

Goon Squad

Monday, February 16, 2009

Who's Behind the THEFT of $550 Billion from American Banks?

On September 15, 2008, $550 BILLION disappears from the American banking system in a matter of hours and Congress is choosing to NOT look into this theft? Why?

Let's narrow down the suspects. We can leave Iran, Syria and North Korea off the list, since if any of those states had been in on this heist, Bush would have went on national TV, addressing the nation about the actions of one of these "rogue" nations and said he had directed the Pentagon to take any and all necessary actions to recover the purloined loot.

That has not happened, either with Bush or Obama.

So, what other nation would have the balls to steal that much money from Americans?

It would be a nation that attacked one of our ships in broad daylight, firing rockets, large caliber machine guns and dropping napalm on the ship in a brutal and savage attack that lasted 75 minutes.

They would be so sadistic that they would machine gun survivors trying to escape, even shooting up the life rafts.

An attack that murdered 34 of our people.

It would be a country that has sent an army of spies to steal sensitive military info and financial data from the USA, at the same time, always proclaiming that the USA is their "best friend."

A country that, thru the use of tremendous amounts of money and threats, has taken over the US Congress.

A country that sent some of its intelligence operatives to a New Jersey state park on 9/11, to "document" that tragic event.

A country who's leaders said that 9/11 was very good for them.

A country that is well known for its use of "false-flag" attacks against its allies, to get those allies enraged and fighting wars for that nation.

A country that is so paranoid, it thinks the entire world is out to get them, and has threatened to nuke the entire world, using their "Sampson" option.

Hmmm, wonder what nation could be so depraved, sadistic and immoral? Any guesses?

At 2 minutes, 20 seconds into this C-Span video clip, Rep. Paul Kanjorski of Pennsylvania explains how the Federal Reserve told Congress members about a “tremendous draw-down of money market accounts in the United States, to the tune of $550 billion dollars.” According to Kanjorski, this electronic transfer occurred over the period of an hour or two.

Here is a transcript of what Kanjorski says in the video:

On Thursday Sept 15, 2008 at roughly 11 AM The Federal Reserve noticed a tremendous draw down of money market accounts in the USA to the tune of $550 Billion dollars in a matter of an hour or two.

It was an electronic run on the banks.

The treasury intervened but had they not closed down the accounts they estimated that by 2 PM that afternoon. Within 3 hours. $5.5 Trillion would have been withdrawn and collapsed and within 24 hours the world economy.

Posted by Greg Bacon at 5:06 AM

Labels: Corruption

7 comments:

Reverend Richie said...

There could be only one nation with the balls to do something of this nature, that would

