The rich are different than us. It never fails to amaze me how people with more than they need, or will ever spend, are so insecure and grasping for more and more, as if money will insulate them from the vicissitudes of life and the terrors of the unknown. As a matter of fact, it puts them right in the gun-sights of the cosmos. The money and wealth thing is an ancient dance with a timeless resolution. It's as problematic for those who possess it as it is for those who don't possess it. It affects everything about your life but it mostly affects what you put value on and that has a great deal to do with your character and fate. It's been said that the 'love' of money is the root of all evil. That means even if you don't have it, you can still be victimized by it. America is a capitalistic society. That means that inevitably at some point it will become fascist. Imperialism is an extension of this. All systems that proclaim personal liberty in their founding documents, invariably wind up as a tyranny.

When a system like this goes into decline, as it presently has, it begins to fall at a certain arc, which steepens as it goes, until eventually one gets the impression that it simply fell off a cliff. The culture in decline is like the season of Fall. At first the leaves are very colorful, as befits the decadent tone of incipient doom. Then the leaves all get brown and finally there are stark and bare trees because the winds come. It's like that. At the end time of this kind of society, it is rule by corporations, which is why the nine vultures on The Supreme Court ruled person-hood for corporations. The laws of the land are set according to the imperatives of the market place. They no longer have to do with fair judgments, as a non respecter of class differentials. The laws become a defense mechanism for the powerful and well to do and a club and chain link fence for the poor and middle class, whose status they are responsible for. Since they are in the minority, they need all the advantages they can get.

Members of The Tribe, now openly boast about their control of the populace and the fact that the majority never reads the alternative press but gets their information from the media that they have near total control over. They have their pawns in place, whom they put forth and caused to be elected because they own the currency printing press. Because of their control of Wall Street, they can make the economy yo-yo any time they want to and this is applied as a control mechanism as well; just as it was when they engineered The Great Depression. They controlled who got elected through a combination of things; electoral fraud, media disinfo and saturation, as well as lots of money. This way they can make the laws and set policy. They inform their elected stooges about who they want appointed to the courts and all other similar postings. They control general perception and the flow of events, including false flags, which are used to bolster the population's fears about an external enemy, who is also domestically based. It's a climate of suspicion, designed to divert the mind from what they themselves are doing.

The movement of the culture and the enforcement arm of corporate will, moves relentlessly from bad to worse. One could hardly be faulted for questioning my optimism. However, I see the seeds and signs of their downfall everywhere and I know that the cosmos has a cyclicity that is the centerpiece of its operative schematic. This I can see everywhere, directly in Nature and indirectly in the culture, where Nature has been adapted. This is a given for me. I've looked at it long and hard and... I believe deeply as well. There is an order to things. Possibly many cannot see this but for me it's hiding in plain sight all over the place.

There is a certain clownish buffoonery that comes about in the last stages of the end game, where overblown caricatures dominate the public viewing arenas. This is attended by, in your face criminality, by the forces of business and in the political realm as well. We see this in Mr. Corzine. People know that looting went on though they may not know who really did it and what the circumstances were. This is like unto AGI, only different (grin) and, of course, the same predatory agents are engaged in most questionable activities. The whole war on terror thing is to distract from the real terrorists and their daily looting and mass murder around the globe. Now they are going after Russia and one of their members, an oligarch, is intending to run against Putin. It's not rocket science; identifying who is doing what and where. The Newtwit has come out of the lowest popularity percentage to lead all candidates for the GOP nomination. Nothing in real time has changed. It's all a fabrication. It's all smoke and mirrors. Public perception will be shaped and electoral fraud will take care of the end process. Yet I am optimistic.

I am watching a cycle in operation. I am seeing the stages through which it moves and am noting the absurdity and living satire of the present state and as I never tire of saying; it's all for the purpose of demonstration. You are being shown. Perhaps you are not paying attention but your attention will be seized at the time intended for that to happen. We know that evil destroys itself. This destiny is built into the nature of it. Why should we expect a different outcome this time? Isn't that the definition of insanity? Doing the same thing over and over but expecting different results? No one has ever taken over the whole world. Alexander came close but no one has ever accomplished it and no one ever will. As Lao Tzu has stated, "The world is a sacred vessel, at the mere touch of the profane, it recedes".

What confuses people and compromises their optimism is the power of appearances at any stage of the game. It looks one way but it is, in essence, something else. Think about a man who on the surface seems well formed and impressive but whose bones are rotten and hollow. This is the case here. If there were any one thing that anyone should impress on their consciousness, so that it is an accepted truth that cannot be challenged, it is that 'appearances are deceiving'. The sole purpose of those manipulating appearances is deception; "By way of deception"?

Look at the uniformity of the universe. Look at the planets rotating around the sun. Look at the moon in the sky and its phases. Look at all of the circular states and conditions that are everywhere to be seen. Look at the tides. Look the seasonal migrations of the birds. The whole thing is like some gigantic multidimensional clock, which is more than a clock but it does keep time. This should be cause for optimism. Pull the curtain back from the wizard. Look closely at The Emperor. Observe The Mad Hatter's tea party. Look at allegory and the mathematical precision of the cosmos. Look at what makes your computer function, both electrically and in terms of the manner in which it presents and processes information. Look at the internet and think of global telepathy and resonance. Think of consciousness unifying and creating a dynamic of judgment that is an extension of group consciousness. Yes, the group consciousness has been hijacked but this is The Apocalypse.

Look at the pronouncements of all the greatest books ever written. They are all similar when they talk about conditions and where they lead. Meanwhile, the circus goes on and the carnival and the games of chance continue. Chance is not as random as it seems and luck is simply one of Nature's laws that is not properly understood. When we think of the laws of Nature, from which we adapt the powers and routines by which a society operates, we need to keep in mind that there are a great many laws that the majority of us are unaware of. The discovery of new laws are tied directly to major advances in the state of our existence. Some of us discover some of these laws by self introspection. "The proper study of mankind is man"; gnosti seauton. Those so engaged have reason to be optimistic. Those not so engaged have reason to be pessimistic. A simple adjustment in one's basic perspective, effects immediate change.

Most all of these players on the grand stage of the moment are fools. They are ridiculous caricatures of themselves. Bill O'Reilly, with his umbrella, threatening to punch someone out is a bombastic and clueless embarrassment. We look at these talking heads and we assign importance to them because they have wide ranging face power. They make a lot of money. This pings on the subconscious and causes the masses to grant fealty. They are not important and they are nothing more than unamusing clowns. There is a reason for all of this reality TV that is not reality. There is a reason for all of the crazy and moronic spectacles of the moment. If you are treated as if you are stupid, you naturally accommodate to that subliminal invasion and act accordingly.

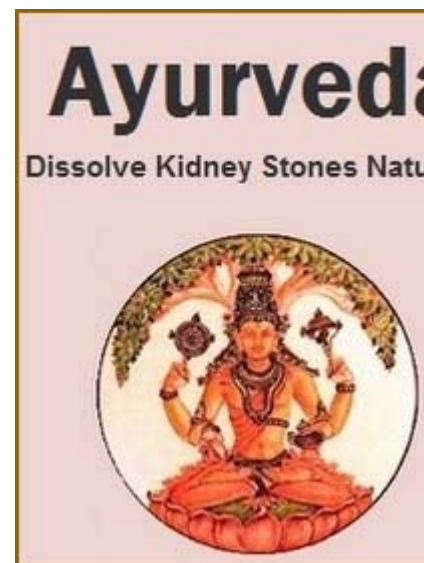

The whole gamut of the field of entertainment, music and the arts has been brought to its present state as evidence of something. This should be cause for optimism. The power within is greater than the power without. If the universe is behind you, nothing can be against you. The shadow, as has been said infinitum here, has only the power that you grant it. It is only a shadow. The hollow men are just that. Things can change in a twinkling and will at some point and then appearances will be redefined. The name Adam means, 'namer of things'. This is how you create your world and how it comes to be a prison in many cases. We have to name things correctly. We have to identify where the real power lies; not the appearance of power. We have to know the difference between shadow and substance. We have only ourselves to blame if we are seduced into believing what is not or ever will be true and "waking up is hard to do".

End Transmission.

Do I need to even say it that I was having many of the exact same thoughts yeaterday. Reading this blog is becoming an exercise in reading my thoughts from the previous day. Instead of the healthy man with rotten bones analogy I was using the McMansion with termites analogy, same principles at play. A reason for compassion is to think of my own shadow and to know how hard, at times, my limited awkening has been, for me and many others. The awakening we individuals are experiencing with all of its attendant ups and downs, is being experienced en masse by society. Imagine awakening and starting shadow work with no context for it. The great scythe of nature is an in your face, yearly reminder of the imperanence of worldly things and yet so many continue to pursue worthless trinkets at the price of their soul and a guaranteed 26,000 year time share on the wheel of karma. Oh well, it is what it is. Demonstration, how could it be for anything else.

Les:

You are obviously a very evolved soul and much of what you say resonates with me. I read the rehash of "the Protocols" you referred to in a recent post about the "enemy of mankind". I just want to point out that greed knows no boundaries--nor does evil. Greed and the perception of earthly power that wealth encourages fuel hubris and bring calamity, but it is not confined to Jews.

It has always occurred to me that our Creator (whether or not the Gnostics were right) spread out the truly righteous throughout all religions, races and the nations they inhabit. Greed is a human thing, not a Jewish thing. There are plenty of poor Jews and rich Christians...so what? Whenever people start labelling one group as universally evil and responsible for the woes of others, it creates the excuse for more evil. Don't you think?

Jews don't control the mass media in this country--the military-industrial-complex both owns and thus controls the bulk of the mass media in America which has resulted in the dumbed-down pablum they pass off as news today. Check out the corporate ownership flow charts and this becomes apparent.

I can look around and ascribe blame as good as the next guy, but it certainly won't be based on race, genetics or religious ideology. The real battleground is in the heart of every soul--in the heart that will be weighed in the balance with a feather. To deny the spark of divinity--however clouded--within any living soul is to deny your own divine nature.

I wrote the following after an epiphany on the vernal equinox of 1985:

To the Travelers:

To those that wake from walking dreams and realize life's not as it seems,

whose synapses span the aeons past and find themselves aware at last upon this finite world of dust enslaved by hunger pain and lust,

do not forget the Decree Divine that sent you to this place in time:

I believe the "optimism" that you and some of us feel out here in real-life has to do with the perceived "awakening" of humankind around the world, and especially here in the US.

When you look at polls that give Ron Paul 75% of the vote,...even though you know the game's rigged and we are just waiting for the "management technique" that will be employed to compromise or eliminate Mr. Paul,...you come to hope that the "good folk" of our country / world are beginning to stand on their own two legs, identify the criminal class among us, and,... hopefully,...begin to take action and to live our lives in a manner that supports our belief system. I know that many Americans are creepy, crap-desiring souls who have been raised on TV ads and idiot "teachers" who haven't a clue,...

However,..many Americans,..at their core,..many Americans care deeply about the founding principles of the US, they care about true adherence to fair,equitable laws that are enforced equally among the rich and poor,..but I think I lot of Americans have been waiting for "them" to come on in and save our asses,..i.e. the politicians, the business leaders, the police or military,..many folks think that "things are bad,..but someone will save the day",...

Perhaps now they are realizing that the only person saving them will be themselves, through their own positive actions in defending and redefining what freedom really means.....

So the crowd is beginning to fight back hopefully, though some have been fighting since November 22, 1963 for such a thing, I think more and more folks are seeing the outlines of a future they do not wish to participate in,...

The Porch

The circle of life gets smaller, closing in as we get burned.
Age can take us by the hand, harshly, teaching what we'd learned.

Lessons learned, but not applied.
lost lives of vagrant intent.
Hapless souls running around, seeking blame, on someone to vent.

Curtains dropping, on oh so many,
in lives of hand-built regret.
Gambles we chose, to help us through,
probably, not a great bet.

Isn't that what life's about,
the wager of our choices?

Scroll to
Top

Outcomes left to idiot chance, circling, smaller, quiet voices?

All of that, it does amaze me,
still, so many want to stay.
Fight the odds, and stick around,
as if there's still something to say?

How many souls even get there,
so joyously, when looking back?
Knowing the path to get here,
was it always the right track?

End it now, or, linger on,
what way does it really matter?
Lives of hope, scattered about,
damaged souls, deeply shattered.

But isn't that the evil thing, never knowing what's to come?
Today may be corruptly fucked, tomorrow, brightly lit for some.

To never see around the bend,
to know little of our chances?
A life complete, knowledge with age,
our life clock slowly advances.

Sitting on the damned front porch,
it's mainly what I'm good at now.
Life was fun, I had a good time, perhaps the porch is my final bow?

Frankie, I see most of what is called luck as an expression of Grace and also a feature of serendipity where one is in sync with the cosmic order so that the usual results don't occur like they do for most people. I experience all sorts of things that one might call luck but I don't it that because I believe every single event in my life, no matter how insignificant it may seem is an expression of the divine interacting with me.

Thank you, Les.

The way people view money never ceases to amaze me. I worked at an attorney's office once upon a time. The attorney approached me as one of his client's was just leaving and informed me of what a good catch this man would be for me, then launched into how much money the man had and he was only 32 years old. I said, "oh, but what kind of person is he?" The attorney looked at me as if I had sprouted two heads.

Consider this as indicative of the Great Divide in the consciousness and acculturation of the American people. Les, you point out the absurdity of the Neutered GingerGrinch leading the Republican field according to the 'polling' organizations. Now take a close look at the simple physiognomy of the dude. I mean look at the Neutered one's face, his complexion, his eyes! Famously, it was asked whether you would buy a used car from Richard Nixon. But eye of Newt?

The consciousness and cultural divide, IMHO, has to do with precisely the programming, the limning of a realityscape; which is the entire province of the Boobtoob and its Zionist programmers.

Reality Check and admission. Personally, i have never allowed the One-Eyed-God into my home. However, when at a friend's house where the set is on, or perhaps in a hotel room where the device is the only show in the joint; only moments lapse before inner control over my perceptions gives way to the hypnotic demands of that medium.

Yes, with all my alleged awareness and purported rising consciousness level, my own perspectives are swept up into the vacuum tube, or currently its digital upgrades. The metaphor of the vacuum tube is more precise, however, because that is the effect of the commanding presence in the room.

Now consider the circumstances of Boobus Amerikkkanus, the Great Overwashed (to update H.L Mencken), the everyday working stiff who has just put in his hour's commuting adventure on top of those eight hours toiling for the Man. Frazzled nerves and bored body compounded by a lowgrade headache and he's ready for a few cans of Bud Blight or Miller Swiller, a bag of chips and some quality time in the easy chair where the

Magic Box can transport him into a dee[er dimensional daze.

Alienated via the contemporary dearth of true community, psychically divorced from his spouse and totally out of it with his texting tweens and teens; Joe Sixpack truly does not have a life.
Circumstances have devolved him into an ersatz human being who actively seeks out a medium that can enhance the deadening quality of his existence. That medium is all too easy to find and it is all too ready to define for him that which is real and that which is beyond the pale.

Nineteen Arabs armed with boxcutters magically managed to shut down U.$ air defenses for a couple of hours. They also magically propelled complex airliners into aerobatics which would be the envy of professional pilots with 10,000 hours of flying time. Those airliners also magically tumbled Twin Towers designed to withstand a direct hit from a Boeing jetliner. My rationalist, materialist, academicist, atheist, Darwinist, Marxist, positivist, utilitarian and existentialist friend claims to be able to read between the lines on teevee noose and dismisses viewpoints differing from the official 911 line as "magical thinking conspiracy theories".

So you see, it's not only Joe Sixpack who's been programmed.

Cognitive Dissonance describes a huge swath of the 'educated' elite, who for professional and affinity group reasons, consciously or unconsciously act as gatekeepers for the programmed realitätscape and thus, even if self-professed 'revolutionaries' are, in the words of Eldridge Cleaver slightly rearranged, part of the problem, not the solution.

We are, however, at a time of transition, nearing the locus of a cosmic moment of grace, where even those we feel to be among the terminally deluded, suddenly experience the scales being yanked off their eyes. We will forgive them for their temporal lapses and welcome them into the great turning via the Wheel of Karma.

I am teaching my children much of what you say here, and they are beginning to understand.

I would also like to add that I wear a uniform and many of us are not going along with the program.

My mind is my own.

Thanks.

My father wore a uniform for 30 years. One brother was in 20 years, Delta Force. All the other brothers and myself were in for varying lengths of time. I am gratified to hear what you have to say about your mind being your own. I suspect there are more of you than most might think. Thank you for showing up and making my day.

HSH,

I know I probably will not get any answer to these questions but I am asking anyway.

What the fuck is so attractive about making a fool of yourself for all to see.

Do you make money for doing this? If so I am very curious to know how much?

You seem to have a disconnection to reality and seem to think this is somewhere in the past when folks like you could tell any bullshit story and have people hanging on every word.

Times are changing my friend, so if you wish to lead others astray, you really need to take a zio refresher course or however you idiots are trained for this foolishness.

For the life of me I cannot see why anyone would ever choose to knowingly write such trash.

Thank you Les and all,

Yeah, it is pretty clear that the USA is in a state of decline culturally and financially. America still has a lot of influence in the world but the nation, as a whole, is rotting from the inside. More and more Americans are waking up to a nation which is not the nation they believed they lived in. As the nation keep falling into decline, the dirty slime balls in control will become more transparent. Those in control are going to have a harder time hiding who they are and what they do. It is only a matter of time before massive social unrest comes to America.

Stickman - The first person you described is my husband. The second person would be my boss. How'd you know?

I throw what I can to each of them and can only hope a 'ping' goes off somewhere inside them.

It's so difficult for me to develop useful skills in this atmosphere without any help other than what I find here.

At least I can get a 'ping' here every time.

Thanks to you people.

I wish we could do this completely flash mob style ... but alas.

Just to answer a few frequently asked questions about Visible's upcoming visit.

There are 3 phases ..

VISIT WITH VISIBLE - 15 to 19 January - Personal and group time with Visible and his other guests. A little informal, as the gatherings flow.

CORE WEEKEND - 20, 21, 22 January - More formalized group work starting at about 11 or 12am and going on to when it is done.

MORE VISIT WITH VISIBLE - 23 to 27 January - Personal and group time with Visible and his other guests. A little informal, as the gatherings flow.

Some people are staying for the whole time, and others come in for the first part or the second part and core weekend only.

- During the Visiting, I'm sure someone will suggest and make arrangements for field trips. We are not organizing field trips outside of what may come up in the group. I get requests for a trip to the Yucatan - this is 2,500 kilometers away. We're not organizing anything like that.

- Budgeting Basics - Visitors are responsible for their own travel costs and their own accommodation costs. As soon as I know how many people will be down for the Gathering, and how many are sharing, I can be exact on the accommodation. Currently budget on $15.00 for a shared room per night. Double that if you do not share. Besides some meals which we will offer because it is just easier this way to have people eating together while we are gathering together, people are responsible for their own meals. There is a little kitchen in the apartments in the aparthotel and I will probably put some basics into each shared apartment. (This is just because I know this is the kind of stuff that I do).

- Travelling - Besides helping as much as we can with traveling and directions, I'm the wrong one to ask for route planning. On the US side I will almost certainly lead you wrong, and on the Mexico side we will have a telephone assist if necessary. We will pick up from the airport and make clear where the Gathering Venue is and how to get to places. Depending on how many people come, the Gathering Venue may be changed so, I do not want to announce this now. Full travel details are here on the event tab - with a map - <http://www.les-visible.com/the-community/events/viewevent/12-meet-up-with-visible.html>.

I will send a detailed city map to

Scroll to Top

those that are travelling in by car as soon as you confirm.

- Local Trips - Chihuahua is a big modern city - and driving conditions are as in other big modern cities. I would suggest to take Local Cabs costing just about around U$ 5 to go anywhere. This is a good and cheap way to travel for short in-city trips. The accommodation and meeting venue and supermarket are within walking distance. (I hope you all are fit and at least some are happy sitting on seating cushions (grins).

- As for the rest, I'll do a email to everyone again to finalize accommodation costs as soon as I can and as soon as a few more people have made their decisions.

Again, you can find me here to make arrangements :

Les --

I guess the time has come to identify The Tribe once and for all...

Who are these murderous degenerates? They have an identifiable religion and its proper name is The Cult of Aries and their

Scroll to Top

ram cult was ushered in by the Jews, the Greeks, the Egyptians, Persians etc. to replace the The Age of the Bull, Taurus.

Aries The Ram was considered an exclusively male deity, as Aries is the 1st sign of the Zodiac. As an exclusively male deity he is worshiped through male homosexual sex. The Ram is also a warrior -- so homosexual warriors were its elite soldiers -- this is most clearly shown in the Spartans.

The horn of the ram is seen as a spiral, so the cult of Aries worships The Typhon or the Whirlwind and all the destructive forces associated with it including murder, lying, bloodshed, human sacrifice, etc... But above all the others THEY WORSHIP THE CHAOS caused by the whirlwind.

The Ancients called the cult of Aries after the God Cronus -- Time, which divides eternity and causes death.. thus human sacrifice etc. The Egyptians called this God Set. The Semites called this God Jehovah. The Greeks called this God Apollo... Apollonian... The Phoenicians called this God Moloch/Baal...

Why Jerusalem as a center for the Ram Cult? Because it guards the lowest point on Earth where Moloch/Jehovah rules. This is the other node of the mountaintop where he was offered sacrifice.

Scroll to Top

Why the promised land? Simple...

Jerusalem was already the Egyptian capitol of the God Set before the Exodus. The Egyptian Habiru (Hebrews) already worshipped Aries the Ram -- thus the EXISTING center at Jerusalem for the Ram cult was promised to them as an inheritance.

This cult was also practiced in Greece under Apollo and this is what unites Masons and Jews -- the worship of the Ram -- warlike, lying, perverted God of chaos and debauchery) as opposed to pleasure ruled over by Mercury Dionysus...

The irony here is that worshipers of the Ram are trying to rule the coming age of Aquarius.... Never gonna work....

Les, I have continued 'snorting' to clear my mind and then picture my most favored Deity as you instructed. I would like to share the results of approx 2 weeks worth of this exercise with all of you. I feel remarkably more peaceful, more forgiving, less anxious and less angry at what is happening on center stage. Today
