that, pretty good rundown of the loxist control of Canada.

The eye opener for me was last Feb or March when the universities tore down posters of a Carlos Latuff poster for the annual anti semitism week put on by students. It was not one of his in your face POW posters. And then threatened students with expulsions if they spoke out or ... I forget a lot of the details now. But I remember students from York were heavily fined for carrying on with the week. I also remember researching the Deans of two of the institutions and found on line tours they had taken to Israel. To me that was when I first began to learn how deeply entrenched Canada was in this crap. Then finding a dozen plus photos of Half-ass Harper surrounded by the Chabad Lubavitch, lighting their candles, etc.

No one remembers the incident last year when he made a mistake in a Catholic Mass and put the "host" or wafer in his pocket and it raised such a furor? He made some weak excuse that showed he knew less about Western religion than Judaism. Because as a Jew, to eat such a thing, participate so completely in such a criminal and pagan ritual (by Zionist standards) would be a very very bad message to send to his owners of the fanatical Chabad.

Also not making the list but was BIG bad press, was the treatment of Amy Goodman at the border a few weeks ago and then the limitations made to her visit here. Amy is high profile so this was no small deal; it resulted in was major bad press. Medea Benjamin of CODEPINK is just down and out forbidden into Canada. We are becoming known as a police state around the world.

Perhaps Harper, like so many other top level politicians, is Jewish but passes himself off as goyim. Jason Kenney has too much power for a worm in human shape.

I know you had to keep the list to a reasonable number Anarchore, but there is so much damage. The education fund is also a tie for #1, because it goes straight into our children. Gets them young.

There is nothing like a lying old Jew with a group of 6 or 7 year olds letting them hold a bar of soap made from his Uncle Daffid. A kid that age remembers the delightful scary shiver forever and the Holowhatzit is imprinted into his little psyche permanently.

Meanwhile, 20 years ago even Israel announced the soap myth was just that, a myth. But the old man still uses this lie to win over our young. Last night at a small dinner party of young folks (mid to late 20's) I cannot remember what I said, was not a heavy moment, but I heard my daughter whisper to her friend, "she tends to be a bit anti Semitic at times". Oddly the young man I was speaking with "gets it" or we would not have been having that discussion. But that brought home how strongly our kids have been pulled into it. I mean It is a waste of money because in school they are already made so "holocaust sensitive".

OK, rambled on enough. Time to go and get some stuff done! Oh I knew I had left something out. The Royal Ontario Museum last year had a showing of the Dead Sea Scrolls. These were found by a Palestinian child in the West Bank. But everything was to the credit of the Jews. No mention was made of anything Palestinian, the land was all Jewish, the finder "an illiterate shepherd boy".

Nor was mention made that the scrolls on display had been stolen from the Palestinian Museum. The Palestinian Minister of Culture was brushed off and the museum staff were amazingly rude and arrogant to those who wished to make the display more inclusive. Of course, the Tanenbaum family who were responsible for Canada Park, would be behind this as well.
