They come in all shapes and sizes. The above shot has the sub-continental Watusi version meeting the European troll Druid types. They have many disguises, but love places of power and position, and especially anything to do with money and energy.

They also love the military as that's their main play thing, along with science and advancements in eugenics, since death and destruction are such a thrill to their bloodthirsty species.

Fun With Reptoids

You can spot them several ways. Here's 11 ways to get you started. Enjoy. Gotta warn you, they're a very strange lot...

Oh, they also like to live in big, spooky castles and vast estates with secret tunnels and stuff to do their reptoid rituals, very important. They invite the other initiates over on special days and do weird things together. Funny bunch these critters. Just wish they'd keep to themselves and stop bothering and trying to herd the rest of us. It will backfire though...with our help.

And 11...They Shapeshift...

Speaking of reptoids "in the news", see what you think of these clips....

Hey, you explain it then. Definitely something to wonder about.

Keep on wondering, Zen
