

'NATO planning military attack on Iran'

Russia's envoy to NATO Dmitry Rogozin

Russia's envoy to NATO Dmitry Rogozin says the NATO is planning a military strike against the Islamic Republic to overthrow the Iranian government.

Rogozin said in an interview with Russia's Izvestia daily newspaper published on Friday that the NATO was pursuing a long-reaching goal of preparing an attack on Iran, adding that the alliance intends to change governments whose views do not coincide with those of the West.

"The noose around Iran is tightening. Military planning against Iran is underway. And we are certainly concerned about an escalation of a large-scale war in this huge region," Rogozin added.

The Russian envoy further pointed out that Syria and later Yemen could be NATO's last steps on the way to launch an attack on Iran.

This comes as there are speculations that Israel is preparing for an attack on Iran's nuclear facilities to divert attention from Palestinian efforts to join the United Nations.

Last month, former CIA agent Robert Baer said he is almost certain that such an attack has been scheduled for September ahead of a UN vote on recognizing a Palestinian state.

Britain is ticking, we do feel the pain of the Mighty NATO war machines atrocities against the world, we do see the violence, we arent all asleep yet, we will wake up en mass and help to remove the corrupt Zionist regime, you just may have to wait until everyone has finished watching Eastenders, have put their joint out or can maybe get a day off work (if they have a job). When people here are hungry, they will change, well the ones who've eaten the rest will, then they'll eat you !! ;-)

If the United States, along with NATO and Israel are planning to attack Iran, it would be a violation of International Law. Iran has done nothing to provoke the United States or Europe. Is oil so important that millions of people have to die? I sincerely hope that this is just a rumor.

Only nuclear weapon can terrorize Iran's enemies . Our iran must think very quickly rather than later after incident .

This is a message to the IRGC and the government:You should develop a small hand held radar system, linked to a laptop computer, linked to a small solar pv panel.This should have a detection range of about 100 or 200 miles, so that people can hand carry this, and have early warning of planes.The first thing the western forces will do is destory all your radar systems.You must have thousands of hand-portable radar systems.

If it was that easy, they would have done it. As of this writing, none of them has a working knowledge of Iran-made radars. Every imported military aircraft radar in Iran has been replaced with Iran-made one. Better radars I might add. Iran-made portable satellite receivers and airborne radars have been operational for years now. Iran has layers of electronic security perhaps more than her enemies.

Well bring it on NATO crusaders. We broke seven Crusades and the one in which we did not teach them a lesson was the one in which we did not take part. It's time we taught you boys and girls a lesson in manners. Beware the day that the skies turn black with our arrows! The world is in chaos. One main reason is the US and EU politicians puppet of Zionism are in power. Zionists whether jewish or christians have infiltrated in high positions, presidents, PMs, Ministers, together with Western dominated jewish media and Hollywood. In fact, Hollywood is jewish demonizing Muslims. All for the sake of IsraHell!

Always keep in mind, there are still tons of jews/zionists present in the Russian nomenclatura, who evaded de-Stalinization, and who still exert a considerable influence. So, if some Russian representative speaks about Iran, one always has to sort out that part which is influenced by the interests of those sinister figures.

This is psychological warfare and nothing to take serious. They give the Russian that impression and the Russian repeat that impression since them Russia is seen as more credible by Iran. The USA/EU AKA NATO appreciate Iran support for Karzai, Libyan rebels and their puppet rulers in Iraq, plus they know Iran has capability that can end their presence in the region.

Iranians never entertain such scare tactics. Iran and Iranians have proven themselves as they will yet again should it be needed. Aside from that, NATO has problems of its own at least for now. Finally and more importantly, this should be taken very seriously by Iranian leadership who ought to push ahead rapidly and without any delay to give Iranians the very same means and arms their foes have in order to defend themselves if needed.

Russia needs to stop using Iran as a wall to hide behind to escape its diminished importance. The noose is actually tightening around Russia's neck as NATO seeks to render its military capacity and deterrence something it can neutralize. Don't hide behind Iran. It's easy for any lay person to say "attack Iran's nuclear facilities". The question is: how does one initiate it, carry it out, and get away with it? September will come and go while cowards still hide behind terrorists.

NATO plan attacking & invading Iran has been on drawing boards for years, the plan is to destroy over 1300 sites includes country's economic life lines, military installations all across Iran, late September/ early October timeline. The final plan is to invade, occupy and divide Iran between "Ethnic & Religious Divide" into pieces. There won't be Iran left at the end.

They are a lot smarter than you give them credit. They are not suicidal and will not even dream about attacking Iran. The western economies are in the tank and initiating a war with Iran will be long lasting and devastating to their economies.

When he says: "Syria and later Yemen could be NATO's last steps on the way to launch an attack on Iran." One could translate it to: Sefyani raises from Sham and occupies Syria. Yemani raises with Yemeni-flag, and Khorasani raises with Black-flag at the same day/time. Sefyani will engage them militarily. He didn't say anything about the outcome though, but the translated version says Saefyani will be defeated in 15-mounts.

It is to the best interest of Russia to get out of Iran's hair. On the hindsight if NATO has a second thoughts on this scheme of works Russia is trying to facilitate it for NATO in exchange for something. There is a pattern in Russian's policy (i.e., Iraq, Afghanistan, Libya, Syria.) Russia always end up on the wrong side of the equation and has the tendency to exacerbate the situation.

Once upon a time Russia had Emperor Nicholas II who loved to proclaim freedom, then Dictator Stalin to proclaim equality and now President Medvedev to proclaim democracy. Funny thing, since the 13th century Russia was always been a totalitarian despotism, akin to brutal imperialism and now as ever --- still as corrupt as ever. So, how can we rely on a Russian vision of the future, when it has absolutely no vision of history, so as not to repeat bad history.

Apparently Russia's Intel appears quite different. There is no sign of NATO planning any attack on Iran, certainly not an open war beyond their current terrorist operations. They may be fools but they understand that war with Iran will not only affect the entire region but Russia as well because the only way they will win it and end further conflict will be to use nuclear weapon and kill more than 60 percent of Iranians, that will also kill a lot of Russians and beyond.

I am sure Iran is fully aware of the skulduggery and mischief being played out in the West. I am also sure Iran is fully prepared for USrael to make their move. We all know it will be their last. Empires come and go, and this monstrous beast is on its last leg and on its way out. I only hope the American people wake up in time, for even they are under attack by the Council of 13 under Obama.

Disturbing news sounds plausible, considering the despair of USD, Euro/Sterling. With so many countries involved, can't remain regional for long WW III !?

nato and israel could do whatever they like because the free countries of the world do not stand up together. take the case of libya.one can take sides between the ghaoddafi and rebel faction but no one can condone the involvement of nato and the coalition of colonial forces in the killing of innocent libyans particularly children. your media sir is not different from the western media in the libyan case.

Fear not people, Iran is the stick which will break this devils backs, like clouds being drawn to relieve the heat of a hot summer day, these fools are being drawn to iran as their reign has come to an end. God is the best of judges. You stay at the top for a time and how you deal with others when you're at the top is what determines your fall.. So Iran will be their downfall....
